ROBBERS TAKE $1,200 IN DAYLIGHT HOLDUP AS THRONGS LOOK ON

Trio Robs Employes of McCrory's in Front of 7th Street Store.

DRAGNET SPREAD IN CAPITAL, BALTIMORE

Getaway Car, Driven by Fourth Thug, Vanishes in Dense Traffic.

DARING JOB THIRD OF KIND IN TWO WEEKS

Arrests Held Near, With Auto Owner Believed Known; Also Two of Participants.

Police early this morning were closing in on four men who held up two employes of thhe J. G. McCrory Five and Ten Cent Store shortly after 6 o'clock last night and escaped with $1,200. The holdup occurred in front of the store at 416 Seventh street northwest when Earl Flory, 34 years old, the assistant manager, and Harvey W. Smith, 20-year-old messenger, were on their way to the Second National Bank a half block away.

Within a short time after the robbery occurred police had traced the ownership of the car used by the bandits. It is said to be the property of a man who was recently released from the penitentiary. This man is said to live in Baltimore.

Third in Two Weeks.

Taking charge of the chase for the bandits, Inspector William S. Shelby, head of the local Detective Bureau, sent two detectives to Baltimore, and an all-night vigil was prepared by Baltimore detectives at the home of the man who is said to own the car. Two police cars were ordered to patrol the District in search of the bandit car.

Ploice claimed that they know the identity of at least two of the men who participated in the holdup, and this fact heightened the belief that arrest of the quartet would be a matter of a few hours.

Staged in broad daylight, with the streets filled with traffic and throngs of shoppers, the holdup was the third of its kind perpetrated in the District in the last two weeks. The forerunners were the holdup of the cashier of Children's Hospital and the theft of $4,000 from a messenger of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank. Arrests have been made in the latter case.

Accosted on Sidewalk.

Acting with a precision indicating that they were thoroughly familiar with the store's routine, the four men were seated in the machine parked at the curb directly in front of the store when Smith and Flory walked out, bearing a small satchel.

Leaving one man at the wheel of the car, with its motor running slowly, three of the group stepped out and accosted the employes as they stepped off the curb to walk across the street. One of the brandished a pistol, commanding:

"Gimme what you got, or we'll blow your brains out."

Disappear in Traffic.

Smith and Flory wasted no time in obeying. The three men ran to the waiting car, which sped away through a maze of traffic and was lost to sight as it disappeared toward Pennsylvania avenue.

A premonition of invasion by the underworld was evidenced by the management of the McCrory establishment last week when police protection was asked. The only reason given for this protection was that the money in the store was taken to the bank each evening.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The successful flight of the R-100 again challenges our progress in aviation.

Notwithstanding our original discoveries, our efforts to build military planes during the war were feverish but, owing perhaps to the limited time, were not highly successful. These experiments, however, did produce plant equipment and engineering skill. During mobilization, this arm of national defense was somewhat neglected. The elders in the Army and Navy were impatient with the claim of the youth in aviation. The Morrow committee in 1925 laid out a wise plan which quieted the disputes and confusion. Then came the Lindbergh flight with its great impetus to public interest.

After that date, commercial aviation had a wide development. The regular mileage for passenger and mail carrying routes in North and South America expanded tremendously. Much capital and railroad support were secured, but just now progress awaits scientific discovery. A naval office reports that the best engine is made abroad. That is disconcerting. With the resources now available the science of construction and the art of safe navigation ought to command the most intense research by both private and governmental agencies. We can not afford any second place.

HERRICK IS CHARGED WITH TENDING STILL

Former House Member Says He Watched Boiler at $15 Weekly, Raiders Claim.

BOND LACKING, IS JAILED

Clad in blue denim overalls, and wearing a three-day growth of beard, a man who once represented his district as a dry in Congress was arraigned before the United States commissioner at Baltimore yesterday on charges of operating a still in St. Marys County, Md.

He is Manuel Herrick, 53, whose $10,000 a year salary as a representative from Oklahoma had dwindled to $15 a week as boiler tender at the still. Federal prohibition agents who made the arrest said that they had watched Herrick at work on the still before they closed in on the plant, arresting the former representative, a man named William S. Airey, and a Negro who gave his name as Pious B. Ennels. A fourth man escaped.

Commissioner Harry N. Abercrombie held the three for the Federal grand jury, under bond of $1,500 each. The agents failed to press a charge that Herrick had impersonated an officer, but asked that his bond be fixed at $2,500 pending investigation.

Herrick is said to have told the officers that he had applied for a job as an undercover man several weeks ago at the office of Prohibition Administrator Amos W. W. Woodcock. In Mr. Woodcock's absence, he said, he had been referred to J. P. Moore, and as a result of his conversation he went to work at the still, believing that he had been employed as an agent.

Living alone in a one-room shack, he worked as boiler tender on the 500 gallon still, he said. When arrested he told of other liquor connections, and offered to reveal the location of a number of stills, but was not able to make good his claims, the agents said.

Airey, one of the men arrested with Herrick, provided the bond required

17 DEAD IN NOGALES FLOOD; 40 MISSING

Soldiers and Citizens Hunt Victims Amid Debris on Mexican Border.

HOTEL FALLS IN WATER

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Mayor A. C. Villasenor, of Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, tonight estimated seventeen persons were drowned in his city by the flood which swept these twin border towns. The estimate was based on a complete check of the list of missing.

Forty were reported missing early today.

Bodies of two unidentified women were swept to the Arizona side. That of another was taken from a collapsed house.

One hotel, one two-story tenement house and twenty other adobe homes collapsed between midnight and dawn as the surging water, five to six feet deep, tore through the two towns. Most of the damage, as was the loss of life, was on the Sonora side where the brunt of the water's onslaught was borne.

More than 100 persons were homeless, while occupants of 50 other houses, threatened with collapse, were ordered out by the Mexican police.

The American Red Cross, the chamber of commerce and the Nogales, Ariz., posts of the American Legion sent out appeals for aid. These organizations reported that 3,000 Mexicans, mostly laborers, were affected by the cloudburst's devastation in the adjoining town. Jose Valenzuela, Mexican consul here, sent a similar appeal to the Mexican White Cross at Mexico City.

Searchers believed that some of the bodies may have been swept down the stream running under concrete covers through International street, which divides the two towns, into the Santa Cruz River, 12 miles away.

During the height of the torrent, caused by heavy rains, geysers spouted from this midtown stream and deluged many residences.

Many adobe houses were wrecked

FESS ASSUMES HUSTON'S POST IN DULL PARLEY

Retiring Chieftain Flays Critics in Statement of Resignation.

R. H. LUCAS NAMED EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN

Ohio Senator Outlines Plan for Vigorous Campaign.

SELECTION OF KLEIM CAUSE OF SURPRISE

Mann's Threat Ignored by Party Leaders, at Least Temporarily.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

For a matter that has held the political spotlight for so long and been attended by so much hullabaloo, the retirement yesterday of Chairman Claudius Huston, of the Republican national committee, and the naming of Senator Simeon D. Fess in his place, was strangely undramatic.

Had it not been, in fact, for the presence of seven women members of the executive committee who like to attend these meetings, there would not have been a corporal's guard to witness what was later emphasized as an epochal Republican meeting.

This, perhaps, arose from the appointment of Robert H. Lucas, Internal Revenue Commissioner, as chairman of the executive committee, to stay at the Barr Building all the time, and the militant campaign slogan which Senator Fess immediately sounded. It is to be "It is not our fault!"

Attitude of Chairman.

Under Mr. Lucas the committee, although heretofore largely inactive in off-year campaigns, is to embark upon an intensive educational campaign, Mr. Fess said, to prove to the American people that the administration is, of course, neither responsible for the depression nor the drouth.

Some disaffection because of conditions is recognized, the senator said, but this country is better off than others, and Americans are a fair-minded people. When they are told the truth they will recognize it, he believes, and inasmuch as the truth is to be told them he is confident the Republicans will retain control in both the House and the Senate.

Only six men members attended the meeting, Mr. Huston, the victim, making seven.

Such party stalwarts as Dave Mulvane, Pat Sullivan, of Wyoming; Clarence S. Hamlin, of Colorado, and Ralph S. Williams, of Oregon, were absent. Mulvane was probably too busy defeating Gov. Clyde Reed of Kansas for renomination. Both he and Sullivan, together with some lesser absentees, sent their attendance tickets to Thad Brown, Frank W. Mondell, James H. MacLafferty and others who are living here in

RIGHT TO HEAR EVIDENCE WON BY CAMPBELL

COURT RULES GUILT LIKELIHOOD NEEDED

Accused Man's Lawyer Confident That Client Will Be Freed.

ORIGINAL WARRANT HELD SATISFACTORY

Rehearing Will Take Place Today or Tomorrow, Is Prediction.

(By Staff Correspondent of The Post.)

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 7.—The court fight to remove Herbert M. Campbell to Washington for trial in the murder of Mary E. Baker, shifted back to Alexandria tonight when Federal Judge D. Lawrence Groner remanded the case to U. S. Commissioner J. Barton Phillips, with instructions that likelihood of guilt should be proved before the prisoner may be removed.

In addition to this, he ordered the commissioner to permit the defense to enter testimony to rebut that of the Government in its attempt to prove probability of guilt. In other words, he directed that what amounts to a preliminary hearing should be held.

The decision of the judge constitutes a victory for Defense Attorney Charles H. Smith, who, among other things, contended that likelihood of his client's guilt should be shown and that venue should be proved.

Bond Is Satisfied.

Assistant United States Attorney Calhoun Jones expressed himself as satisfied with the ruling and immediately notified Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins, of Washington, to assemble his witnesses for the hearing, which will likely be held Friday or Saturday.

In his decision, given in the Federal Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, Judge Groner asserted that certification of a case from a U. S. commissioner to a Federal judge for instructions such as were asked in this case is without precedent.

Judge Groner ruled that it is sufficient for the Government to prove that the prisoner is the man named in the indictment and that he was in the District of Columbia on the day of the murder. But it is also necessary, he decided, that the prisoner should have the right to disprove, if possible, any evidence introduced which pointed toward his guilt. Campbell admitted to Commissioner Phillips that he was in the District of Columbia on April 11, the day of the murder.

Murder Warrant Approved.

Judge Groner told the attorneys that he had examined the original

HULL ASSUMES LEAD OVER TODD IN EARLY TENNESSEE RETURNS

Gov. Horton Also Ahead in His Contest for Renomination.

BROCK LEAVES NEAL TRAILING BY 16,842

Reece and Price Running Neck and Neck, First Reports Reveal.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Representative Cordell Hull was leading Andrew L. Todd, his nearest opponent, by a comfortable margin in the race for the Democratic nomination for the six-year United States Senate term, tonight when more than one-third of the ballot boxes had been reported.

Unofficial returns from 855 precincts out of 2,251 gave Hull 47,375, Todd 29,721.

Gov. Henry H. Horton, seeking Democratic nomination to another two-year term, was leading L. E. Gwinn, of Memphis, on the face of unofficial returns from 914 precincts out of 2,251. The vote was: Horton, 54,664; Gwinn, 40,809.

Brock Leading Neal.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for United States senator for the short term from November to March, Senator William E. Brock, incumbent, was leading Dr. John R. Neal, when returns from 840 precincts, out of 2,251, were tabulated, the vote stood: Brock, 28,057; Neal, 11,215.

Todd's plea for support for the long term Democratic senatorial nomination was based partly on a proposal to substitute Federal income and excess profits taxes for State and municipal levies for schools, roads and public health work. Federal funds, under his plan, would be prorated to the States.

This plan was branded by his opponent, Representative Cordell Hull, as a "Santa Claus proposition." Todd accused Hull of connection with power interests during the last Democratic national convention, an accusation that Hull described as "another fabrication."

Long Record in Congress.

Hull, 59 years old, has represented the Fourth District for eleven terms, is a former chairman of the Democratic national committee and was Tennessee's "favorite son" at the Houston convention two years ago.

Todd, 56, is a capitalist and landowner. He advocated a tax system of "no income, no taxes; no profit, no taxes." Both Hull and Todd are dry and are Baptists.

David W. Dodson, Nashville educator, contested with Todd and Hull, but expressed no hope or nomination, which was by plurality.

Brock Seeks Short Term.

Senator William E. Brock, Democrat incumbent, sought only the nomination for the senatorial term that expires in March. Dr. John R. Neal, Knoxville attorney, opposed him. Brock was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of the late Lawrence D. Tyson.

Gov. Henry H. Horton sought nomination from the Democrats "on his record." He was opposed by L. E. Gwinn, Memphis attorney and former State senator.

Republicans chose between C. Arthur Bruce, Memphis lumberman, and Harry T. Burn, Sweetwater attorney, in selecting a candidate for the governorship. They nominated, without opposition, Paul E. Divine, Johnson City attorney, for the long term in the Senate, and F. Todd

AMERICANS CUT OFF BY CHINESE BANDITS

State Department Worried Over Safety of Maryland Group in Kanchow.

AGED MISSIONER KILLED

(Associated Press.)

Fears were held by State Department officials last night for the safety of Americans trapped in the Chinese city of Kanchow, in the midst of a vast bandit-infested area 300 miles inland from Foochow.

Five days ago, on instructions of the American Legation at Peiping, the American Consulate at Hankow telegraphed to Bishop O'Shea, of the Catholic mission at Kanchow, urging that he warn all Americans to withdraw. The legation's instructions were sent after a warning message had been received from Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese minister for foreign affairs, that Gen. Ma, of the local military forces at Kanchow, would withdraw.

Since then no word has been received from Kanchow and it was feared tonight the Americans might have decided to remain in the unprotected city rather than attempt to withdraw to a place of safety through the bandit-infested neighboring country. Some of the 15 to 30 Americans there are connected with the Catholic mission in Kanchow.

The plight of the Americans in Kanchow shifted the attention of the department from the situation at Hankow, where Communists are threatening the city. Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, and Minister Wu, of China, discussed the Hankow situation at length with Assistant Secretary of State Castle yesterday.

The ambassador explained that while his government saw danger in the situation, the presence of a daily-growing number of foreign warships at Hankow was believed to be making the position of foreigners there easier. Minister Wu sought what information the department might have from American diplomatic and consular officers in China.

A center of the turbulence in the Chinese civil war since last April, Kanchow has been under the protection of Chinese military forces, but Gen. Ma's withdrawal, in the absence of definite word, was interpreted by department officials as indicating the Nationalists felt the need for his forces at the front to combat the Communists on one hand and Northern insurgents on the other.

The Americans in Kanchow have been warned by American consular

SITE FOR DOWNTOWN BUILDING PURCHASED

RIGGS BANK IS TRUSTEE

Sale at an unreported, all-cash consideration to Riggs National Bank, as trustee, of important business property at the intersection of Pennsylvania avenue, Thirteenth and E streets northwest, as a site for an immense building to be a credit to Washington and conforming architecturally to the Federal buildings on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, was consummated yesterday.

The property involved has a frontage of 89 feet on Pennsylvania avenue, 144½ feet on Thirteenth street and 128 feet on E street and contains 18,796 square feet. Included in the transaction is a lease to United Cigar Stores until 1939, purchased for $90,000, and one property leased to the Far East Restaurant, purchased for $85,000.

Real property included in the transaction were lots 17 and 805, fronting the southeast corner of the intersection of Thirteenth and E streets, owned by Charles Jacobsen, and site of the Sterling Hotel; lot 804, fronting the northeast corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Thirteenth street, owned by Dr. Thomas E. Ogram, and on which he operated a drug store for many years; lot 30, immediately east of the latter, and fronting Pennsylvania avenue, owned by Miss Pauline Baum, and lot 803, adjoining it on the east, owned by the Isidor Grosner estate.

Clarence Dodge, vice president of Weaver Bros., Inc., who represented the purchasers in the negotiations, declined to give any information. The Christian Heurich, jr., Realty Co. represented several of the owners in the transaction. Attorneys in the transaction were Lawrence J. Heller, representing Miss Baum; Tobriner & Graham, representing the Grosner estate; Barnum L. Colton, trust officer, District National Bank, representing Dr. Ogram.

Man's Still Keeps Son, 14, Out of Mischief

Kelso, Wash., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—B. Martin, arrested for his alleged liquor law violations, told Sheriff C. B. Dill in jail here today he had his 14-year-old son tend a still to keep him out of mischief.

Drought Peril Grows With No Relief Seen

Surgeon General Warns Against Disease as Hyde and Hoover Confer on Farm Measures; Peak of 97 Causes Prostration.

After a day of comparative comfort, the temperature here soared to 97 degrees at the Weather Bureau and 105 on the kiosk yesterday, causing one prostration and again sending thousands to nearby beach resorts and bathing pools. Bureau officials announced that today will be even warmer. The forecast included an "outside chance" for thundershowers last night and this morning.

Harry Burhill, 23 years old, of Falls Church, Va., was overcome by heat at Ridge road and W street northwest in the early afternoon. He received treatment at Casualty Hospital.

Meanwhile Governmental agencies were pressing investigation of the drought situation over the Nation. From every section reports of mounting crop damage continued to pour in. Officials believe the damage will touch the billion dollar mark, and no relief is in sight.

Surgeon General Cummings, of the United States Public Health Service, issued a statement yesterday stressing the need for rigorous enforcement of sanitation measures. In addition to possible rise of typoid fever, as a result of depleted water supplies, Mr. Cummings saw the probability of pellagra developing in parched, waterless areas.

"It is possible that results of the heat and drought, particularly the latter, may be serious," he said, "though at present I see no reason for alarm."

Milk production in Maryland faces a cut of 50 per cent because of the drought, according to Associated Press dispatches from Baltimore. Thousands of cows in Maryland herds have not had adequate pasturage for four weeks. The milk supply of Baltimore has been cut from 85,000 gallons daily to 50,000, according to Wallace Heaps, secretary of the Maryland Dairymen's Association.

New York reported a milk reduction of more than 11 per cent, and a price increase of 1 cent per quart, assessed as a relief measure for dairy farmers whose pastures have been ruined by heat and drought.

As reports of increasing distress continued to reach Washington officials, J. B. Kincer, chief of the division of agricultural meterology, said the end of the drought was not yet in sight. "I don't like calling this a catastrophe," he said, "but I hate to think what may happen if the drought isn't broken within the next two weeks."

$15,000 in Films Burn When Trucks Collide

Mexico City, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—American motion pictures, said to be worth $15,000, were destroyed by fire today in front of Mexico City's central fire station. Two trucks carrying the films were in collision and set the celluloid ablaze.

Firemen were forced to a liberal use of chemicals to keep the flames from consuming the fire station.

Methodist Commission Plans Church in Brazil

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A cablegram received here at missionary headquarters of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, told of the arrival today at Rio de Janeiro of a commission of five missionary leaders, who will assist Brazilians in setting up a National Methodist Church.

The commission, appointed at the recent quadrennial general conference in Dallas, is composed of Judge W. Erskine Williams, Fort Worth, Tex.; Bishop E. D. Mouzon, Charlotte, N. C.; Dr. F. S. Love, Raleigh, N. C.; the Rev. J. L. Clark, Danville, Ky., and Miss Esther Case, Nashville.

Mrs. N. F. Brady Plans To Be Nun Despite Riches

Receives Pope's Consent to Take Veil; May Found Convent.

Rome, Aug. 7 (N. Y. W. N. S.).—Mrs. Nicholas Brady, widow of the late New York utilities magnate and heir to his vast fortune, has made up her mind to become a nun.

Despite the deep secrecy being maintained at the Vatican on her decision to enter a foreign convent for her novitiate, it has been ascertained that before leaving Rome for a farewell visit with a niece in London Mrs. Brady had an audience with Pope Pius XI at which her plans were discussed.

This audience was not reported in Osservatore Romano, official mouthpiece of the Vatican, as is usually the case. One feature of the twenty-minute audience was that His Holiness agreed that if Mrs. Brady still

N.Y.U. Professor Ends Life by 12-Story Jump

New York, Aug. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—An hour before his wife arrived from Virginia for an intended domestic reconciliation, Edwin Jones Clapp, 48 years old, former editor, financial writer and professor of economics at New York University, jumped to his death twelve stories from the roof of the Hotel Grosvenor this morning.

In his own apartment on West Eleventh street, police found a note addressed to his estranged wife, Susanne, in which he wrote, "Goodby, Sue, I've killed myself. Nobody to blame but me. I'm crazy. Ed."

Victims of Bomb Sue Lynched Man's Estate

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Two suits, totaling $100,000, against the estate of John Hodaz, Plant City bombing suspect, lynched last April 27, were on file in circuit court today in behalf of Mrs. J. L. Waller, seriously injured by a bomb explosion, and her husband, a truck farmer. The Wallers each are suing for $50,000.

The Plant City bombings occurred April 24. Hodaz, arrested in Tampa, was seized by a mob as an officer was taking him to jail at Bartow.

Textile Activity Spurt In Alabama Predicted

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Renewed textile activity in Alabama, beginning this month and reaching capacity operation at some mills by September 1, was predicted today by officials of several hosiery mills of the State whose plants will increase operations soon.

A. G. Patterson, president of the Alabama Hosiery Mills at Decatur, said additional machinery is being installed there which should double the output and increase the number of employes from 100 to 300 during the next year.

Dead Tree-Sitter Made Champion

Competitors of Kentucky Boy, Who Fell to His Death, Descend.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Nelson McIntosh, 16-year-old Ashland, Ky., tree-setter, who fell to his death yesterday after remaining in his tree for 498 hours, has been declared State champion tree-sitter, by virtue of the descent of his two chief competitors here today.

Sherod Rouser, 11, abandoned his perch today in honor of McIntosh, saying, "I couldn't take the title away from a boy who is dead." He had been in the air 408 hours. Jo Riley, 9, only 20 hours behind Rouser, fell from his tree today. He was not injured, but could not keep back the tears when he realized that the mishap probably kept him from the Lexington record. One of their competitors several days ago was enticed from his perch by parental promises of a new bicycle.

McIntosh, who earned the tree-sitting championship at the cost of his life, fell while he was pulling up his last lunch. His neck was broken and skull fractured. He planned to descend when he reached the 500-hour mark. Another was forced down by a skunk. McIntosh's friends are claiming the national championship for him in addition to the State championship.

Pupil Fund Set Up By Teacher's Will

Former Member of Central High Staff Leaves Trust Legacy.

A trust fund for education in college of students of Central High School is established under the terms of the will of Halstead Pierre Hoover, former teacher of music at the school, which was filed for probate yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court. Mr. Hoover died on July 27.

No value of the estate is given, but the will directs that all the income except $50 a year, which is to be paid to Nannie B. Kelly, the deceased's housekeeper, during her life, shall be used toward the tuition and board of a Central High graduate, who shall be attending college or a university. The principal of the school is instructed to select the student, from time to time, who shall benefit by the scholarship, and he also is given authority to direct estoppal of payments should a student prove to be unfit.

STEEL AUDIT HOUSE ADMITS EATON LINK

FIGURES OCCUPY DAY

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The legal tussle over two different auditing systems, through one of which the opponents of the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube with Bethlehem Steel Corporation claim they were entitled to a greater number of Bethlehem shares in exchange, lapsed into another barrage of figures today.

Hassell Tippit, of the Cleveland firm of Ernst & Ernst, auditors, was on the stand all day for cross-examination in the hearing of the suit brought by the Cyrus S. Eaton interests to enjoin the merger.

F. H. Wood, Bethlehem Corporation counsel and one of the attorneys for the merger group, challenged the Ernst & Ernst audit which computed the exchange of stock on the basis of 1929 earnings at 548,000 more shares of Bethlehem than the Youngstown stockholders will receive if the merger agreement stands.

Attorney Wood obtained admissions from Tippit that members of the Ernst & Ernst firm are financially interested in some of the companies of which Eaton is a stockholder. Eaton led the initial fight against the merger and is said to be the guiding force behind the suit to enjoin it.

The Ernst & Ernst audit arrived at conclusions widely different from the report of the Price, Waterhouse & Co., on which the merger terms were based. Important among these items were relative charges for maintenance and repair and for depreciation, which by ratio affect earnings available to stockholders.

Tippit's direct testimony supported the contention of the antimerger forces that Bethlehem did not show a comparable rate of depreciation.

The witness stuck to his testimony throughout a rigid cross-examination today. He insisted that Ernst & Ernst was correct in distributing between the two classifications of maintenance and depreciation some big items which Bethlehem charged only to maintenance.

rant was taken out in Prince Georges County because one payment of $1,000 was said to have been made by Erb to Walsh at the First National Bank of Hyattsville, Md., where the old solder had an account.

The warrant was taken to Montgomery County for service by Deputy Sheriff A. W. Hepburn, of Prince Georges County, but he was unable to serve the paper. In the meantime Walsh learned that he was wanted and journeyed yesterday to Marlboro, where he called upon Sheriff Charles S. Early and asked to be placed under arrest. He was accompanied by a bondsman, Clay Plummer, of Gaithersburg, in Montgomery County.

Not having a warrant for Walsh, Sheriff Early was unable to arrest him, but suggested that if Walsh was anxious to be apprehended he might go to Capitol Heights, Md., where Judge S. Chew Sheriff was sitting in police court.

Court Found Closed.

Walsh and Mr. Plummer returned to Capitol Heights, but by the time they arrived court had adjourned and Judge Sheriff had left. Being unable to find any one to issue a duplicate warrant for him, Walsh was obliged to return home a free man. He declared, however, that he would return to Marlboro today and see that the arrest was consummated.

According to Louis Rothschild, secretary of the Washington Better Business Bureau, which has undertaken to prosecute Walsh in behalf of the aged veteran, Walsh induced Erb to invest $3,000 in his company by explaining that whereas banks were not permitted to engage in insurance business, nor insurance firms in banking, his corporation was so organized as to be able to engage in both forms of enterprise, with resultant enormous profits held out as an inducement to stock purchasers.

Claimed Baltimore Office.

In addition to an office in the Barr Building here, now closed, Walsh also is said to have claimed to have offices in Baltimore. He was subjected to a Federal indictment on a similar charge some time ago, but was not convicted, Mr. Rothschild stated, adding that most of the complaints received against Walsh by the Better Business Bureau have come from aged men and women, several of whom were more than 70 years old.

Mr. Erb reported that Walsh had given a party for him in celebration of his eightieth birthday anniversary two years ago, while trying to sell him stock in the Insured Savings System.

town now in order that they could get in to see the impressive ceremony.

Williams' Case Puzzling.

Nothing at all was heard at headquarters from Williams and this will arouse comment. Nearly every time there has been a change in chairmanships his name has bobbed up because he is next in line, but usually the explanation comes from somewhere that he is too busily engaged to give the time to the work.

There was really no need, of course, for any of the absentees to attend because the program had been cut and dried. The only serious work to be done was to see that Huston did not explode at the last minute over what he considers the raw deal he received.

And one man, James Francis Burke, the committee's general counsel, admirably looked out for this. Huston's retiring statement was shown to the President Wednesday night and approved. There was a touch of bitterness in it and one fling at his attackers when he said he was unwilling to impose any risk upon Republican candidates in the forthcoming campaigns although he did not think his continuance as chairman would be such a risk. Otherwise, it was the graceful retirement which Mr. Burke's excellent missionary work had prevailed upon him to make.

Text of Statement.

The statement follows:

"As heretofore announced, I have determined to retire as chairman of the Republican national committee.

"For a lifetime I have been a member and an active worker in the Republican party. I have never sought office or reward in any form. It was with a desire to promote its success and that of the administration that, upon the urging of party leaders, I agreed to accept the chairmanship. I realized that this course involved many sacrifices and in order to serve more effectively, I withdrew from active business.

"When I became chairman, I expected to bear philosophically the usual burden of criticism and abuse that has come to be recognized as the penalty attaching to high places in American politics. Almost immediately a persistent campaign of persecution was instituted for the purpose of injuring my effectiveness. No man in political life has ever been subjected to more unjust and unwarranted attacks.

Attacks Are Recalled.

"The attack was directed generally against the Republican party and the administration, but as chairman I became the main target of abuse and of a whispering campaign with its usual accompaniment of falsehoods. The subsequent evidence established the fact that there was no truth in these charges.

"Every accusation made by the Senate committee was so completely refuted that its final report to the Senate charged no wrong doing and the opposing party, since that time, has found no advantage in pursuing me further.

"I am conscious of my own integrity. I have never been accustomed to give ground under fire. Every personal inclination I have is to fight this thing to a finish, especially in view of the unfair tactics that have been employed, and it is on that account that I have delayed my present action until now.

Motives Are Explained.

"In the past it has been the policy of the party leaders to maintain a solid front when under the enemy fire, but as this has not been the policy in the present case, I have reached the conclusion, putting the interest of the Republican party ahead of personal consideration, that I should tender my resignation, for I am wholly unwilling to be accused of imposing any burdens personal to me upon the party during the coming senatorial and congressional campaign.

"I am sure that no such risk exists, but rather than incur the charge of creating it, I prefer to withdraw.

"My withdrawal will give the organization an opportunity of selecting a leader free from the present factional opposition and will permit me without embarrassing others to pursue a course that will insure in the minds of the Republicans of the country my right to their continued esteem and confidence."

Second Statement Hinted.

It was learned afterward that this was not Mr. Huston's statement to the committee, but inasmuch as it is the only one that will get publicity it is all the leaders were concerned about.

Mr. Burke made the motion that Mr. Huston's resignation be accepted with the added resolution expressing appreciation of his services.

Incidentally, the meeting, perhaps emboldened by the smoothness with which things were running, decided to name Senator Fess permanent instead of a provisional chairman. Mr. Burke, reaching into his bag for another legal ruling, decided that it was unnecessary for the full national committee to come here to ratify the appointment and the senator subsequently announced no such meeting was anticipated. It doesn't seem to make any difference either way.

Keim Choice Surprise.

Something of a surprise came with the appointment of George DeB. Keim, of New Jersey, as secretary to succeed Representative Franklin W. Fort. Mr. Keim is a retired Philadelphia banker who became interested in politics a couple of years ago and Gov. Larson of New Jersey appointed him as that State's member of the Port of New York authority. His committee secretaryship will sort of cap off his career and the secretary doesn't have much to do.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke was named to fill the vacancy on the national committee from Louisiana and Ezra R. Whitlaw to the one from Idaho.

The meeting lasted slightly more than an hour and at its conclusion everybody went to the White House for lunch. They took Oliver D. Street, committeeman from Alabama, but not a member of the executive committee, with them.

Dr. Work on Scene.

Who should be there when they arrived, too, but Dr. Hubert Work, sort of eying them philosophically. He used to be a national chairman himself, but the new politics of it got too hot for him at his age.

Mr. Huston, it is understood, plans to carry on with an investment business which he has in New York.

While the fight against him was waged on the basis of testimony before the Senate lobby committee, the fact that he wouldn't stay here in Washington had a lot to do with his retirement.

Mann Threat Ignored.

Incidentally, Col. Horace Mann, deposed Southern leader, and his threat, were not discussed at all. There will probably be more about this later.

For the time being administration forces intend to just let him bark.

Those attending the meeting were Daniel E. Pomeroy, of New Jersey; Treasurer J. R. Nutt, of Ohio; James Francis Burke, general counsel; Charles D. Hilles, of New York; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, of Missouri; Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, of West Virginia; Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Pennsylvania; Miss Martha McClure, of Iowa; Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, of Maine; J. Henry Roraback, of Connecticut; William G. Skelly, of Oklahoma, and Mrs. Manley L. Fossen, of Minnesota.

There was also the influence of Postmaster General Brown.

Finding of Widow After Slaying Told

"Locked-Door Alibi" Is Brought Up in Attic-Lover Slaying Case.

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The "locked door alibi," stumbling block for officers who eight years ago investigated the slaying of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy retired Milwaukee garment manufacturer, today figured in the trial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, the widow, charged with murder.

Mrs. Flora L. Rawson, neighbor of the Oesterreichs, testified she phoned the police and when they came led them into her neighbor's house.

"The door to Mrs. Oesterreich's bedroom was locked," the witness said, "but we found a key on the floor outside the room. We unlocked the bedroom closet with a key found in the lock. Mrs. Oesterreich, sobbing hysterically, lay on the closet floor."

Otto Sanhuber, recently convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Oesterreich, but later freed by the statute of limitations, testified in his trial he locked Mrs. Oesterreich in the closet after they had agreed to tell officers her husband was killed by robbers.

authorities time and again to evacuate to places where they might be protected by American or foreign naval forces or consular officers. So far, however, they have declined to leave, the belief in the department being that they feel the routes to places of safety to be too dangerous for travel.

The department's records showed the following list of American Catholic missionaries at Kanchow on January 1 and it is believed still to be accurate:

Mary C. Beggs, Anselma Jarboe, Emily P. Kolb, Henry C. Lucas, Sarah A. O'Neill, Clara Louise Groell, Annie Strable, all of Emmitsburg, Md.; J. J. Corbett, Boston, Mass.; Vincent Louise Delude, South Boston, Mass.; P. J. Stauble, Rochester, N. Y., and J. A. O'Shea, Deep River, Conn. In the outlying district in the vicinity of Kanchow there are numerous other missionaries.

Death Report Disturbing.

Shanghai, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The reported stabbing to death of the Rev. Allen N. Cameron, an American missionary at Changsha, although unconfirmed, heightened apprehension today for foreigners in bandit and Communist plagued centers of China. Foreign governments, alarmed by continued activities of Communist bands, hurried war vessels and fighting men up the Yangtze River to Kiukiang, Hankow and other cities.

Nanking government dispatches asserted Communist armies planned to attack Hankow and its neighboring cities, Wuchang and Hanyang, next Sunday in a general offensive which the Reds expected would give them possession of other chief Yangtze River cities by mid-August.

Notwithstanding additional Chinese troops had arrived at Hankow, foreigners prepared to go aboard foreign warships and commercial vessels there should the city be endangered by Red armies advancing from the south.

More than 500 British and Japanese soldiers and marines were en route to Yangtze valley cities today as the result of uncertain Communist conditions.

Carrying 400 marines, four Japanese destroyers arrived here from Sasebo Japan. The vessels were to proceed to Kiukiang, Kiangsi Province, which recently was reported threatened by an army of 10,000 Communists.

Fifty British soldiers Friday will follow 110 troops dispatched to Hankow today.

Ransom Ordered Paid.

Hankow, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Rev. Allen N. Cameron, an American missionary, was reported today to have been stabbed to death at Changsha, Hunan Province capital, recently sacked by Communists. The report, although widely circulated, lacked confirmation, but Cameron could not be located.

Cameron represented the Broadcast Tract Press, of Denver, Colo., and came to China from Lawrence, Kans., in 1891.

Foochow, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Church Missionary Society, of London, today authorized its local representative to pay Chinese bandits the ransom demanded for release of the Misses Edith Harrison and Edith Nettleton, who have been held captive more than a month in northern Fukien Province.

Provincial authorities at Yenping Tuesday received a note containing a finger chopped from the hand of one of the women missionaires and demanding $50,000 for their release. The note threatened further torture for the missionaries unless the ransom was forthcoming.

Numbers Games Charge Leads to Seizure of Trio

Three arrests on charges o operating numbers games were made yesterday morning by Eighth Precinct Policemen E. Barnett and R. A. Williams.

John Bloomer, colored, 38 years old, of Florida avenue near Eleventh street northwest, was taken while standing at Eighth street and Berry place northwest. John Harris, colored, 35 years old, was arrested at his home on W streeet near Ninth street northwest, and George Mitchell, colored, 29 years old, of Twelfth street near W street northwest, was nabbed in an Eleventh street house near U street northwest.

New York-to-Capital Plane Service Delayed

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Hourly plane service between Washington, Philadelphia and Newark will be inaugurated on September 1 with the first northbound plane leaving Washington at 8 a. m. and the first southbound leaving Newark at 8:45.

Nicholas S. Ludington, president of the New York, Philadelphia & Washington Airway Corporation, announced today that it has been hoped to start the service August 15, but that it had been decided to make the postponement to permit a longer trial period for the new ten-passenger planes. Miss Amelia Earhart, transatlantic plane passenger, is an official of the new line.

DAVID J. LEWIS FILES TO OPPOSE ZIHLMAN

R. D. Hagner Enters Race for Montgomery County Commissioner.

ENLARGE WATER SUPPLY

Former Representative David J. Lewis, of Cumberland, filed with the supervisor of elections at Rockville yesterday a certificate of candidacy for Democratic nomination for Congress to oppose Representative Fred N. Zihlman. His fellow townsman, Fuller Barnard, jr., former States attorney for Allegany County, also filed for the same post several days ago.

Mr. Lewis will have the support of the Democratic organization in Montgomery County. He was for several years a member of the United States Tariff Commission, and is known as the "father of the parcel post," having been largely responsible for its introduction in the Postoffice Department.

Robert D. Hagner, Bethesda real estate operator and auditor of Montgomery County, has filed his certificate of candidacy for Democratic nomination for county commissioner from the Seventh district to succeed Dr. Benjamin C. Perry. He is the organization candidate, and will be opposed by Eugene H. McLachlen, of Chevy Chase, who filed several days ago with the backing of the progressive Democratic faction.

Former County Surveyor Charles J. Maddox, of Rockville, has filed for Democratic nomination for that post, with the support of the organization. The incumbent, Joseph N. Starkey, of Rockville, also filed his candidacy for reelection this week.

An adequate water supply to permit resumption of sprinkling of lawns and gardens in the Chevy Chase section of Montgomery County is expected to be available not later than Monday under an arrangement made yesterday by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission and the District Water Department whereby the Maryland commission will install an emergency pumping station in the District at Fessenden street and Belt road, where the District has a 36-inch main on its third high-water service.

This addition to the service also will relieve the situation in Prince Georges County and in the Takoma and Blair-Takoma sections of Montgomery County, where it is understood the sanitary commission will allow intermittent sprinkling.

To facilitate construction of the new Montgomery County Courthouse and jail building which is to be started next week, the mayor and town council of Rockville yesterday passed a resolution closing Court street, which extends one block from Montgomery avenue to Jefferson street, and is part of the site of the new courthouse.

A contract under which Rockville will augment its water supply permanently by drawing on the ice plant owned by William McBain on the Rockville pike, near Rockville was entered into by the mayor and council of Rockville with Mr. McBain yesterday. A temporary connection with the ice plant has enabled the town to use water from its well for the past several weeks.

City gas service for Rockville and Garrett Park in Montgomery County was assured yesterday with approval by the Maryland Service Commission of the application of the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County to extend its gas transmission and distribution systems into the two communities.

Officials of the gas company state that they hope to have the service available by early fall, and expect to start installatino of mains in both towns within the next two weeks.

Government Acts To Condemn Land

Rover Complies With Plea of Mellon on Property Acquisition.

Acting under direction of the Attorney General and at the request of the Secretary of the Treasury, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant Attorney General Henry H. Glassie yesterday began proceedings to condemn property in squares 257 and 258, bounded by Fourteenth street, Thirteen-and-One-Half street, Ohio avenue and D street northwest.

The court is told that the Government wants the property for accommodation of executive departments, but does not specify what department will be housed in the structure which it is planned to construct on the site. It is pointed out that the Government has been able to purchase only 15 parcels of land in the two squares at a reasonable price and that condemnation proceedings are necessary.

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat signed an order directing property owners to appear in court September 15 when a jury will be selected to view the property and establish its value.

Posing as Police Five Kidnap Man

John F. Ford Thrown From Car When Quartet Fails to Get Money.

Tenth Precinct police and detectives from headquarters were on the lookout last night for five men who posed as policemen early yesterday morning and took John F. Ford, of First street near B street northeast, for a "ride." Ford was thrown out of the car after the men found that he had no money, Ford told police.

Ford said the men accosted him near his home and accused him of being drunk. "We are going to take you down to the Sixth Precinct," Ford said one of the men told him. A friend who was with Ford at the time, Roy Perry, of the same address, was also charged with being drunk by the pseudo policemen. He was ordered to walk in a straight line to convince the men that he was sober. While Perry was taking his walk, Ford was pushed into the car. The men drove him around the block and returned him to the spot, where he was first accosted, police were told.

The five men were later "spotted" in their car by Policeman John T. Ensor, of the Tenth Precinct. Policeman Ensor fired three shots at the men, but they escaped.

Woman Held on Liquor Charge.

Rosie Aste, 39 years old, of Girard street near Eleventh street northwest, was arrested in her home yesterday afternoon on charges of sale of three drinks of liquor and 2 quarts of liquor, and possession of 21 quarts of liquor, 72 bottles of beer and 130 quarts of wine. She was taken by Sixth Precinct Sergt. J. R. Leach and Policeman F. A. Truscott, and released on $1,500 bond.

COUNTY FIREMEN'S CONVENTION IS SET

35 Companies to Take Part in Event Tomorrow in Prince Georges.

PARADE BEING PLANNED

More than 35 Maryland fire companies are expected to attend the eighth annual convention of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's Association at Laurel, Md., tomorrow.

The event will open in St. Philip's Parish Hall with addresses of welcome by Jesse Lee Cornwell, chief of the Laurel department, and Mayor James E. Petty, of Laurel, to which the response will be made by Chief James E. Sampson, of the Cottage City department and president of the association.

A rescue squad contest will be held on the lawn of the parish hall at 1 o'clocvk, and at 1:30 the convention will be called to order for election of officers, appointment of committees and other business, this session lasting for one hour.

At conclusion of the business session there will be a parade around the town, starting and ending at the State Armory and participated in by the 19 fire departments of Prince Georges County and approximately as many visiting companies from nearby counties.

The parade will be headed by squadrons of State and county police, followed by Mayor Petty and the town council, officers of the county association, officials of the State Volunteer Firemen's Association, Chief Cornwell, the Savage Band, Prince Georges companies and their apparatus, the county rescue squad headed by Chief H. L. Leonard, and volunteer companies from Montgomery, Howard, Anne Arundel and other counties. Decorated floats and automobiles will complete the procession.

At 3 o'clock a hook-up contest will be staged at Gorman avenue and Fifth street. Dinner will be served in the parish hall by the ladies' auxiliary from 5 o'clock until 7, and at 7:30 the final business session of the convention will be held.

Bookkeeper Held Under $10,000 Bail

Employe, Alleged to Have Embezzled $26,000, Goes to Grand Jury.

Alleged to have embezzled more than $26,000 from Barber & Ross, local hardware and building supply dealers, where he was employed as a bookkeeper, Walter A. Woodworth, 29 years old, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday and ordered held for action of the grand jury, Judge Ralph E. Given fixed bond at $10,000.

Woodworth was specifically arraigned on a warrant which only charges embezzlement of $1,296.96. This, however, according to statements made to the United States attorney's office, represents but a small portion of the shortage an audit of the books disclosed.

The audit, according to authorities, also showed that the alleged peculations have extended over a period of six years.

9,773 Aircraft in U. S.; Many Women Licensed

(Associated Press.)

The United States had 9,773 licensed aircraft, 13,041 licensed pilots of all classes, and 3,843 qualified air mechanics on June 30.

There were included in the total 261 women holding Federal pilot ratings. Twenty of these were classed as transport pilots competent to guide passengers or goods in commercial flying service, the highest rating attainable by any pilot. There were four women licensed as mechanics, in figures announced yesterday by the aeronautics branch of the Commerce Department. California led and New York was second.

Anthracite Scale Ratified by Union

Secretary Davis to Preside at Signing of Pact This Evening.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Representatives of the anthracite operators and United Mine Workers of America will formally sign here tomorrow night the new agreement extending the period of industrial peace in the anthracite regions for a term of five years and seven months, assuring an uninterrupted supply of domestic fuel for the period.

Ratification of the wage pact by the miners' delegates today removed the last obstacles to successful culmination of the wage negotiations which began June 30. The convention by 737 to 127, approved the contract and later voted unanimously to have its representatives attach their signatures to the agreement. A majority of the 104 coal companies operating in the anthracite region will be represented by officials at tomorrow night's meeting at which Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will preside and will bring a message from President Hoover. The Labor Secretary will fly here from Washington.

Son of Methodist Founder Dies.

Sparta, Ga., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Lovick Pierce, 92, last surviving child of the late Bishop John F. Pierce, one of the founders of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, died at his home here today, after an illness of several weeks. Death resulted from pneumonia.

FORMER SENATOR J. D. PHELAN DIES

California Democrat, Who Served Under Wilson, Was Ill Long Time.

DECLINED ENVOY'S POST

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Former United States Senator James D. Phelan died here at 4:30 p. m. today after an extended illness. He was 69 years old.

The former senator had been ill since May 5. He became seriously ill about a month ago and during the last few days his condition was critical.

At his bedside were his sister, Miss Mary Phelan, Mrs. Richard Doyle, a niece, and Noel Sullivan, a nephew.

Mr. Phelan was elected in 1915 as a Democratic United States senator from California. President Wilson offered him an ambassador's post, but he declined.

For three terms Mr. Phelan was mayor of San Francisco, serving from 1897 to 1902.

He inherited a fortune from his father, a pioneer Californian, and throughout his life was active in public affairs in his State.

Mr. Phelan was born in San Francisco April 20, 1861. He was a bachelor.

McCarl Declines New Office Site

Triangle Structure Will House Comptroller General Staff.

Which Government department will occupy a new building at Twelfth and B streets, in the Federal triangle, is a question Treasury officials now have to answer, following the courteous but firm refusal of Comptroller General McCarl to accept the proposed structure as a home for the General Accounting Office.

Mr. McCarl has let it be known that he does not care to be situated in a group of Government executive departments, whereas his office belongs to the legislative branch of the Government. According to the Comptroller General, he would rather remain in his present quarters, in the Pension Building, where he is nearer Congress, to which he is responsible.

Under plans for the new building at Twelfth and B streets, it is to be occupied either by the Accounting Office or the Interstate Commerce Commission. Treasury officials say the outside of the building will be completed and the interior arranged later to suit whatever branch of the Government moves in.

Capital Stopping Point In New Airline Service

Washington will be included in the stops made by a new airline between Richmond and New York, it was announced yesterday by officials of Eastern Air Transport, which will operate Ford trimotored planes on the route. This concern has an airmail contract between New York and Miami, and it is expected that the passenger line eventually will be extended to the Florida city. Other landings will be made at Camden, N. J., and Baltimore.

It is planned to fly one plane each day in each direction, the southbound ship leaving Washington airport at noon and the northbound in the late afternoon. Tentative plans set Monday, August 18, as the inauguration date and fares at slightly above the cost of railroad tickets plus Pullman charges.

O'Connor Explains Coastal Ship View

Chairman Denies "Warning" Cited in Improperly Credited Story.

Under an Associated Press credit line The Post yesterday morning carried a story captioned "Ship Firms Warned of I. C. C. Control." This story, regarding a meeting of steamship companies engaged in intercoastal trade and the Shipping Board, was not an Associated Press story and should not have been so credited.

T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, also announced yesterday that instead of warning the intercoastal companies that they must settle their differences or Congress would be urged to place such trade under the Interstate Commerce Commission, he simply suggested such a move as a possible solution of the problem. Mr. O'Connor further expressed the hope that the shippers would be able to reach an agreement without resorting to governmental interference.

The Post regrets the errors in connection with the story.

BUCKLEY SLAYING SUSPECTS NAMED

Alleged Members of Gang Planned Killing Year Ago, Says Officer.

GRAND JURY QUIZ SEEN

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Definite progress in the search for the slayers of Radio Announcer Jerry Buckley was in prospect tonight as Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox revealed the names of four suspects and the Wayne Circuit Bench met to consider a petition for a 23-man grand jury.

En route to Detroit from Kansas today, Commissioner Wilcox told a staff correspondent of the Detroit News that Thomas Licavoli, Ted Pizzino and Mike Morgany are sought as the gunmen who killed Buckley and that Frank Cammarata is wanted as the man who drove the car which carried the slayers away from the scene of the shooting in the LaSalle Hotel lobby.

Prosecuting Attorney Chenot today petitioned Judge Lester S. Moll, presiding judge of the Circuit Court, for a grand jury to investigate the Buckley case and other recent slayings. Two hours later five of the eighteen circuit judges went into conference, agreed that their decision shall determine the fate of the petition and promised to make known that decision Saturday.

Witnesses' Names Withheld.

Wilcox said that Pizzino and Morgany are alleged members of the gang of "Black" Leo Cellura. These two suspects and the others have been identified by witnesses whose names will be withheld until the men are captured and brought to trial, he said.

Wilcox refused to divulge the reason for the slaying but said it was "entirely of underworld background" and was conceived as early as last summer. Angelo Livecchi, the man who the police say pointed out Buckley to the three gunmen in the hotel July 23, is held here on a charge of murder.

Last Friday the commissioner left for the police chiefs' convention at Duluth and last night he was at Fort Riley, Kans., interviewing Norman Smith, a bootlegger sentenced to Leavenworth from Detroit for bribing a customs officer.

Smith Attacked Over Radio.

Smith was one of the subjects of Buckley's radio-political attacks and was named by the announcer as one of the men close to Mayor Charles Bowles, who was recalled by the voters a few hours before Buckley was slain. Smith, however, was in prison at the time of the shooting.

The police said today that they had been searchnig for Pizzino and Morgany ever since the slaying, but that it was feared they had fled to Canada.

Chenot asked the grand jury, if summoned, be asked to report its findings within fifteen days of its assembling.

Indian Congress Leader Given Jail for Revolt

Bombay, India, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Vallabhai Patel, congress leader, arrested on Saturday, was sentenced today to three months' simple imprisonment for his part in the civil disobedience campaign of Mahatma Gandhi. Before sentence was passed Patel named Mulana Abdul Kalam Azad president of the all-India congress.

Four women, fined at the same time, refused to pay, declaring they preferred imprisonment. Pandit Malaviya, another leader of the volunteers, was fined 100 rupees (about $36) with the alternative of fifteen days' simple imprisonment. A number of other prisoners received three-month terms.

DAVIS SAYS TRADE SHOWING UPTURN

Radio Speech Lauds Ability and Action of Hoover During Depression.

BUILDING PLANS CITED

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Davis last night examined the recent ailments of American business and pronounced it on the road to recovery.

This diagnosis was given by the Secretary of Labor in an address over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Mr. Davis, who has served in the Cabinet of three Presidents, said he had lived "through a number of these depressions" and that just as recovery always had followed them, "this one can be trusted to follow the same course."

"It has been truly a trying time for all," he said, "and we still have problems to solve. But no one doubts for a minute the courage and the mental and material resources of this great country of ours.

Hoover Achievements Cited.

"That courage and resource are already swinging us back on the road to recovery. And we are fortunate in having a President who sets us a shining example of that courage and initiative, and backs it up with an ability that already is proving itself in great practical achievements."

Secretary Davis said the Government and the Nation as a whole have put in motion "the greatest program of public works and public utility construction ever undertaken, amounting to more than $7,000,000,000.

"This was an absolute reversal of past experience, when it was the policy to shut down public works at the first sign of depression," he said. "And we owe this great starting of things to the initiative of President Hoover.

"It is the fashion now to pick at the President and ask: 'Why doesn't he do something?' This is the answer. He saved this country from hitting the bottom after the crash. In every former crisis nobody had even attempted this."

Tariff Bill Discussed.

Discussing the tariff bill, Mr. Davis ridiculed prophesies that were made that the measure would "ruin the country" and send "prices skyhigh."

"It would take too long to go into all these calamity prophesies," he said. "But, taken as a whole, every schedule that was increased in the new tariff leaves the protected commodity selling lower in 1930 than in 1929."

"This whole outcry against the new tariff," he asserted, "grows out of the fact that American international bankers and industrialists have built or bought some 2,000 factories in the cheap labor markets of other lands. Now they kick at the new tariff because it blocks them off from competition with American labor here at home."

Mr Davis said "no President we ever had has launched so many broad movements for the benefit of the people," adding that "when the country is on its feet again it will owe its recovery largely to the wise, cautious, deliberate planning and initiative of President Hoover."

Duke of York Remains Within, Stirring Interest

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Duke of York, whose wife is expected to give birth to a child, did not leave Glamis Castle today. This was regarded as significant of the arrival soon of the royal grandchild.

The villagers of this ancestral home of the Duchess of York believed, however, that the event would not occur before tomorrow night at least.

CAMPBELL VICTOR IN NORFOLK VERDICT

Baker Suspect Will Have to Hear Evidence of State Against Him.

WARRANT SATISFACTORY

murder warrant issued by Commissioner Turnage and which Mr. Smith had requested to be squashed. The court asserted that it found no fault with the warrant.

Mr. Smith had argued that the process should be invalidated because the warrant charged that the crime was committed in the District, while Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, the complainant, he said, had admitted to him in the presence of witnesses that he did not know where the crime actually occurred.

To the Government's argument that a warrant or an indictment is sufficient cause for removal from one jurisdiction to another, Judge Groner agreed, with the proviso that likelihood of guilt be also shown.

Should Commissioner Phillips at the conclusion of the hearing recommend to Judge Groner that the removal warrant be issued, Mr. Smith intends to bring the case again to the justice for review. He also indicated that should Judge Groner then rule adversely that he will bring his case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Smith Expresses Confidence.

Mr. Smith left for Washington with Frank G. Campbell, brother of the accused, confident that his client would soon be released from the Alexandria City Jail, where he has been confined since his release from Arlington County Jail on August 4. Government officials, it was learned, intend to present the case to a grand jury as soon as possible to procure an indictment.

Mr. Smith's client's contentions were that a warrant is not sufficient cause for removal of a prisoner from an asylum jurisdiction to a demanding jurisdiction and, further, that it is incumbent upon the Government to establish likelihood of guilt of the prisoner.

In rebuttal Mr. Jones asked the court to assume that a murder warrant had the same dignity as an indictment. In support of this, he cited a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court which ruled that an indictment is sufficient cause for removal.

Circumstantial Case Seen.

In presenting his arguments, Mr. Jones admitted that the case against Campbell is primarily one of circumstantial evidence. "Such a case," he added, "must be built up link by link, which requires considerable time."

Mr. Jones added that in removal proceedings it is only necessary for the Government to prove that the prisoner is the person named in the warrant, and that on the day of the crime he was in the jurisdiction where the murder was committed.

He told the court that Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, at the hearing before U. S. Commissioner J. Barton Phillips in Alexandria on Wednesday, had identified Campbell and that he was in Washington on the day of the murder.

In prefatory remarks, Mr. Smith outlined the state of doubt in the minds of authorities regarding jurisdiction in which the crime was committed and attacked the warrant upon which he was arrested.

Statement by Smith.

"My client," he said, "involved himself in this investigation in an attempt to aid authorities. Since his arrest on July 21 he has given authorities every opportunity to investigate the case." Mr. Smith asserted that there was no evidence to support the belief of authorities that the murder occurred in Washington. The body of the slain girl, he said, was found on a Government property, outside the District of Columbia.

He exhibited the original murder warrant sworn out before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, in which it is charged that the murder occurred in the District of Columbia.

"In direct opposition to the wording of the warrant," he averred, "Lieut. Kelly, who is named as complainant in the warrant, asserted before Commissioner Phillips that he did not know for certain that the murder occurred in Washington."

Pursuing this argument he offered to produce witnesses in the presence of whom, he said, Lieut. Kelly had assured him that Campbell knew nothing of the murder. He concluded: "I ask that the warrant against my client be dismissed and that he be discharged from jail."

Frank G. Campbell, brother of the suspect, accompanied Mr. Smith to court, which convened at 12:55 p. m. Before Judge Groner entered the courtroom Frank Campbell explained that the reason his brother is fighting removal is that he does not wish to spend time in the District Jail on a nonbailable offense.

"My brother is innocent," he said, "and we have indisputable evidence of this. Herbert, if he is freed, will be in readiness at all times to assist authorities in their investigation.

"The only reason he is fighting removal is that he does not wish to spend months in jail. There is no grand jury in session, court calendars are clogged, and it would be months before he would be tried, if he should be indicted."

Clash Between Counsel.

In his arguments, Campbell's attorney had also referred to the nonbailability of the offense and the possibility that no preliminary hearing would be given, but Mr. Jones countered with the assertion that upon removal to Washington, should the removal warrant be granted, the suspect would be given a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Turnage.

Frank Campbell, discussing the case with reporters, sided with his brother in the belief that an error has been made in the identification of Campbell's revolver as the murder weapon. He intimated that should the case come to trial ballistics experts will be employed by the defense to examine the gun, which was turned over to authorities by the prisoner on May 24.

Asked how he could account for the fact that the gloves found with Mary Baker's clothing in a trap sewer near the culvert where her body was found on April 12 were at first identified by his brother as his, he declined to answer. He then referred all questions to Mr. Smith.

LAWYER ASKS CHAIR IN SLAYING OF WIFE

Police Claim Confession to Placing Dynamite in Family Auto.

HOPED TO KILL HIMSELF

Stinnett, Texas, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Requesting that he be hurried "through to the electric chair," A. D. Payne Amarillo, Tex., attorney, today was said by officers to have confessed he placed three sticks of dynamite in his automobile, the explosion being credited with killing his wife and maiming his 9-year-old son.

Murder charges were preferred against the lawyer following his arrest late Tuesday. Officers alleged the dynamite plot was evolved by Payne because of his love for Mrs. Verona Thompson, his former secretary. A statement by the woman asserting Payne had made ardent love to her led to his arrest.

Payne, who is the father of three children, declared his one great regret was that he did not have a chance to commit suicide before he was arrested. He said he had made two plans to kill himself in such a way that his death would appear an accident.

Mayor Hears Story.

"I wanted my children to collect the full insurance I carry," he was quoted as saying. "I have about $40,000 on my life, counting the double indemnity they would get if I were killed accidentally. I have done the children a great wrong and the only thing I can do for them is to let them have what insurance I can."

Payne, according to Mayor Ernest O. Thompson, of Amarillo, today detailed his plans for doing away with his wife and revealed a plot to kill her with a charge from a shotgun three months before she finally perished in the explosion that dismembered her body.

Three sticks of dynamite, it was said, were in an open container with water and phosphorus placed under the driver's seat of the family automobile. Payne then left the car for his wife and walked to his office. He said he knew that when the water splashed out the phosphorus would ignite and set the explosive off.

Met Wife at College.

He also was quoted as admitting placing a loaded shotgun in a closet of his home in such manner it would go off when his wife opened the door. The gun was discharged, but Mrs. Payne escaped with only minor wounds on one hand.

Payne has practiced law in Amarillo for about six years, studying during spare moments while attending the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, where he met Miss Exa Johnson, his wife.

The Payne children include two girls and a boy. The boy, who was named for his father, was riding with Mrs. Payne June 27 when the explosion occurred.

Bookmaker, With Radio In Auto, Held for Bets

Whiting, Ind., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A bookmaker's shop on wheels, equipped with a low wave radio receiving set and complete series of racing charts, has been confiscated.

William Schrader, 40, operator of the "rolling book" was arrested in his automobile as he was accepting bets. A search was begun for a "bootleg" radio station, which police said the gamblers apparently had set up for traveling "bookies," since they have been forced to close down in the Calumet region.

Bay State Forest Fires Are Checked

Backfiring Method Proves Effective in Halting Conflagration.

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Greedy red lines of fire that have devoured thousands of acres of forest and brush in southeastern Massachusetts, from Plymouth to beyond the Cape Cod Canal, consuming seventeen houses, cottages and camps, were fading and dying tonight.

Hundreds of men in many communities, day and night, have set other hungry lines of flames in the path of the advancing red lines, thus depriving them of sustenance—backfiring, they call it.

Tonight, the one fire in this whole drought-parched region that appeared to hold any menace, was burning near Head-of-the-Bay Village, near Bay End, the estate of Mrs. James Garland, of Boston. But the summoning of every available man to the site, during the day, had resulted in the bringing of this fire, too, largely under control.

According to official State reports to Maxwell G. Hutchins, State fire warden, approximately 10,000 acres of scrub pine were burned over at Bourne before the fire was extinguished. The fire near the Wareham line in Plymouth County had burned over 8,000 acres.

Augusta County, Va., had been burned over. H. M. Sears, supervisor of the Natural Bridge National Forest, issued another appeal for people to stay out of the parched forests.

At Logan, W. Va., drinking water allegedly was being sold at 3 cents a gallon. Across the river in Ohio farmers were attempting to save fruit trees by pumping water on them with old fire engines.

Mobilization of Federal agencies for the relief of drought-swept areas was intensified yesterday by Secretary Hyde's return from the Middle West, and a declaration of policy by the Federal Farm Board.

Carl Williams, of the board, said that hte machinery and funds of the organization wuold be available for seed distributors, business men and farmers, who will form corporations in their States to guarantee the payment of notes made by individual farmers.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde announced that on the suggestion of President Hoover, questionnaires would be sent to all farmers in the drought area, requesting estimates of their losses. Shortly after Mr. Hyde conferred with the President, the latter was told by C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, that the drought would result in wiping out the large wheat surplus, and would thus permit farmers to start next year in better shape.

Cool breezes brought relief to sweltering New York yesterday, but the weather forecaster said hope of extended relief was not justified.

Scattered rains visited a few sections of the drought-striken Middle West, but there was no general relief in sight yesterday, and crops continued to wither in the driest period on record.

Annapolis is faced with a water famine, and citizens there have been placed on restricted consumption. T. Roland Brown, president of the Annapolis Water Commission, said that the present supply would be exhausted within a week, and springs that supply the reservoir are drying up.

The fight on forest fires in western Maryland continued yesterday, with more than 1,000 in the field.

Unusual Happenings Blamed on Heat Wave

Overcome by heat while hunting near Six Mile Bridge, Va., yesterday, Stedson A. Linkous, 16, of Lynchburg, fell and shot himself in the head with a .22 caliber rifle. The ball inflicted a scalp wound. He was not seriously injured, but was unconscious when passersby discovered him.

Thousands of catfish stranded on the banks of streams flowing into Chesapeake Bay alarmed public health officials in the vicinity of Rock Hall, Md., yesterday. The board of commissioners met with engineers and health officials to discuss ways and means of removing the decaying fish and cleaning the streams of other infectious matter.

Heat had so parched the street car platform at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue that a carelessly tossed cigarette last night started a blaze. A few minutes after the butt touched the platform, flames were rising high in the air. Two trucks from Engine Co. No. 16, called by Traffic Policeman Johnson, extinguished them.

Corn was being harvested at the United States Soldiers' Home Farm yesterday, far in advance of seasonal cutting. The crop was badly damaged by heat and drought and it was decided to grind it into forage before the stalks further dried out.

Mexicans Bar Boy Scout Chief.

of him, but Herrick and the Negro, Ennels, went to jail.

The agents who raided the still were J. F. Weigel, Charles R. McCartney, W. F. Schuit, and James R. Brewer. The plant was destroyed with a quantity of mash, and a truck containing 50 cases of empty fruit jars was confiscated.

Herrick was a farmer and stockman before he entered politics and was elected to Congress in 1921 as representative of the Eighth Oklahoma District. During the single term that he served he was often in the public eye. While a representative he was sued for $50,000 heart balm by a New York girl entered in a beauty contest here.

He was also sued by his stenographer, Miss Ethelyn Chirne, of Oklahoma, who charged him with defamation of her character. Herrick, in turn, sued her for breach of promise.

The former representative was defeated in his race to succeed himself, and for several years remained out of politics. Last week he entered a three-cornered race as an absentee candidate in Oklahoma and was again defeated by a large vote.

Questioned concerning Herrick's application for a position as agent, Mr. Moore said that he had been told that there were no openings, and that if he went to the still in Maryland he would be arrested and prosecuted. Herrick said that Airey gave him his job at the plant.

Hard Coal Shortage Predicted.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—An acute shortage of anthracite coal this coming winter was predicted today by Sanders W. Wertheim, president of Burns Bros. Coal Co., in announcing an increase of 50 cents per ton in the price of coal, effective September 1, and a prospective additional increase of 50 cents on November 1.

Three Sisters Die In Crossing Crash

Atlantic City Express Hits Auto of Teachers Off for Holiday.

Pomona, N. J., Aug. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Three sisters, all Pennsylvania teachers, bound for a holiday at the seashore to escape the heat, were instantly killed today when their light sedan was struck by an Atlantic City express near here.

They were later identified as the daughters of Thomas W. Ryan, of Lilly, Pa., near Altoona, and were Ursula Ryan, 27; Agnes, 24, and Helen, 21. All three slaters taught school near Altoona.

The accident occurred at 10:20 a. m. Evidently the girl driving was not aware that she was approaching a crossing, as the road is said to be rather blind at that point, although the crossing is protected with the typical "stop, look, listen" sign.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—An unofficial estimate today said that there were 450,000 unemployed persons in the country, due largely to the agricultural crisis.

G. B. Shaw Signs Talkie Contract

Theater Done For, He Says; Draws Up Agreement in Own Words.

London, Aug. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—George Bernard Shaw signed his first film contract today, one providing for production as a talkie of his play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," by International Pictures, Ltd.

"The poor old theater is done for, I am afraid," Shaw said. "All my plays will be made into talkie films before long. What other course is open to me? The theater may survive as a place where people are taught to act. Apart from that there will be nothing but talkies soon.

"I have signed a contract now because I want to make some money. I can not tell you which of my plays is likely to be filmed next. It may conceivably be 'Arms and the Man,' I do not know.

"The reason I took my own contract with me to the film people is that I have always drawn my own contracts."

and their furnishings swept away. The streets were filled with broken furniture of all descriptions and the bodies of many animals were buried in mud that encrusted pavements.

Search for Victims.

First efforts of rescuers, including squads of police and soldiers, were directed toward removing any possible victims from collapsed buildings and homes. Several bodies were believed to be in a wrecked tenement house, a rambling two-story adobe structure. During the storm it collapsed in two places.

The body of a woman recovered from its wreckage was identified as Senora Sabina de Juararo, whose husband, Ramon, was later found dead also.

Two representatives of the American Red Cross left San Francisco this afternoon to supervise relief work. A request to the national organization in Washington for an appropriation for relief work was sent by the San Francisco divisional headquarters.

Senator Heflin Bruised in Crash

Son, Nephew and Reporter Also Hurt When Auto Hits Pole.

Decatur, Ala., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, suffered bruises and cuts and a sprained wrist and three members of his party were cut and bruised today as their automobile crashed into a telephone pole to avoid striking a heavily laden log truck that drove onto a highway from a side road near here.

Senator Heflin and his party were brought to Decatur in a passing bus and three of them were taken to a hospital. The senator, however, went to a hotel where a physician attended him. Others injured are:

J. Thomas Heflin, jr., the senator's son, deep cut on the forehead and minor cuts; Walter Brown, of Washington, of the Fellowship Forum, cuts on the temple and cheek; Perry Schussler, Lafayette, Ala., driver of the car and nephew of Senator Heflin, cut and bruised.

After a rest, Senator Heflin checked out of his hotel and left for Anniston to fill his engagement there.

New President of Colombia Pleads for Cooperation With United States.

HELPFUL AMITY IS SEEN

Bogota, Colombia, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera this afternoon became the fifty-first president of the Republic of Colombia.

While the enthusiastic populace of this mountain city celebrated, the former Colombian Minister to the United States swore "faithfully to uphold the constitution." His term of office will be four years. The president walked through wildly cheering crowds to the capitol for the inauguration ceremony.

In his inaugural address he pleaded for closer cooperation between Colombia and the United States.

"Enjoying a geographical situation which is almost privileged," he said, "we must aspire to be in America a factor of collaboration and serve whenever possible the cause of cooperation among the different nations of our continent.

"The political and economic development of the Western Hemisphere daily places us nearer the United States, the exemplary democratic organization of which, and marvelous development in all endeavors, has erected it into a powerful and efficient collaboration for the progress of these new nations.

"Several years' experience permitted me to know closely that Nation and to acquire by contact with its eminent and leading men the conviction that they wish, as we wish, a policy of mutual cooperation, of ample and friendly understanding, which directed with sincerity and decisiveness, will be translated into great reciprocal benefits.

"The administration inaugurated today wishes to serve frankly and loyally that policy in the course of our international life."

GETS VAIL MEDAL

MRS. VERA C. MacMILLAN.

Woman Honored For Burglar Tip

Telephone Company Gives Award to Operator at Banquet.

Because her quick and clear thinking resulted in the apprehension of a burglar, Mrs. Vera C. MacMillan, night chief operator of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. at Winchester, Va., yesterday was awarded the Vail medal by John A. Remon, of Richmond, general manager of the company.

On January 20, 1929, Mrs. MacMillan received a call over the switchboard about 2 o'clock in the morning. Attempting to answer it in the usual way, she received no response. Listening intently, she heard sounds indicating some one was pounding with a hammer on metal. She reported this to police, who caught a burglar in the act of cracking a dairy firm's safe.

MRS. BRADY PLANS TO ENTER CONVENT

Widow of New York Utilities Magnate May Serve Novitiate in Germany.

desires to take vows after her novitiate has been completed she may found a religious order of her own and become its mother superior.

Mrs. Brady, in confiding to friends here that she firmly intends to take the veil, said that she hopes the Pontiff will allow her to do so before accomplishing a novitiate of two or three years. But the Pope will not decide this point for some time.

Mrs. Brady's immediate problem is where to start her novitiate. Rome is regarded as an unsuitable place because of her large circle of friends here who would want to visit her frequently and would interfere with her plans for complete retirement from the world.

Mgr. Spellman, who was attached to the Brady household for some years previous to the death of Mr. Brady, is now in Munich, Germany, inquiring for a suitable convent. If Mrs. Brady has not already left London for Germany, she will shortly do so and may not return to Rome except to take her final vows and enter a convent of her own foundation.

Under Nicholas Brady's will, his widow is in position to dispose of a huge fortune, the income from which is almost certain to grow as the value of the late utilities magnate's holdings increase. This income will be ample for the endowment of a rich convent, as Mrs. Brady's own expenses will be reduced almost to nothing.

Arrangements are already being made for disposal of the lease on Brady's home in Rome. It belongs to Countess Piccolomini, who is well known in Washington society, and overlooks the Vatican City State. It has a beautiful little chapel and a sunny garden, with tennis courts, on which the late Mr. Brady often played.

There is a report current that Alexander Kirk, counselor at the United States Embassy here, may take the lease off Mrs. Brady's hands, but no decision on this has yet been taken.

It appears that Brady knew about his wife's desire to enter a convent if she survived him and discussed details with her during his last illness.

One of Mr. Brady's ultimate acts of generosity was the gift of a large sum toward the purchase of a house in Rome for the papal nuncio to the Italian government. This post is filled by Mgr. Borgogini Duca, an old friend of the Brady family. The post was created only last year after the conciliation between the Vatican and the Italian state.

ZUTA EXECUTIONER DECLARED KNOWN

Pictures of Capone Henchman Said to Be Identified; Two Others Arrested.

STEGE NOT TO GO BACK

Milwaukee, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Milwaukee Sentinel tonight said pictures of Ted Newberry, henchman of Al Capone, were identified by witnesses as a member of the gun squad which executed Jack Zuta, a George Moran gang leader, in a dance hall near Delafield, Wis., recently.

The witnesses whose names, the paper said, were withheld, said the man identified as Newberry poured machine gun fire into Zuta's body.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Authorities in both Chicago and Wisconsin pursued the search today for the killers of Jake Lingle and Jack Zuta, arresting several accused hoodlums as suspects. Chief among them were Claude Maharffey and William Doyle, who were sought for possible identification by persons in the Wisconsin dance resort the night a gang squad executed Zuta, Chicago vice leader.

Mayor William Hale Thompson sent a letter today to the July grand jury which investigated the Lingle assassination, saying he had referred its recommendations for reinstating John Stege as chief of detectives to Commissioner John Alcock. Stege resigned under fire following the Lingle slaying, but the grand jury gave him a vote of confidence and urged his reinstatement.

Later in the day Commissioner Alcock said the request of the grand jury for reinstating Stege would be denied.

In the meantime, police were confronted with another crime mystery, when the body of a man, believed to have been murdered, was taken from the drainage canal in suburban Cicero late today.

JAHNCKE WILL MAKE NAVY CROSS AWARDS

Four Marine Corps Officers to Get Medals Today for Nicaraguan Service.

SICKNESS BALKS FIFTH

(Associated Press.)

Four Marine Corps officers will be decorated with the Navy Cross today for distinguished service in Nicaragua.

Acting Secretary Jahncke of the Navy will present the cross to Col. James T. Buttrick, of Newport, R. I.; Maj. Miles R. Thacher, Fort Niobrara, Nebr.; Capt. William K. MacNulty, Antrim, Pa., and First Lieut. Edwin U. Hakala, Detroit.

Lieut. Col. Elias R. Beadle, retired, was to have received a decoration at the same time, but he is ill at his home near Alexandria, Va., and will

Col. Buttrick, now in command of the Marine Barracks at Hampton Roads, Va., commanded the Fifth Marine Regiment when it was stationed in the bandit-infested northern area of Nicaragua. The citation praised the manner in which he used his troops to establish law and order.

Maj. Thacher was awarded the Navy Cross for his "careful study of methods employed by the insurrectors and sound planning of offensive operations against them."

First Lieut. Hakala was cited for gallantry in commanding combined Marine and Nicaraguan voluntario combat patrol against bandits.

Capt. MacNulty was commended for having rescued a platoon of ambushed marines after a long night march over unknown territory.

Lieut. Col. Beadle was rewarded for his work in training and coordinating the activities of the guardia, the national protective organization of Nicaragua.

Ringworms Itched Terribly and Burned. Healed by Cuticura.

"The ringworms first began with little red pimples on my husband's abdomen and thighs. They itched terribly when he perspired, and used to burn. He used to scratch the eruptions until they were so sore that he had to protect them with gauze so that his clothing would not rub them. He also had eczema for three months.

"I advised him to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so he purchased some. After a few treatments he got good results, and in about a month he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Lydia Brown, 1016 Orange St., New Orleans, La., Aug. 16, 1929.

Testimony from EXPERTS

More Washington automobile dealers and distributors recommend ESSO for use in the cars they sell than recommend any other motor fuel or gasoline.

YOU'D agree, wouldn't you, whether you drive a car or not, that no one is in a better position to know the difference in gasolines than an automobile dealer. The car the dealer is demonstrating to a prospect must run faultlessly, quietly—and yet show quick pick-up and reserve power. It must show itself at its best or lose out to a competitive make.

So we interviewed the 38 leading car dealers and distributors of Washington to see what gasoline or motor fuel they are using. And we found that 19 of the 38 are using ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel, in the cars they demonstrate. That's more car dealers than are using any other motor fuel or gasoline sold in Washington.

How we asked 1000 Washington motorists, "What gasoline do you use?" Car dealers have since proved this driver, stopped in front of the Pan American Building, was right when he said, "ESSO, because it's in a class by itself. It gives no knocks and I proved to myself it means less repairs."

But that's only half the story

A motor fuel might be good for stunt performance but harmful to an engine in the long run. And the company that sells an automobile wants it to give permanently top-notch performance.

So we asked each car dealer, "What gasoline do you recommend to your customers for use in the cars they buy?"

Every one of the 19 Washington dealers and distributors who uses ESSO for demonstration purposes also recommends that his customers use ESSO in the cars they drive. And that was testimony from bona fide experts! Because we talked to the service departments of these car dealers where expert mechanics cure the wear and tear on motors. "We recommend that ESSO is the best-suited fuel for the modern high-compression engine," said the Manager of the Maintenance Department of one of Washington's leading car dealers.

"We recommend ESSO to our customers for best all-round performance," said the President of another large automobile agency.

"ESSO for no carbon," was the terse summary of another service salesman.

And so the expert testimony of men who know motors backs up the motoring public of Washington. (The public has already shown in a recent impartial traffic check that more Washington motorists use and prefer ESSO than use any other gasoline or motor fuel sold in Washington.)

Take the advice of men who know how to get the most out of a motor when it's new, and then how to keep it new. Use ESSO yourself. The first tankful will show you why in four years the Giant Power Fuel, selling at a 3-cent premium, has become Washington's favorite.

CLEARED FOR ACTION.

Claudius Huston's resignation as chairman of the Republican national committee, and the appointment of Senator Fess to his place, leaves the party free to prosecute the forthcoming campaign on its true issues. The Republican organization is now as well groomed for action as is the Democratic party. So long as the Republican chairman was subject to political attack, it would have been impossible to focus the campaign on issues of national policy. Senator Fess pointed out the seriousness of the forthcoming battle from the party standpoint when he mentioned the "economic issues" that seem destined for parading. The Republican party is not responsible for the business depression, but the Democrats will try to make capital of it.

The party would have been put to unfair advantage if, in addition to trying to steer the electorate away from this bogey it also should have had to combat an organized onslaught upon its committee personnel.

The way is now cleared for cementing the party into a homogeneous whole. The importance of the Mann statement, issued upon the eve of the meeting of the committee to accept Mr. Huston's resignation, in which he hurled defiance in the face of the administration's effort to build up the party in the South, may be discounted. Col. Mann protests that Southern Republicans are interested only in running their own affairs without outside interference, but there is no intention on the part of any one to deprive them of this privilege and there is no reason whatsoever to believe that the colonel will be able to hold his cohorts in line. Southern Republicans realize that their strength lies in working harmoniously with the national organization. They know that a party schism must only end in disaster. Those of them who are sincere in their desire to see the party established in the South are in full accord with the project of cleaning house. It is the disgruntled element that is to be found beneath the Mann banner.

In a statement accompanying his resignation, Mr. Huston emphasizes the fact that he is conscious of no sense of wrongdoing. He turns over the task of directing the party to another, he says, "to avoid being accused of imposing any personal burdens upon the party during the coming campaign," and to permit him "to pursue, without embarrassing others, a course that will insure in the minds of Republicans of the country his right to their continued esteem and confidence." Mr. Huston, as a private citizen, should be far better able to vindicate himself than he would have been as party chairman.

Senator Fess, the new chairman of the national committee, and Robert H. Lucas, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who becomes executive director of the committee in active charge of national headquarters, have their task cut out. The Democratic national committee has been functioning on all cylinders for many months. It has made political capital of the tariff, the farm situation, the business depression, the naval treaty and other questions, while the Republican national committee has not yet gone into action. It is repugnant to the American theory of two-party government that this should have been permitted to go on. With the reorganization of the Republican national committee the way is cleared for a fair and honest fight in the forthcoming campaign.

TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT.

It seems only yesterday that aviators were striving to link by airplane the oceans that lag America's Eastern and Western shores. Today any one may fly from coast to coast and airmail planes drone monotonously through on regular schedule. What tomorrow may hold is indicated by Capt. Frank Hawks' flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific in less than fifteen hours.

Today's spectacular, sporting adventures of aviators become the commonplace flights of tomorrow. Capt. Hawks breakfasted in New York and dined in Los Angeles. It will not be long before any one may do the same. His flight was accomplished in a tiny racing plane at physical discomfort, but aeronautics is quick to adapt to commercial carriers the attributes that make for speed in racing craft. It will not be long before commercial ships capable of linking the oceans between breakfast-time and dinner will be in regular operation. Nor will the development stop at that point. The record for transcontinental flight will be ever under attack. Planes will be constantly improved and the possibilities of flight at high altitudes explored.

Some day transcontinental flight may be measured in minutes. Men living today remember when months were required to push from coast to coast in wagons. Then came the railroads, reducing the journey to days. Now comes the airplane to reduce it to hours and ultimately to minutes.

GOVERNMENT'S ROLE.

What is the proper role for a government to play? This question cropped out in the discussions at both the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville and the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass. It leads directly back to the age-old question of whether the state exists for the individual, or the individual for the state.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, replied with the greatest degree of common sense. The government, Mr. Barnes said, should not operate railroads, telephone or telegraph lines, nor engage in business activity which can be more advantageously carried on by private efforts. Instead of a player in the game of life the government must be an umpire, a fair and just arbiter, capable of maintaining conditions of fair play.

At Williamstown the question turned on whether a parliamentary system of government acts as a barrier against socialism. John Martin, one of the organizers of the British Labor party, contended with a good deal of logic that a representative government is not conducive to the development of communism. Rigorous autocracy is essential to force people into a system that makes them servants, if not slaves, of the state. So long as majority opinion prevails, people will not surrender their freedom of action, not even to the state.

Socialism and democracy are incompatible. Socialism takes the government out of its proper role as umpire and makes it the chief player in the human drama. All activity, economic and political, becomes centered in one head. Individual aspirations and initiative are suppressed. The whole tendency of such a political set-up tends toward dictatorship.

Democracy, on the other hand, leaves the individual free to pursue his own way in life so long as he does not interfere with the rights of others. He may achieve much or little. He is not a cog in a slowly grinding wheel, but a dynamic power, acting for himself. The state is not his master, but his guide and helper.

Whenever the issue has come to a test the American people have decided that they wish to remain masters of their own destiny. The government is fashioned to serve as an umpire only. It can not satisfactorily assume the role of landlord, business manager and sales director. Every step that is taken toward government ownership and operation weakens the political structure. An institution set up to "establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty" can not play the part of a commercial agency without grave dangers of disintegration.

PROHIBITION SHOOTINGS.

The warning of Prohibition Director Woodcock that the Department of Justice will not defend a prohibition agent who shoots a fugitive in the back is in line with the new policy of safe and sane enforcement. Warnings have been issued before by other prohibition chieftains, but this is the first time that the Federal Government has threatened to withhold legal aid to the offender.

The shooting of a person under any circumstance is deplorable, but the shooting of a person in the back is cowardly and savage. When it is done in the name of the Federal Government it is doubly frightful.

Under a law passed in 1883 and extended by the Volstead act, the trial of a prohibition agent who has been arrested by county or State authorities may be transferred to a Federal court. The Supreme Court has justified this on the ground that an agent, if tried in a non-Federal court, might be unduly punished because of local prejudice. Hence the prohibition agent always has had the satisfaction of knowing that, in the event of trouble, he would be tried in a Federal court and defended by a Federal attorney. In some cases this protection undoubtedly has led agents to be more promiscuous with firearms than they otherwise would be.

A check-up by the Treasury Department last October showed that 199 persons had been killed in the enforcement of prohibition, of whom 143 were civilians and 56 agents. Some of the civilians were shot in the back, and even the explanations of the Treasury Department failed to exonerate the agents who did the shooting.

Human life is sacred. If Director Woodcock can conserve it, that in itself will justify the reorganization that brought him to his present position.

PRESIDENT'S COMMISSIONS.

When President Hoover named a commission on home building and ownership last week it was widely reported that the twenty-first presidential commission had come into being. That is not entirely correct. Twenty-one commissions have been appointed since Mr. Hoover's inauguration, but eight of them are a direct result of legislation. Their creation must be attributed not to the President but to Congress. Five other commissions are concerned with the coordination of activities of the different executive departments, and can not be considered public agencies. Only eight of the so-called "Hoover commissions" are of the type that is associated in the public mind with fact-finding on public issues.

The first and most famous of these is the Law Enforcement Commission. Next comes the Farm Board, the commission for conservation of the public domain, the Haitian Commission, the delegation to the London Naval Conference, the Conference on Child Health, the conference for maintenance of industrial activity and employment during the period of industrial depression, and the home building commission. In the creation of agencies to deal with child health, unemployment and home building the President merely acted as an organizing force. These activities are being carried on by private interests without cost to the taxpayers.

Eliminating these conferences, the coordination committees and the commissions required by Congress there remain only three important public commissions appointed on the initiative of President Hoover. They are the Law Enforcement Commission, which is investigating the broad subject of lawlessness in the United States; the Farm Board, which is endeavoring to solve the agricultural problem, and that group which is studying conservation of the public domain. Work of the delegation to the London Naval Conference and the Haitian Commission has been completed.

Aside from partisan attacks, most of the opposition to commissions arises from their tendency to survive after they have outlived their usefulness. President Hoover regards fact-finding by the commission method as a "sound process for production of the truth." The value of accurate scientific data in the solution of great public issues can not be denied. In so far as commissions serve that purpose, they are a valuable asset to the Government, but when they remain an expense after their work has been done they are a liability.

President Hoover is reported to be as enthusiastic over the dismissal of commissions when their specific work is done as he is for their appointment. In this event the public need not be concerned over his intention to appoint other commissions as the need arises. Is it not possible that the President might go a step further and abolish some of the obsolete agencies inherited from previous administrations?

Tree surgeons are utilizing cork to fill up tree cavities. That suggests a way for disposing of those used corks and leaves only the used razor blade problem to worry the masculine mind.

CAUSES OF THE DROUGHT

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Increments of meteorological information are but poor compensation, owners of withered crops will insist, for this summer's exceptional drought, yet that information is about the only feature of the present weather which can be set down on the profit side of the ledger. The last comparable condition seems to have been in 1874, when but few weather observatories were maintained and anything like the present world maps of weather was still a dream. This summer for the first time weather scientists have before them in drought time even a partial picture of what is happening to the oceans and air currents and other brewers of storms or droughts. Superficially, the answer to the query, "Why the drought?" is straightforward. There has been persistent high air pressure over most of the United States. This has kept out the moisture-laden winds from the oceans on both coasts, for winds tend to blow outward from high pressure areas, never inward toward them.

The true problem, however, is the cause of this persistent high pressure. It is too soon to read this with assurance. The European weather maps, for example, come by mail and are ten days to two weeks late in American laboratories. Yet one fact can be discerned from the maps for this country. What is called the storm track has shifted northward. Most of the rain in North America is provided by the cyclonic storms which sweep across the continent from the Pacific to the Atlantic every few days in winter and at longer intervals in summer. These storms cause moving areas of low pressure; the low pressure draws winds both from the north and the south; these winds mix; the cold north winds precipitate the moisture from the warmer southern ones. That, in a sentence, is the cause of America's rain.

Ordinarily these recurring storms follow a path which crosses the northern third of the United States. Since July 20 not one of these storms has done so. They have not vanished, inspection of Canadian records show. They merely have been swinging farther north than usual, crossing the Hudson Bay region and providing the more ample rains which Canada has received. The wheat and corn belts of the United States have been left south of the storm track untouched by the mixture of winds which might have brought rain.

A step back of this lies another question. Why has the storm track swung farther north? Here authorities differ, but Mr. Herbert Janvrin Browne, weather forecaster of unofficial status but of substantial success, has an idea. The ultimate culprit, he believes, is the moon, which in its swings southward and northward in successive decades affects the tidal equilibrium of the oceans and thus the winds on land. The cycle of moon motions which now is occurring repeats, Mr. Browne points out, that of 1874, and 1874 was also a year of drought. As a scientific guess, this is perhaps the best now available. But much research remains to be made before a certain conclusion can be reached.

BANANAS.

Full twelve times a day Janet comes with the cry:
"May I have a banana?"
She repeats it until mother is heard to reply:
"May I have a banana?"
She shouts it whenever the house is in sight,
Whenever the dinner dessert isn't right,
'Tis her first cry at morning; the last call at night:
"May I have a banana?"

Some children beg cookies, but here's Janet's plea:
"May I have a banana?"
She'll ask us at breakfast, at luncheon, at tea:
"May I have a banana?"
Should we load up a table with everything sweet
Which eight-year-old children are eager to eat,
She'd look them all over, then once more repeat:
"May I have a banana?"

Here's one plea perhaps that must pass with the years:
"May I have a banana?"
In time never more will this ring in our ears:
"May I have a banana?"
And sadder we'll be, beyond shadow of doubt,
When wisdom and dignity reign all about
And we've no little girl to come in with the shout:
"May I have a banana?"

The First Part of the Cure Is the Realization That He Is Sick

By ROBERT QUILLEN

At a revival meeting in the hill country of North Carolina, the itinerant evangelist had completed his exhortation and made his plea for converts when an ancient enemy of law and order got to his feet and cried: "Oh, Lord; I'm meaner'n a dog!"

His confession revealed the process by which all reform is inaugurated.

A man's first step in the achievement of decency or learning or wisdom is the realization that he is indecent or ignorant or foolish.

That sounds trite and yet it is a truth seldom comprehended—or, being understood, seldom accepted as a guide.

Those who lack health or friends or money usually accept their ill fortune as something inevitable and ordained by heaven, or attribute it to bad luck, or endure it in sullen resentment as evidence of fate's unfairness; but not one in ten makes a sensible effort to mend matters by taking stock of himself to discover the cause of his troubles.

How can a physician effect a cure without a correct diagnosis?

If you can't make friends as other people do, there is a sufficient reason—and it isn't halitosis.

You talk too much about yourself; you boast too much or whine too much; you are too silent and reserved; you keep a mean dog; you knock everybody; you high-hat people; you are too timid; you don't like people and can't pretend to like them; your manners are rude; you aren't clean.

Whatever the reason may be, an honest examination of yourself will reveal it; and you can't hope to mend matters until you make that examination and rid yourself of the faults it reveals.

It isn't the difficulty of reform that keeps men down, but their inability to see the need of reform.

Any man can mend his way when he sees where mending is needed; the hard part is to develop the courageous humility that will enable him to realize what an ass he has been.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL ANSWERS THE EDISON DESERT QUESTION.

(Q. You are the head of an expedition stranded in the desert. You have with you a noted scientist aged 60, his wife, 38, chiefly interested in society matters; their child, aged 6; two guides, aged 32 and 58; the girl you are engaged to marry and your best friend, who gives promise of scientific achievement. You have food and water enough to save three. Which would you elect to save?—From the Edison intelligence test.)

"Well," said Elmer Twitchell, after studying the problem; "to begin with I would consider the aged scientist's goose as good as cooked. He would be getting on toward the age where he would begin issuing questionnaires anyhow.

* * * *

"His wife would have to stay, too. With the professor out of the way, she would be getting a break, but I would have to refuse to save her, as she would talk nothing but society stuff all the way out of the desert and would be putting us to a great bother to find out what the Vanderbilts were doing, and if Bailey's Beach was letting in the riff-raff. I would have a dislike for her, anyhow, through the belief she had married the old scientist just to get a husband who could fix the radio and be able to make adjustments on the electric vibrator.

* * * *

"The 6-year-old kid would have to stay too. He would be one of those intolerably smart children with tortoise-shell glasses, always saying, "Lookit what I got," and showing a jar full of lightning bugs and sulphuric acid. I would give him a book on parlor magic and leave him.

* * * *

"One of the guides I would save, as I am no hand at getting out of a strange country without good road maps. How to shake the other would be a problem but I would send him away for a left-handed monkey wrench or something and beat it while he was gone.

* * * *

"Then I guess I would have to save my best friend, because he would probably owe me $20 or $30, which would be as good as sunk if I didn't save him. He also would be wearing one of my suits and reading a book he had borrowed from me.

* * * *

"I would save the girl to whom I was engaged, because she would be wearing a $200 ring I had given her and because there would be a lot of talk back home if I didn't. This would make three persons, but I think I would save myself, too. This might seem selfish but I could get along without eating much, and besides I would, of course, as head of an expedition, have a contract with a newspaper syndicate and the New York Times to write a daily article on my sufferings, and if I remained behind and died the paper could sue my estate.

* * * *

"Well, I hope I have solved the problem to your satisfaction and if I ever find myself in a desert I will let you know how it works out," concluded Mr. Twitchell.

VERY SIMPLE.

Many an American fireside is being disrupted by arguments over that Edison test question as to which three should be saved of a group of persons stranded in a desert. Ima Dodo, for instance, was thrown out of the house last night for declaring the problem wouldn't disturb her a bit. "I would just sit down and write Dorothy Dix or Arthur Brisbane," she said.

SUNK.

Willie, who was once quite bright,
Now sits with an empty stare—
He hasn't been the same boy since That Edison questionnaire!

The father of an Edison intelligence test winner must have it pretty soft. He can read his evening paper in the full assurance that he will not be constantly annoyed by a flood of questions on subjects about which his son doesn't know much.

President Hoover has now appointed a commission to spur home building. It is to be hoped it will bring some suggestions toward getting the average contractor to realize he is building a home, not a collapsible box.

The American Research Foundation announces that a family of four can eat on $13.72 a week. This is based, obviously, on the provision that at least one member of the family has a key to a grocery store where there is no night watchman.

Sir Thomas Lipton's latest Shamrock is making the trip across the ocean without even minor trouble. This must give our American defenders that most embarrassing feeling.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A "Buy Something" Movement Is Suggested to Start the Machinery of Commerce.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In order to quickly stimulate business in all lines of endeavor, I suggest a "buy something" movement throughout the country. In using the term "buy something," I have in mind the broadest application, whether it be a nozzle for a hose, washing machine, paper hanging, tuckpointing a house, the purchase of an automobile, taking a trip, giving employment to an additional worker, buying or building a home, the purchase of a shirt or dress, &c.

The whole object is to start the machinery of commerce in all lines of business. Most people are holding off buying anything except absolute necessities though able to do so. Due to lack of employment, others are unable to buy anything and some only dire necessities. My thought is to buy something not absolutely needed in order to put in motion activity of all kinds. That should have the effect of creating additional employment as such purchase will automatically increase the number of employes. In turn that will provide earning power, and the buying power thus created, if extended over the country, should do much to revive business.

As the people who are employed because of the added buying power begin to spend their earnings, that will start employment in other avenues, so that in the end every type of business should take on more help. The increased buying power due to the additional number employed, will thus make possible the ability to buy necessities which they have lacked because of unemployment, while those who have not been so hedged in for lack of finances will feel more at liberty to "buy something" in the way of luxuries and even necessities, which have been put off due to the uncertainty of business.

GEORGE J. SCHULTE.

Wickedness Destroyed Ancient Countries and Cities—We Should Take Warning.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our beloved country appears to be facing a great calamity such as she has never experienced before, and we now manifest a willingness to fall prostrate on our knees and pray for succor and deliverance. Prayers are being offered up everywhere and even our President has been importuned to name a definite time for universal prayer for rain and deliverance from famine.

Is it not singular that we have only offered up prayers once a year in unison for the manifold blessings that have been vouchsafed to us during so long a period of blessed peace and plenty? Do we only think of Him during the hours of need, distress and peril? Why should it take such terrible visitations to remind us of our gratitude to God. Are we not being punished for our manifest indifference and ingratitude? Both are recognized as cardinal sins. We forget when everything is lovely—the very time when we should feel grateful and express it in thought and action.

It is freely admitted that we, as a Nation, have literally gone pleasure and money mad, and it seems to me that unless and until there is a speedy confession of our sins and we get back into righteous and holy paths blazed by the early founders of this glorious country of ours, we should look for his frowns of disapproval and a manifestation of righteous indignation. Destruction was visited upon ancient Greece, Rome, Sodom, Gomorrah, Pompeii and Babylon for such wickedness. Are we much better than they? Let us take warning lest we perish from the earth.

VOX POPULI.

Upholds All Night Parking.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Admitting that the learned remarks of "Property Owner" in regard to property rights are partially true, one wonders in what way a ban on all-night parking will assuage his grief over the fellows with dinky flivvers, too poor to afford a garage, who dare to park in front of his domicile. If the rules in effect in other cities are followed, the ban would not be in effect until 12 midnight, and would be lifted at 6 or 7 in the morning. During the remaining 17 or 18 hours of the day "Property Owner" would be forced to put up with hornhootings, back-firing and other evidences of the promiscuity of Ford and General Motors. Mayhap, the noise caused by the aforesaid cheap skates moving their cars to put them into garages at 12 midnight would be far more a nuisance than if they were allowed to let their junk stand on the street all night.

Aside from this, while it is true that property rights are paramount, yet the money collected from autoists in gas tax, license tax, personal property tax, sales tax, &c., amounts to several million dollars per year. Without such sum property owners would be forced to dig a little deeper for the upkeep of the streets, upon which autoists too poor to afford a garage now beg the privilege of parking their cars for 24 hours of the day instead of the 17 or 18 which would be allotted them under the parking ban.

A. FORD.

NEIGHBORHOOD PESTS.

A dentist in Lexington, Ky., roused from sleep by the persistent love-calls of a tom cat, rose from his bed and made a valiant attempt to shoot that tom cat dead. Unfortunately he only succeeded in wounding it, and the spinster owner of the abominable animal is suing him for $5,000. Our sympathy is all with the dentist, the Manitoba Free Press says, adding that a little light buckshot could also be usefully employed upon persons who park their cars outside apartment blocks and honk persistently for a friend. Something of the same kind might also be used upon persons who carelessly dial the wrong number on the telephone after midnight. And while we are on the subject, perhaps a shot of rock salt would do politicians no harm.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Borahs Judge Bal Masque in Poland Springs

Senator Finds Diversion in Maine; News of Other Senators.

INTERESTING news of some of the senatorial contingents enjoying relaxation on Northern hillsides or at resorts drifts to Washington, now dependent to some extent upon gossip from the Nation's resorts in any endeavor to keep apace with the movements of society and official groups.

Senator and Mrs. Henry W. Keyes are "taking it easy" at their mountain estate, Pine Grove Farm, Haverhill, N. H., where they are entertaining guests during most of the week-ends. They will have with them a few days this month, Miss Dorothy Dial, daughter of former Senator Nathan B. Dial, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Dial, who left Washington yesterday for a visit in the North. Before going to the Keyes farm, Miss Dial will be the guest of Senator and Mrs. Royal S. Copeland at their summer home in Suffern, N. Y. She will be absent from town about two weeks.

At Poland Springs, Me., where Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah are passing some time, the Senator and Mrs. Borah were judges last night at a masquerade dance given at their hotel. Senator Borah, who has been ill for some weeks, finds diversion in the Northern resort, where he indulges in his favorite sport, horseback riding. Among the other Washingtonians who are in Poland Springs for the summer are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stellwagen and Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Henry.

From the far West comes word of the arrival of Senator and Mrs. Carl Hayden in Phoenix on Tuesday after a leisurely journey through the Panama Canal to Los Angeles. Senator and Mrs. Hayden pass a part of the summer at their attractive home in Phoenix, but also follow the trail of Arizonans to the deep forests and mountain resorts near Prescott, Ariz.

Washington was sure of the movements of one senator, at least, through the midweek, as Senator Hamilton F. Kean, of New Jersey, came to Washington and is passing a few days at the Willard.

Mrs. Hoover Passing Week-End at Rapidan.

Mrs. Hoover is passing the entire week at the camp of the President on the Rapidan, having gone there on Wednesday after her return from Camden, N. J., where she christened the ship Excalibur, of the merchant marine. It was the third time in the Nation's history that a ship had been christened by the wife of a President. Mrs. Grover Cleveland christened the St. Paul at Camden and twelve years ago Mrs. Woodrow Wilson christened the Quistconck, the first vessel launched at the war-time shipyard at Hog Island.

Mrs. Stark McMullin, of California, and a social secretary accompanied Mrs. Hoover to the Rapidan. They will remain over the week end.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, returned yesterday from Topeka, Kans., where he has been for several weeks. He will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann at their home in Cleveland Park which they recently opened for the late summer season. They all will return to the Mayflower late in September.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, left last night for New England, planning to be in Newport for a short time and spend a day or two with Mrs. Adams at the Glades at Scituate, Mass.

Mr. Simon Radeff, Minister of Bulgaria, sailed yesterday from New York to pass some time at his home abroad. During his absence the First Secretary of Legation, M. Stephen P. Bisseroff, will be charge d'affaires.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, of Greenwich, Conn., and former president general of the D. A. R., is passing some time at Moosehead Lake, Me., as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman left Washington yesterday by motor for Newport. They passed last night at Radnor, Pa., with Mr. and Mrs. James F. Sullivan, and tonight they will be at Oyster Bay, Long Island, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Tuckerman. They will spend about two weeks in Newport visiting Mrs. Tuckerman's sister, Mrs. Frederic de Peyster and other friends, and will return to Washington about September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Carter announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Madge Tenney Carter, to Mr. Lee Calvin Ashcraft, jr., on August 4.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Heller are spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Chesley at their cottage at Holly Shores on the Chesapeake Bay.

Engaged

Bachrach.

MISS ELIZABETH LOCKWOOD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Lockwood, whose engagement to Mr. Shiras Morris, son of Mrs. Shiras Morris, of Hartford, Conn., is announced.

Mary Atwell Is Engaged to F. Hitchcock

Wedding to Take Place at Manhasset, L. I., in September.

The engagement of Miss Mary Atwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Atwell, of Mayfair House, New York, and Manhasset, Long Island, to Mr. Francis C. E. Hitchcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, of New York, Westbury, Long Island, and Aiken, S. C., has been announced in New York. Mr. Francis Hitchcock's mother was Miss Louise Eustis, granddaughter of the late Mr. W. W. Corcoran, of Washington, patron of the arts and donor of the Corcoran Art Gallery.

Miss Atwell, who was introduced to society in 1925, is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart in New York and of Mrs. Randall McIver's School and later studied music in Paris. She is the sister of Miss Angelica Atwell and of Mr. George Atwell, jr., who married Miss Jean Cochran, daughter of the present Princess Hohenlohe-Schillingshurst, and Gifford A. Cochran. Miss Atwell's engagement to Mr. John Vanneck was announced in 1926 and subsequently was broken.

Mr. Hitchcock is a brother of Mr. Thomas Hitchcock, jr., international polo player. His father has played and supported polo in this country since 1886. He was one of the pioneers who started the series of international games in Newport and was a member of the United States team that played the British team in Newport in 1886.

The wedding will take place on the afternoon of September 22 at the Atwell estate at Manhasset, Long Island.

Mr. William Bowie Clark, Mr. John B. Cochran and the latter's brother, Mr. Peyton Cochran, of Staunton, Va., are in Montreal, Canada, where they motored several days ago. They will go to Bar Harbor and Newport for visits before returning to Washington.

Mrs. Andrew Hamilton Cannon left last night for Charlottesville, Va., where she will attend the Institute of Public Affairs.

Miss Francis Chooses Aids For Wedding

Marriage to J. F. Foy Will Take Place August 16.

Miss Margaret Francis, of East Orange, has completed plans for her wedding to John Francis Foy, of Washington. The ceremony will take place on Saturday, August 16, at St. Matthew's, the little mountain church at Sugar Hill, N. H., with the Rev. R. Eliot Marshall, of Boston, officiating.

Miss Francis has chosen as her attendants her cousins, the Misses Caroline Clark and Jane Goodlove, of New York; Miss Anne Bulkeley, of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. E. Thurston Towle, of Providence, R. I.

The bride-elect is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold William Francis, and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Janes Francis, at the Sunset Hill House, Sugar Hill. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln A. Wagenhals, of New York, and of Commander Adolphus Andrews, of the U. S. S. Tennessee, and Mrs. Andrews.

She attended the Dearborn-Morgan School at Orange and Miss Wheeler's School in Providence, R. I. For the last two years she has been studying under Mme. Helena de la Boissiere in Paris.

Mr. Foy is the son of Maj. and Mrs. Foy and served as captain in the Air Service during the war. He is now in the United States Diplomatic Corps and will be stationed in Washington for the next few years.

Mrs. Ada L. Wasney, of Oakcrest, Va., has as her guest for the remainder of the summer Miss Marguerite Sullivan, of Philadelphia.

Miss Hecksher to Wed Capital Man's Brother.

Mrs. Vanderhoef Heckscher, of Park avenue, New York, and Shadow's End, Glen Cove, Long Island, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Frances Heckscher, to Mr. Philip Hofer, brother of Mr. Myron A. Hofer, of Washington. Mr. Charles Hofer is the son of Mrs. Charles F. Hofer and the late Mr. Hofer, of New York and Cincinnati.

Miss Heckscher, who is the granddaughter of Mr. Harman B. Vanderhoef, of Greenwich, Conn., was introduced to society three years ago. She attended Miss Chapins' School and the Permata School in Aiken, S. C. She is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Hofer, a Harvard graduate, member of several important Harvard and New York clubs, including the Hasty Pudding, the Union Club, and the Grolier Club, is with his mother at Armsleigh, Camden, Me. No date has been set for the wedding.

Lieut. Col. L. A. Kunzig, former instructor of the 135th Infantry at Minneapolis, has arrived in Washington for duty at the War College, and with his family is at the Martinique.

Mr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, of the State Department, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, the Counselor of the Hungarian Legation and Mrs. John Pelenyi being among his guests.

Maj. John Millikin, accompanied by his family, is at the Martinique after motoring from Fort Leavenworth, Kans. Maj. Millikin comes to Washington for duty at the War College. They will live at 3313 Porter street.

Miss Greenleaf Hostess At Hotel Luncheon.

Mrs. Eric Greenleaf was a luncheon hostess yesterday at the Mayflower, having as her guests Mrs. Stephen W. Gambrill, wife of Representative Gambrill, of Maryland; Mrs. Charles Franklin and Senora de Guell, wife of the Second Secretary of the Cuban Embassy.

Newport Host To Navy Men From Poland

Officers and Midshipmen of Training Ship Are There From Cuba.

Members of the Polish Embassy staff who are passing some time in Newport include the charge d'affaires of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Lepkowski; the commercial counselor, Mr. Witold Wankowicz, and the financial counselor, Mr. Alexander Woytkiewicz. Yesterday they were the guests of Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, who entertained at a tea at her home, Beacon Hill House, for the officers and midshipmen of the Polish training ship Iskra, which is in Newport. The ship came from Santiago, Cuba, and will be in Newport about 10 days before cruising back to Poland.

On Sunday, Mrs. George Mesta will entertain at a tea for the officers and midshipmen at the Rocks, and also for Miss Marjorie McVickar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McVickar, of New York and Paris, who made her debut in Newport last Saturday.

Mrs. George Benoit and her daughter, Patricia Ann, of Snowden Farm, Fredericksburg, Va., have gone to Rio de Janeiro for a visit. Mr. Benoit will join them later in Europe.

The Counselor of the Spanish Embassy, Count de Mountefuerte, entertained at the dinner dance Wednesday evening at the Plage Deauville at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Louise M. Dodson, director of the women's division of the Republican national committee, entertained at dinner on Wednesday at the Mayflower for a group of Republican national committeewomen who are in Washington attending a meeting of the executive committee today.

Mrs. Dodson's guests included Mrs. Virginia White Speel, of Washington; Mrs. Paul Rewman, of South Dakota; Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, of West Virginia; Miss Martha McClure, of Iowa; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, of Missouri, and Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, of Maine.

HIDE IN THE DARK - - -

By FRANCES NOYES HART

Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time: All-Hallows Eve.
Place: Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Lindy Marsden, lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romanticist, and mistress of Lady Court.

Doug King, hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.

Neil Sheridan, sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess and the lack of manners of a fishwife.

Chatty Ross, small, gay, blindly adoring wife of Tom Ross, the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.

Hanna Dart, a gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband.

Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with Joel Hardy, her charming and irrepressible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Larry Redmond, an agreeable young banker, who can not understand why Jill hates him.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing magnificently well.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves the March Hares, have gathered on Halloween at Lady Court, an old manor house. As the party gets under way some one starts a xraphophone. The record is "Underneath the Stars," Sunny's tune, Sunny herself, whom every one loved, having been drowned in Washington.

Kit entertains with a few songs. Lindy then tells him why she arranged the party. She confesses her love for him, proposes, while in another part of the house Larry proclaims his love to Jill. Outside a storm is raging, but the March Hares continue to make merry. Kit and Doug, however, quarrel when Lindy objects (for the moment) to dancing with Kinz. The situation is saved when Lindy relates a murder story concerning early relatives who occupied Lady Court.

Chatty and Trudi review events since the last party. Lindy corners Kit again and teases him about being jealous of Doug King. Later as she chants "Mirror, mirror, dark and bright . . ." Kit's face appears in the glass. The mirror is broken. Doug is furious. Kit discovers that the party is marooned—a bridge over a creek has been washed out.

Halloween games continue until some one suggests cards and dice until midnight. Kit makes a big winning at poker. Doug is the victim.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

Doug Retires.

Joel said in a voice unstinged by any very marked sympathy, "If you don't stop waving it around like that you're likely to wreck all these cards. You've got some blood on them already."

Doug, pulling a handkerchief from his pocket with one hand, made a valiantly unsuccessful effort to stanch the blood. "No, that's no go. Lindy, lend a hand, will you? If you catch it right below the knuckle it'll make a kind of tourniquet."

Lindy, teeth deep in her lip, stretched out a hand, shuddered and turned away. "Oh, Doug, I—simply can't. I'm so dreadfully, dreadfully sorry——"

The handkerchief with its ugly crimson pattern fluttered to the table and Doug stood staring ruefully at the abandoned thumb.

"My fault, my dear—I clean forgot how you felt about it. As a matter of fact, the thing's pretty deep. I suppose I'd be a plain fool not to clean it out before I bandage it. I'll just dash upstairs, fix it up and be back before any of you know it." He swept up the handkerchief, waved a gallantly reassuring hand and was gone.

Kit drawing the edge of the knife across his thumb, remarked pensively, "He was correct about its being sharp. Still and all——" He sat staring at it appraisingly for a moment, before he put it back, and rose leisurely to his feet. "Doug, the deft and dextrous, slicing his finger to the bone and dropping stick, knife and handkerchief before you could materialize as much as a white rabbit . . . How come? How come? It's quite all right, Lindy, you can look up; there's not a sign of the tragedy left, not so much as——" He checked sharply for a moment, staring down at the place where the red-flecked handkerchief had lain, and then continued evenly, "Not so much as a drop of blood."

Joel, sweeping the chips into the red lacquer box, remarked with acerbity, "I don't know yet why he made such a roar and racket over how deep it was. It looked to me as though he hadn't even got a good nick out of his knuckle. Think he was making a grandstand play at you, Lindy?"

Lindy, sorting the cards into two neat stacks, murmured with a palely valiant smile. "Oh, I hardly think he'd choose blood as a short cut to my heart—I'm glad it wasn't deep."

Kit, his eyes still on the table, quoted pensively, "Not as deep as a well, nor as wide as a church door, but 'tis enough—'twill serve . . ."

"Whither bound, Ray?"

Ray, half-way to the door, called back, "After some aspirin. My head's simply splitting—it's this everlasting wind."

"Are we going to have to sharpen this whole pile of sticks before we can use them?"

Lindy cast an apprehensive glance at the knife.

Joel, kneeling to examine the points, answered blankly, "They're sharp as nails, every last one of them. He picked the only blunt one of the lot—By heck, I said it was a dodge! Now just what——"

Nearing Midnight.

Kit, drawing a leisurely fingertip over the green space before him, said absently, "I've got some iodine up in my room. I rather think I'll play the good Samaritan and pass it along. As he says, this might turn out to be dangerous."

He smiled down into the shadowed questions that were Lindy's eyes and was gone, on feet silent and unhurried.

For a moment the group at the table sat staring after him; behind the straining eyes something stirring, something chilled and startled, something dark, that followed him into darkness. It was Joel who broke the silence with an impatient shrug and a not particularly reassuring laugh.

"If we all crouch around here listening to this blasted wind much longer, we'll get as cuckoo as that child wife of mine. Good-night, listen to it——"

They listened, turning their faces to the frantic clamor soaring now to a higher pitch of frenzy and despair—higher—higher—higher still. Lindy sprang to her feet, pushing the table from her.

"Who's going to stir up these embers? Trudi, aren't you and your cut-throats through? It's getting on to 12 and not a soul has even started the chestnuts."

Trudi, checking glumly on expert fingers, groaned aloud. "Sherry, you poor lout, how even you could lose $6.85 as fast as that is beyond me!" She swept the pile of silver into Larry's predacious palm, "Where's that warming pan for the chestnuts? Joel Hardy, what are you sulking around the outskirts for—got a rendezvous? Turn out the blaze of glory, while you're over there, will you?"

Joel reached abstractedly for the switch and the room sank gratefully back into firelight and shadow.

"I was just trying to make up my mind whether to chase upstairs and see how the hospital ward was getting on," he remarked to a group that had already forgotten to listen. "Did Ray say she was—oh, hello, Kitten. I was just going up. Headache better?"

The little figure across the dark threshold said, "No," in a strange voice that didn't belong to Ray at all; and then moved swiftly forward clutching at him with hands that were ice cold even through the comforting warmth of his coat. "Joel, Joel, take me away from this place."

"Look out!" shrieked Trudi above the firelit laughter. "You'll have every last one in the ashes if you tilt it like that—there! Sheridan, not even a nut's safe with you. Where's the tongs? If you take the fire shovel——"

"Ray, what's the matter? Stop chattering your teeth! What is it—a chill?"

"No—no! Joel, we've got to get away. We've——"

"What do you mean, get away? Darling, you're completely off your head. I'll bet you've taken half that bottle of aspirin. Look, come over to the fire and I'll tuck you up on a cushion."

Wants to Go Home.

"I haven't t-touched any aspirin. It was all dark. I—took the wrong turn. . . . Joel, don't make me stay here."

She clung to him, drawing him deeper into the shadows, hysteria chattering behind that frantic whisper.

Joel put reassuring arms about her, his face swept with relief and mirth.

"Did something frighten my poor child? Did she hear a wicked little ghost? Well, I won't let any ghost that ever walked touch one hair of that blessed little cracked head of yours. Ray, you'll be the death of me yet——"

"It wasn't a ghost. I heard . . . I—— Joel, listen! If you get the car, we can slip out the back way without any one seeing us. We can get to Washington in two hours; we can——"

He gripped her shoulders, his voice suddenly stern. "Ray, what are you talking about? You heard Kit Baird tell you that the bridge was down between here and Washington."

"He said there was a place where you could ford. He did, he did—I heard him tell Lindy. Hurry, hurry——"

Joel gave her a vicious shake.

"Be quiet. If you think you can——"

She said, "Joel, listen to me—you've got to listen to me. Something frightful's going to happen here; something frightful's happening now . . . Listen——" She threw back her head and asked in a thread of a voice from which everything was frozen but terror, "What's that?"

"What's what? Of all the——"

"That—that noise. Hush!"

He listened, straining his ears above the crying wind, the voices from the hearth. . . . His face relaxed into grim mirth. "It's Kit Baird whistling. Is that a portent of evil?"

It came nearer—nearer—clear and careless and piercingly, effortlessly sweet—Lindy's song, seeking her down dark corridors.

"Down in the valley,
The valley below . . .
Hang your head over,
Hear the wind blow!"

Lindy, warm in the firelight, turned a face of still magic to greet it.

"Hear the wind blow, dear,
Hear the wind blow——"

"Is he—alone?"

"Good grief, how do you know whether he's alone? Now, listen Ray, and get this straight. I love you to distraction and I've never had a quarrel with you yet, but I want to tell you here and now that if you keep up this lunacy and insult my friends by any more nonsense about clearing out of here tonight I'll never forgive you as long as I live. Understand?"

She whispered, "Oh, Joel—oh, Joel—you'll never forgive yourself as long as you live," and pushed by him toward the fire without a backward glance.

A Call for Lindy.

Kit Baird called from the shadow beyond his shoulder, "Making love to your wife again? Lord, what an old-fashioned lot we are!" He slipped an affectionate arm across the other's shoulders, demanding gayly, "Got any forbidden fruit for a pair of good boys, you over there?"

There was a mild clamor of greeting.

"Here, Joel! Next to me, Kit. I've got a drink and an apple and everything ready."

The girl on the far side of the red-headed young man, holding her hands toward a fire that left them colder, asked, "Where is Doug?"

"Doug? Didn't any one tell you about the big accident, Ray? The wounded hero is still sulking in his tent. I rather gathered that he wanted you, Lindy."

Lindy, the firelight painting roses in her face, turned dark eyes of wonder toward him. "Wanted me? But what in the world for? He knows that I'm perfectly hopeless about bandages."

"Still I think he wants you." He struck a long chord of silver lamentation on the guitar. "Chatty, child, I never finished Clinch Mountain for you, did I?—and the Baird tribal motto is never start anything you don't finish. What comes after 'Jack o' Diamonds, Joel?"

"Rye whisky," prompted Joel.

"Right-o!" He flung his head back and once more the music, gay and bitter, flooded the room.

"Rye whisky, rye whisky,
You're no friend to me—
You killed my old daddy—
Now, damn you, try me!

A voice called from somewhere beyond the darkness that was the hall, the darkness that was the stairs:

"Lindy!"

"You see, I was right," said the red-headed young man.

Lindy slipped to her feet, shaking out filmy draperies, her lips curved in rueful amusement.

"Curiouser and curiouser," she remarked in that little voice of velvet and moonlight. "I feel exactly like Alice—'How the creatures do order one about!' Still, as hostess——"

"Lindy!"

Something in that distant summons caused her to drop the light words as though they were broken toys. She caught the scarf about her, called "Coming!" clearly, and was gone on winged feet, leaving the group about the fire staring after her with expressions that ranged from blank bewilderment to unconcealed outrage.

INSTITUTE SPEAKER OUTLINES FARM AID

Restoration of Competitive Prices Essential, Vermont Man Declares.

OTHER ADDRESSES MADE

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.). Henry C. Taylor, director of the Vermont commission on country life, in an address before the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs today said: "The drastic things the Federal Farm Board is earnestly trying to do with respect to price control, not only, can not be effectively done under the present law, but will not be needed if we return to the one time established economic order."

This order, he said, was to restore basic conditions of economic justice, by restoring competitive prices in so-called competitive industries; fixing reasonable prices in fields where monopolistic control is inevitable; reducing to its proper sphere special privilege legislation, particularly the protective tariff, and removing obstacles hampering agencies for collecting and disseminating information available to all producers, buyers, sellers and investors, as a basis of free and intelligent competition in production and distribution of economic goods.

Farmers' Suffering Cited.

Mr. Taylor said farmers have suffered primarily from the high prices they pay for things they buy rather than from low prices for products they sell.

"The bad situation for the farmer is the result of application of the new theory of limited competition, controlled production and prices by manufacturers and controlled rates for middlemen's services determined by businessmen in their own interests," he said.

He expressed his belief that the situation could be measurably solved either by reverting to the old regime of competition, Government price control of monopolies and tariff revision downward or by developing new institutions which will do for the farmers what the new regime of limited competition is doing for business.

Alexander Is Present.

Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., New York, was unable to appear before the institute, but his address, asserting the new industrial South might well profit by the experience of the older industrial East, was read by Maj. R. S. Duck, New York engineer.

The address said that while the South might profit by experiences of the East, the South should exercise its own initiative in developing a labor policy responsive to its own social and industrial status and potentialities.

The Rev. Clarence Walters Lackey, superintendent of home missions and Sunday school extension of the Texas Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, was the principal speaker at the round table on the country, church and world service.

River Dragged for Body Of Woman, Held Slain

Abbeville, S. C., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Savannah River was being dragged today for the body of a woman reported to have been thrown from an automobile on the bridge spanning the river between Abbeville and Elberton, Ga., last night.

Sheriff McLane, of Abbeville County, and Sheriff Seymour, of Elbert County, Ga., were in charge of the search. They said they had been informed by persons living near the bridge they heard a splash as of a body striking the water. Immediately before, they said, a woman's voice had implored "Don't choke me! Don't murder me!"

In a few minutes, the sheriff said they were told, a car bearing a South Carolina license passed at a high rate of speed, headed in the direction of Elberton.

Paper Discovers Capone Has Left Miami Estate

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7 (A.P.). — The Miami Daily News said today it has learned authoritatively that "Scarface" Al Capone has not been residing at his Palm Island estate here for two weeks. Fritz Gordon, Capone attorney, denied a few days ago that the gangster had returned to Chicago.

The newspaper says it has learned Capone left Miami secretly in the early morning a fortnight ago. Capone's attorneys still frequent the Palm Island estate, however, and "Scarface" Al's brothers, John and Albert Capone, are there now, along with several others, the Daily News said.

Four Children Missing; Kidnaping Plot Feared

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Four children were missing from their homes here today in what police said may be the result of a kidnaping plot. The children were last seen playing in front of their Sixth street home yesterday afternoon. Last night a man telegraphed the parents and said: "Your children are safe. Don't worry. Wait."

The children are Priscilla Morrill, 8; her brother, Howard 10, and Edward, 10, and Harry Watt, 12.

AIRCRAFT CARRIERS UNDERRATED, CLAIM

E. P. Warner Tells Institute of Politics Treaties Fall Short in Matter.

ARMS HEPBURN'S TOPIC

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 7 (A.P.). Uncertainty regarding their potentialities in war has revised and confused the entire problem of limitation of armaments, E. P. Warner, editor of Aviation and former Assistant Secretary of the Navy in Charge of Aeronautics, told the Institute of Politics today.

In an address before the limitation of armaments conference of the institute Mr. Warner said that popular terror of possible bombardment of undefended cities has given new interest to measures for reducing the hazard of war, while technical difficulties in the way of limiting aircraft have added complications to the limitation problem.

The aircraft carrying ship has assumed great offensive power, he declared, and has presented a new threat, not only to enemy naval vessels, but to national territory.

"Confusion has been multiplied by the adoption of a most unfortunate, vague and illogical definition for aircraft carriers in the treaty of Washington, and the definition unhappily perpetuated in slightly more undesirable form in the recent London treaty," he said. "If the delegates preparing those documents had, as a whole, had a proper comprehension of the potentialities of aircraft in war at sea, they could never have defined the aircraft carrier in a fashion which constitutes an open invitation to evasion of this spirit and to the covert increase of aircraft carrier tonnage disguised for eligibility in the category of cruisers or of capital ships."

Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, a member of the American delegation at the London Naval conference, declared that those who advocate disarmament, rather than limitation and reduction of armaments, are retarding the cause of peace and "defeating their own objects." Limitation of armament conferences have produced far greater results in furthering the cause of peace than all the work "devoted to sweeping armaments into oblivion," he stated.

Court to Question Billings at Prison

Board Declines to Assume Responsibility for Moving Bombing Prisoner.

San Francisco, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Chief Justice Waste, of the California Supreme Court, announced today the justices had virtually decided to go to Folsom Prison to hear Warren K. Billings, convicted with Thomas J. Mooney for bombing the 1916 Preparedness Day parade here, testify in the hearing on his pardon application.

The justice said the court would issue no formal order to bring Billings here because the justices were acting in an advisory capacity to the governor and not as the supreme court.

Charles Neumiller, president of the prison board, said the board would not take the responsibility for bringing Billings from his lifer's cell in Folsom unless the court issued a formal order. As a result, the chief justice said the hearing probably would move to Folsom about next Thursday.

The hearing was adjourned yesterday until Tuesday, pending decision of the problem of hearing Billings.

Ownership of Air Baffles Experts at Law Institute

Few Court Decisions Exist to Aid Legal, Real Estate and Radio Specialists in Solving Questions; Plane Traffic Rules Also Being Studied.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Who owns the air?

Legal experts in the fields of aerial navigation, real estate and radio from various corners of the Western world are meeting today at Northwestern University to study this new question.

For several thousand years, as long as there is any history of law, the ownership of the air hasn't been seriously considered. Today, with airplanes invading the sky to a depth of more than 8 miles, with radio waves crashing out into unplumbed depths of the universe, and buildings being erected in the air with no ground property rights at all, air ownership ideas have changed and the question has arisen.

Besides the question of ownership of the air spaces, these experts from American universities and foreign countries who are holding the first air law institute are considering the questions of air traffic regulations, who has the power to make them, and how stringent they should be.

Additional import is placed on these discussions of the first air law institute because they closely precede the national convention of the American Bar Association, which is to be held here in two weeks, and the National Air Congress, which opens here August 19, overlapping into the National Air Races.

The bar association has a committee studying the needs and development of air law, and the question of uniform statutes in the States, which will report at the 1930 convention.

The Air Law Institute was opened by Dr. John H. Wigmore, dean emeritus of the Northwestern University Law Schools and for years an international figure in the field of law. Other lecturers are Gen. Nathan William McCreasney, general counsel for the National Association of Real Estate Boards; George B. Logan, of St. Louis, chairman of the legislative committee of the St. Louis air board; Dr. Arnold McNair, lecturer in law at Cambridge University, England; Capt. Albert Roper, secretary of the international commission of air navigation of Paris, and Louis G. Caldwell, formerly general counsel for the Federal Radio Commission.

There are few court decisions to guide the way into solutions of the problems of ownership of the air by flying organizations, owners of skyscrapers built on "air rights" or owners of cooperative apartments built into niches in the air, the pioneers here agreed. Even the old theory that ownership of the ground included ownership of the air above it, although it dates from the twelfth century at least, has no very solid foundation in the beginnings of law, they declared.

The Roman law, they pointed out, recognized no such provision, and it was probably enunciated first by some commentator of the Middle Ages. "But," observed Dean Leon Green, of the University Law College, "as long as people didn't go into the air there wasn't any urge to quibble much about the theory of its ownership."

Mail Plane in Bay; Crew of Two Gone

Machine From Stockholm Is Found Sinking Off Askoe.

Berlin, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A night mail plane flying from Stockholm, and missing with its pilot and mechanic since last night, was found today in a sinking condition at Askoe, in Valdemarsvik Bay, minus its occupants.

The fate of the two men was not ascertained.

First news of the fate of the aircraft was contained in a dispatch from Stockholm which advanced the conjecture that both occupants had perished while attempting to bring the machine down upon the sea. The plane carried no passengers.

Death-Note Writer Shies at Ambush

Police Bait Trap Vainly for Man Who Demanded $10,000 Package.

Sheffield, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Police today continued to search for the author of a letter to George W. Boyden, banker and wealthy land owner, which demanded $10,000 under threat of death.

The letter was mailed from Kewanee, Ill., Friday. The authorities were inclined to believe the attempt at blackmail was either a hoax or the work of an amateur.

Boyden, who is 72 years old, is a brother-in-law of Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times.

An attempt to seize the letter writer failed last night. He did not appear to get the package of currency which was left under a railroad viaduct as directed. Police had the place under close guard.

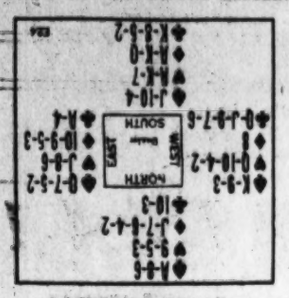
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



CONTRACT BRIDGE.

The following hand was played recently at nearly fifty tables of Duplicate Contract. It presents an interesting study of systems.

All the Souths started with No Trumps, and those who follow the conservative doctrine that more than one No Trump never should be bid with a hand that contains an unstopped suit, of necessity limited their declaration to one. At all those tables the other three players passed. North's hand was clearly too weak to think of saying anything but pass after partner's bid of one.

The South players who believed in bidding two with a count of 19 or more when holding a hand that has three stopped suits and something more valuable than a worthless doubleton in the fourth suit, all started the contracting with a bid of two, and when that was done, most of the partner bid three No Trumps because the system calls for a jump of two No Trumps with any count of 6, or with a count of 5 when it is made up of a King and Queen, or an Ace with any other count whatever.

It will be noted in this hand that the Clubs would be opened, insuring one Club trick for the Declarer; and that in addition he will take five Diamonds, two Hearts and one Spade, consequently going game. The five Diamonds, however, are obtainable only because of the Jack of Diamonds in the dummy hand; and therefore players who did not believe in jumping two No Trumps with the prescribed count, requiring—as some do—what is called "a trick and a half," failed to make the game even when South started with two.

Of course no one hand proves anything. Dummy's Jack might have proved to be absolutely useless; but experience seems to indicate quite convincingly that in more than 90 per cent of all hands, the Common Sense System of No Trump bidding, with the use of the 4-3-2-1 count, will lead to a bid of three No Trumps in cases in which game can be made, and will hold the partners back from a bid of three No Trumps in the same percentage of cases in which game can not be made.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHEAT GERM HELPFUL.

DR. TISDALE has had success in feeding young babies, and even premature babies, by giving them wheat germs in milk. The method is very simple. He starts with a mixture of milk, water, and sugar of a strength appropriate to the baby's age, weight, and vigor. The tendency in practice now is to give mixtures of milk and water in equal quantities and to add an appropriate amount of sugar. He makes use of a good quality of wheat germ. The germ is commercially pure. That is, it is free from bran, flour, and other foreign matter as a good, careful, commercial miller can make it.

After being washed in clean water, as is customary in the nursery, some of this germ is put in the milk mixture in the baby's bottle—say a teaspoonful or less to begin with. This is allowed to stand a few minutes and is then well shaken. The mixture is now ready for use. The germ is converted into a mucilagenous mass thin enough to pass through the hole in the nipple of the baby's bottle. If the hole appears to be a little small it can be enlarged slightly with a needle.

Very young babies, and even premature babies, have been found to digest this mixture well. It does not cause disturbance of the bowels—neither diarrhea, constipation, nor vomiting. The germ supplies vitamins B and E, both of which feeble babies appear to be in need of. The milk and sugar supplies them with calories needed for energy and heat, with proteins and minerals needed for growth and repair of waste. The whole wheat germ adds to the supply of calories and minerals, but especially contributes to vigor and hold on life. The baby who gets these vitamins can make better use of the calories, proteins, and minerals supplied by milk.

The important question is—can a feeble baby digest and assimilate grain germ? Unless the answer to this question is satisfactory the food is not a good one regardless of its other qualities. Dr. Tisdale's answer to this question is that in his experience wheat germ is readily digested by young babies.

SEVERAL CAUSES KNOWN.

E. G. writes: 1. What is the cause of diabetes?

2. What can be done for it?

3. Is there a cure for the disease?

4. How long will a diabetic live?

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are: Inheritance, obesity, prolonged overeating of sweets and starchy foods.

2. A diabetic should be thoroughly examined and diagnosed. Then he should be taught how to take care of himself, especially how to diet himself and watch his sugar excretion. There remains the need of faithfully living right.

3. In the sense that antitoxin cures diphtheria or quinine cures chills.

4. One can live in comfort for many years if he will learn how to live and then follow the rules.

DREAMS AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

L. M. writes:

1. How can I overcome dreaming every night? I get up in the morning exhausted and with a headache.

2. I also have low blood pressure.

REPLY.

1. Everybody dreams every night. You would be very lonesome if you did not. Comfortable sleep is a matter of mental, physical and emotional relaxation plus a comfortable bed.

2. Overcoming low blood pressure calls for (a) mental and emotional training or (b) wearing abdominal supporters, or (c) living on a meat, milk, fat, vegetable, fruit diet, playing down breads, pastries, cereals, sugars, desserts and sweets.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Aug. 7.

THE pendulum is surely swinging again toward another Renaissance in women's apparel, in architecture, many other things. It is inevitable that the couturiers, recognizing this tendency, would bend every effort to outdo rival designers. And this can not be done along any lines but those of real beauty, because the moment anything smacks of fussiness or overelaboration, it is rejected by the haute noblesse and thereby finished before it begins.

On certain nights at Ciro's one would positively think that one had dropped into a popular cafe in Madrid! It is highly probable that the invasion of Paris by the picturesque Espagnol accounts for the Spanish influence in the mode.

• • • •

Queen Elizabeth, in the year 1568, is credited with having ordered delivered to her "three-score-and-six of the best sable skynnes to furnish us a nightgown!" That may have been the ultra of sophistication and extravagance, but we really wouldn't recommend it for winter comfort today!

• • • •

Two lovely gowns from Jenny, one in white and pearls with a cleverly fashioned capelet that stays in place by its own weight of trimming, but is of course removable; and the other of typical Jenny elegance in printed chiffon—have I sketched for you today.

• • • •

We won't tell Mme. Jenny, but it is just dresses like this that we tell you how to make over into fall and winter ensembles.

You can have your choice, either hang up your summer dresses until next year and run the risk of having them out of style or out of your fancy, or know that you can wear them for another six months. Better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post telling you about these makeovers!

• • • •

Of course, we're offering, also, the weekly Dare fashion letter. It'll be in The Sunday Washington Post, as usual.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

DO NOT CUT BACK PEONIES.

THIS is the season when the minds of many gardeners are centered on their peonies. If you have had a profuse crop of blossoms you are no doubt congratulating yourself; if, on the other hand, your plants failed to set a bud, you may be considering uprooting them and setting in others in their place, for even the amateur knows that fall is the time to plant peonies.

Perhaps at this time I should remind you that the foliage of peonies should not be cut off, since it is necessary to the growth of the plants. Cutting back a plant is always an inexperienced persons panacea for all garden ills, just as reporting is his remedy for all the maladies which affect his house plants. Peonies can be cut down as soon as their leaves stop growing, which is in late September. Then it is well to cut them down, because many times the tops carry peony rot, which is fatal in the springtime to the opening buds.

There is a very definite reason why peonies should be planted in the fall rather than in the spring. In April and early May they develop their feeding roots, so that to move them at that time means that much essential root growth is destroyed. Most authorities agree that they should be planted between September 15 and October 15.

At this time you must give your peonies intelligent care if you would have the plants reward you with a wealth of blossoms next June. Every other day the ground about their roots should be literally soaked with water.

They are gross feeders and this is the time to feed them. They require phosphorus and potash more than most other garden plants. If they do not receive it they will reflect this lack of food in shy flowering next spring.

Bonemeal and acid phosphate are the sources of phosphorus. Wood ashes, a handful to a plant or even more to a large plant, will prove beneficial. This year many readers have asked me about the use of nitrate of soda. Nitrate of soda if used carefully will not injure the plants. A sparse sprinkling of this material scattered over the ground near the plants when they are developing buds will increase the size of the flower. But there is no advantage to be gained from its use at this time.

So many gardeners have asked me if ants are injurious to peony buds. Black ants, which infest the peony buds, are harmful. They are attracted by the sweet fluid which is secreted by the buds, and it has been found that they carry the spores of the bud rot from one plant to another. With the use of an ant insecticide these insects can easily be controlled.

Goofus Musical Notes

The Goofus Konata tries to play a sonata
By striking her teeth with a spike,
But the effect,
As you might expect,
Is not what her hearers would like.

Her molars need tuning, her eyeteeth need pruning.
Her incisors sound B 'stead of C,
Her false teeth, they say,
Stand in her way
Of running the scales up to G!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. to 9:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. to 2 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date will tend to produce many petty annoyances and irritability of temper. You will stand in your own shadow! Keep clear of seductive influences or you will rue the day. Poor from health standpoint.

Children born on this August 8 will have quiet, unimpulsive natures, but will be persistent and determined. They will be undemonstrative, but will not have shallow feelings. They will be willing students, and have a taste for good literature.

You have ambition to be more than you will probably have the grit and gumption to become. You would like to scale Alpine peaks, but you would rather fly over them than make the weary ascent. You are not lacking in talent, and your brain power is not weak; but you do lack patience and endurance. Your false pride, also, stands in your way, and will not permit you to do things, which are really not beneath your dignity. You do not put your back into things—you give up too easily.

You will be greatly swayed and influenced by other people, generally by some one person. It is shown that you will have a partnership, not merely in business, but in almost all affairs of your life. Your irresolution is at the bottom of many of your failures; by the time you have made up your mind, opportunities have passed you by.

You readily fraternize with those who are congenial—you are a typical clubman or woman. You are capable of displaying considerable wit, and of being very entertaining and genial. You take too little trouble, however, to be your nicest self with those in whom you are not interested. You are prone to exaggeration. You like to tell a good tale. Th sardonyx is your lucky precious stone, and it is said to insure conjugal felicity.

Successful people born August 8:

Nelson A. Miles, lieutenant general, "the Indian fighter."

Henry F. Osborn, zoologist.

Florence A. Merriam (Bailey), author.

Laurence Hutton, author and critic.

Sanford Bates Starts For Prison Conference

(Associated Press.)

Sanford Bates, director of the Prison Bureau of the Department of Justice, left yesterday to attend the International Prison Congress at Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Bates was appointed to attend the congress by President Hoover. Another delegate representing the Federal prison system is Dr. Mary B. Harris, superintendent of the Women's Federal Prison at Alderson, W. Va. Among other delegates from this country will be George W. Wickersham, chairman of the Law Enforcement Commission, and George W. Kirchwey, former warden of Sing Sing Prison.

BERG WINS DECISION FROM CHOCOLATE IN WILD BATTLE;

FOXX'S HOMER, 2 ON, ENABLES MACKS TO BEAT NATS, 4-1

ATHLETICS INCREASE LEAD TO 7 1-2 GAMES BY SOLVING CROWDER

Macks, Outhit, 10-6, Score All Runs in Sixth Inning.

Walberg Is Helped in Pinches by Mates' Clever Fielding.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Aug. 7. The Nationals outhit the Mackmen here, 10 to 6, today in the final of the two-game series, but the best they drew from the engagement was a 4-to-1 defeat which dropped them back seven and a half games behind the leaders and which enabled the Yankees, who beat Boston, to pull up to within a game and a half of second place. The triumph gave the Macks a 9-to-8 edge on the games already played between the two teams.

Jimmy Foxx was responsible for the Washington defeat, his thirty-first homer of the season in the sixth inning coming with two on and giving the Athletics which proved to be their winning margin. "General" Alvin Crowder, who performed for seven innings, allowed but five safeties, while Ad Liska granted but one, but the natives were fortunte in bunching three of their blows in their one scoring frame, with one of the two bases on balls which Crowder issued being turned into a run.

Fielding of Mates
Aids Walberg.

George "Rube" Walberg went the route for the world's champions and he was hit fairly hard, although generally managing to pull out of the several holes in which he found himself, either due to his own efforts or because of some good fielding by his mates.

"Bing" Miller was the only Mackman credited with more than one safety, getting a single and a double, while no less than four of the Nats cracked out two each, Dave Harris and Joe Cronin being credited with the same record as was Miller, while a brace of one-basers was obtained by Ossie Bluege and Sam West.

West also covered acres of ground and did much to make the road easier for Crowder and Liska.

Despite the extreme heat, Walberg and Crowder pitched shutout ball during the first half of the game and there was no scoring until the sixth. Previously, the Nat hurler, had had just a bit the better of the duel, having granted but two hits, both to Miller, while the Johnson men were credited with three.

Nats Threaten Twice
In Early Innings.

Despite this scarcity of bingles, the Nats had threatened twice. In the first, with two down, Williams' error on Manush's roller and Cronin's

"Big Bill" Beaten by Shields Easily at Southampton.

Score 6-1, 2-6, 6-1; Sidney Wood Wins Over Lott.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Playing before a partisan crowd which enthusiastically cheered him on, Frank Shields, 19-year-old New York schoolboy, conquered Bill Tilden, national and Wimbledon champion, at 6—1, 2—6, 6—1, today in the quarter-final round of the invitation tennis tournament here.

In another upset George Lott bowed to Sidney Wood, towheaded New York youth of 18, to complete the rout of the singles players from the United States sent against the French in the Davis Cup challenge round two weeks ago. Wood, the conqueror of Ellsworth Vines in the Seabright tournament last week, beat Lott by scores of 6—4, 3—6, 9—7.

Frank Hunter, who ranks second to Tilden in the list of American players, downed Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, at 8—6, 8—6, and Wilmer Allison, of the Davis Cup Team, disposed of Richard Murphy, Utica, N. Y., 7—5, 6—4, in the other quarter-finals Hunter and Allison will meet in one of the semifinals scheduled for tomorrow, while Shields and Wood clash in the other.

Tilden's Last Defeat
In U. S. in 1928.

Tilden's surprise defeat by Shields marked the first time he has lost to a fellow American since he was upset by Fritz Mercur in the Eastern championships of two years ago at Rye, N. Y.

When he was finally beaten, however, it was by a decisive margin. Shields played the best tennis of his career and won so convincingly as to astonish even his warmest admirers.

The beautiful volleying which carried Shields to a first ten ranking for the season of 1926 was the weapon with which he brought about the downfall of the 37-year-old veteran. Shields' brilliant volleying game turned back Big Bill's swiftest forehand thrusts, rendered ineffectual the famous Tilden backhand and afforded the gallery with one of the most daring exhibitions of forecourt play ever seen on these turf courts.

Tilden Badly Beaten
In First Set.

Shields' margin in the first set was most decisive, Tilden twice losing his service, as he took but one game. In the second session Tilden rallied and managed to even matters by taking a set which was more closely contested than the score might indicate.

In the final set Tilden took the first game at love on his service, but this proved to be his last.

Tilden and Lott may have been a trifle below par since they arrived from Europe less than 48 hours before, but even at their best they would have had a difficult time to beat Shields and Wood as the youngsters played today. The lack of opportunity to become acclimated, however, did not appear to bother Allison, who always held the upper hand in his match with Murphy.

Lott at Match Point
Five Times.

Wood played great tennis to score his upset victory. Lott had him at match point five times, but each time Wood passed him with a backhand shot when George tried to come up to the net for a finishing stroke.

Hunter had considerable difficulty winning his match with Jacobs. The Baltimore southpaw several times was within a point or two of forcing the match into a third set, but each time Hunter bore down with his mighty forehand and pulled out of the hole.

Allison's victory over Murphy was the easiest of the day. He played in the back court most of the time, outdriving the up-State youth and scoring many of his points on Murphy's errors.

Westbrook Pegler Says

Special to The Washington Post.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Aug. 7.—Where his strength came from nobody in the big crowd knew but Kid Chocolate, a tiny, bluegum Cuban Negro gave away about 10 pounds to Jack Kid Berg, of London, and whaled him most of the way only to lose the decision at the end of a 10-round fight in the Polo Grounds this evening.

It was a wild half-hour of fist-fighting and Chocolate sat in his corner with his kinky head bowed in his bandaged hands moaning some plaint like a jungle lament when he learned that the court had defrauded him of his victory after the struggle he had been through. Neither prize fighter dealt so much as a skin-bruise for all the mutual belting and mauling but Berg had taken a thorough treatment, including many a hard, accurate rap on his chin whereas the best he was able to serve was a mussy, boresome routine of body thumps delivered in the clinches which he was always seeking.

Announcer Plays
Cruel Trick.

There were two or three impromptu pleasure fights among the patients in the ringside benches placed on the Giants' infield after the decision was read by Joe Humphreys but the constables jumped in joyously and spanked the restless parties into quiet behavior without delay.

The indignation was not stifled however but only subdued and James Farley the chairman of the prize fight commission, apparently sensing the injustice to the Negro boy, temporarily impounded the official voting slips of the referee and judges and refused to make known the individual opinions. When the crowd had begun to vanish, however, he changed his mind and the press row was notified that Charlie Mathison, one of the judges, had voted for Chocolate, and Joe Angello, the other judge, and Patsy Haley, the referee, for Berg.

Impromptu Fights
Follow.

Chocolate's anguish was the more painful because when Humphreys first received the scoring slips he apparently thought there could be no question as to the kid's winning and started for him to grasp his hand. The kid waited, his pickaninny features illumined with a smile of relief and pardonable pride and his gold tooth gleaming from his black face like a nugget on a velvet cushion. Then Humphreys turned and beckoned Berg to the center where he raised the startled and slightly incredulous young man's sodden glove.

The way of the fight was this:

Chocolate hadn't the common, hod-carrying strength that Berg had, so naturally he fought at a distance as much as he could and tried to lock Berg's arms when he was forced into clinches. Much of the time he did lock Berg's arms, but when he didn't he generally held them so wide, with his own elbows outspread, that Berg's thumping attack went over and beat him awkward, side-arm motions on the flanks of his back.

Chocolate Reaches Berg's Chin.

There were frequent short spells when Berg, a spread-legged, shuffling body fighter, drummed the kid on his lean, black middle with both gloves, but this kind of doing was the whole sum of his attack, whereas the kid sailed over a large score in clean, sharp hooks and crosses. The kid also solved the problem of reaching Berg's chin with a right hand. Berg fights from a modified crouch, with his left shoulder raised, but Chocolate tagged him and shook his head on its swivel with punches that seemed much too big for one so skinny and small.

Berg is about the strongest lightweight in the business now. Punishment seems only to amuse him and nothing deters him in his constant rushing pace, but he is always so busy crowding and mauling that he never has any time to punch.

Briton Too Strong For Foe.

Berg set such a pace that Chocolate, always trying to keep the fight on a refined, scientific plane, found himself forced into vulgar tussles several times in every round and never could match the English fighter's strength. Then he would writhe and either wiggle off the hook or lock up the

In the Wake of the Game

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7.—Just before the game started today and while the ground keeping force was getting the infield ready for play, Art Shires, sporting a brand-new finger mitt, gave the fans a treat by taking a snappy workout in the outfield. Coach Patsy Gharrity had "What-a-man" almost down, chasing him from one field to another for fungoes.

Myer hit Walberg's first offering, but Simmons came in fast for the pop fly which followed.

Manush deserved credit for a hit on his burning grasser which went past Williams at a mile-a-minute clip in the first, but the official scorer ruled it an error by Williams, who just managed to touch the ball with his finger tips.

Cronin's double in the opener bounded off the base of the stands in left. Fast fielding by Haas prevented Manush scoring on the clout.

Dykes, leading off for the Mackmen, coaxed a walk, but advanced no farther than first.

Opening the second, Haas backed up against the score board in deep center to drag down Harris' looper with his gloved hand. The catch robbed the "Greensboro sheriff" of at least a double.

West raced back to the corner of the field in left center to rob Foxx of what looked like a sure extra baser as the ball left the bat starting the enemy second.

While completing a double play to end the alien second, Myer's left leg was slightly injured by Miller, who charged into the Nat second sacker. Buddie went down in a heap, but bobbed up again and gamely stuck to his task. The injury was not serious, but slowed Myer up slightly, and Acting Boss Judge sent Hayes to second starting the home fourth.

The count was three and two on all three Mackian batters in the third, but Crowder retired them in one-two-three order.

A single and double went to waste in the Nats' fourth. Both came after two were out and West could not prolong the rally.

Harris returned the compliment to Haas, who had robbed him of a hit in the second, by making a pretty back-hand catch of the Philadelphia center fielder's drive opening round four. Dave came in and over toward center to make his brilliant grab.

Spencer sent Simmons smack up against the base of the stands in left for a liner opening Washington's fifth.

Walberg issued his first pass of the game in the fifth, Crowder drawing it.

Miller, who had obtained the only previous safety off of Crowder's slants, opened the native fifth with a double down the third-base line.

West ended the natives' "big" sixth by racing to the stands to make a fine gloved-hand catch of Miller's liner.

Jake Powell pinch-hit for Crowder opening the Washington seventh. His best was a looper to Simmons.

Liska faced the Mackmen starting their seventh and ended the round by deflecting Walberg's hard grasser directly to Hayes, who made the peg to first in plenty of time for the killing.

Walberg thought he had Judge's bounder opening the eighth, but the ball took a bad hop and skidded off the top of his glove for a hit. This helped none, however, for Dykes made a pretty one-handed stop of Harris' hot one and started a snappy twin-murder. West then scratched another bingle off of the pitcher's glove.

Kuel pinch-hit for Liska starting the home ninth and Walberg walked him on four successive wide ones.

Triples Hit by Gehrig, Ruth Defeat Red Sox

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Triples by Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth, coupled with Ed Wells' even hurling, gave the New York Yankees the second straight victory over the Boston Red Sox today, 5 to 1.

Wells' won his tenth game of the season in twelve starts and allowed the Sox only nine hits well scattered. An error by Earl Combs, who dropped Heving's fly in the second, allowed Oliver to tally Boston's lone run.

Danny MacFayden, only Boston pitcher the Yanks had not beaten up until today, had two bad innings, the first and seventh. A couple of passes and two hits, one of them Gehrig's triple, brought the Yanks three runs in the first and Ruth's three-base clout in the seventh added another pair.

Robins' 2 Runs in Ninth Beat Pittsburgh, 6 to 4

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Dodgers staged a two-run rally in the ninth inning here today and nosed out the Pirates, 6 to 4. Glenn Spencer, who came into the game after Ray Kremer had pitched six innings, was the victim of the winning attack. Boone, batting for Vance, started the assault by drawing a pass. Frederick followed with a triple and Gilbert poked out a single to send in the second run.

Jim Elliott started for the Dodgers, but after pitching one inning, in which he yielded two runs, he was replaced by Vance. The Dazzler allowed two runs and eight hits and was aided by brilliant support. Lefty Clark pitched the ninth inning and retired three Pirates in order.

Cubs Win Over Cards, Despite Hafey's Hitting

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The heavy stick work of Chick Hafey, Cardinal slugger, kept St. Louis in the running, but was not enough to defeat the Chicago Cubs, who took today's game, 6 to 5.

Hafey hit his twentieth home run of the season with one on base in the first inning and doubled in the eighth with the bases filled, batting in all of the Cardinals' runs. Bob Osborn, who hurled for the first seven innings, was the winning pitcher. Root finished for the Cubs. Johnson, Bell, Grabowski and Hallahan took turns in the box for the Cardinals, Johnson being charged with the defeat.

The series now stands two games to one for Chicago.

"Cozy" Dolan Held On Liquor Charge

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Albert D. (Cozy) Dolan, former baseball player and coach with the New York and St. Louis National League teams, was held to the Federal grand jury today under $2,500 bond on a charge of violating the national prohibition laws. The charges were made following a raid several days ago on an exclusive night club conducted by the former ball player on the near North Side.

Will Gunn Is Latest Atlanta Golfing Star

Will Gunn, jr., a brother of the famous Watts Gunn, has started out to add more glory to Atlanta as a breeder of golf talent. Recently the youthful Gunn, who is but 19, and in no way resembling his more skillful brother in looks or golfing style, stepped into the limelight at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware when he won the Buckwood trophy invitation tournament.

Will Gunn is tall and slender and blond, while Watts is just the opposite. He is a remarkably long hitter from the tee and in all matches last week he outdrove his opponents by many yards. He is ambitious to play in the amateur championship at Marion in September. Gunn lives in Philadelphia now and plays at the Spring Haven Country Club. He wants to ask Bobby Jones to intercede for him, but he is afraid that Bobby might not want to do it. Winning the Buckwood trophy should qualify him easily his friends think.

Erickson, Former Nat, Gives Braves One Hit

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.). The Jamestown Spiders, semipro team, defeated the Boston Braves, of the National League, 3 to 0, in an exhibition game here today. "Swede" Erickson, former Washington (American League) pitcher, hurled eight hitless innings, only 26 batsmen facing him. In the ninth Richbourg rapped a single to right field for Boston's only safety of the game. Erickson fanned eight Braves and walked one.

Ruth Alone Advances In Big Six Standings

(Associated Press.)

Babe Ruth was the only member of baseball's slugging big six to improve his batting average yesterday. Although still in sixth place, the Babe moved up from .359 to .362 by virtue of a timely triple against the Red Sox. In his other two times at bat he drew a pass and flied out.

Al Simmons and Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics, made a hit apiece, the former falling off a point in the averages and the latter standing still.

Activity among the big six was confined to the second division. The three leaders—Terry, of the Giants, and Klein and O'Doul, of the Phillies—not being scheduled.

Street Is Reappointed Card Manager for 1931

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, National League baseball club, today announced the reappointment of Charles (Gabby) Street as manager of the team for the 1931 season.

"Street's work has been highly satisfactory," said Breadon. "He has been a tireless worker, loyal and courageous. Despite the many accidents which have befallen the team, which was handicapped by the absence of six stars at one time, Street has never given up. He has proved to my satisfaction that he is a capable disciplianarian and I am reappointing him now to show my confidence in him, and to give him whatever help such an announcement may be during the rest of the season."

Street, formcr battery mate of Walter Johnson at Washington, is the first Cardinal manager since Branch Rickey to serve two consecutive terms.

2 American Amateurs In Canadian Semifinal

London, Ontario, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Two players from the United States and two from Canada gained the semifinal round of the Canadian amateur golf championship today.

Carrying the burden of America's hopes of its second successive victory in the Canadian event were J. Wood Platt and J. Raymond Ferguson, of Philadelphia. Canada was represented by C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ontario, and Carroll M. Stuart, of Montreal.

Platt eliminated his quarter-final round rival, Nicol Thompson, jr., of Toronto, in fairly easy fashion, 6 and 4, but Ferguson found Fred G. Hoblitzel, of Toronto, an opponent who fought every inch of the way and surrendered only on the thirty-fifth green, three and one.

Enterprise Again Wins American Yacht Trial

Newport, R. I., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Harold S. Vanderbilt today sailed Enterprise, smallest of the America's Cup defense candidates, to her third straight win over her three rivals. Weetamoe, the Morgan-Nichols candidate, came home second, 19 seconds later. Whirlwind took third place and Yankee, the Boston boat, was last.

Chocolate Stands Off Heavier Foe With Superb Boxing.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Jackie Kid Berg, a gale of leather sweeping out from the Whitechapel district of London, swept over Kid Chocolate tonight, smashed the great winning streak of the ebony "Keed" with the ivory smile, and proved once again that the good big man usually can whip the good little fellow.

Berg proved his point to the satisfaction of two of the three officials who peered from the ringside at one of the wildest and most spectacular struggles the fight faithful have ever seen, but he failed to convince a majority of the 25,000 spectators. A pulsing roar of disapproval greeted the decision and for a few minutes there was considerable doubt as to just what the verdict had been.

When the final bell halted a storm of leather that had been roaring without a let-up around the canvas square under the glaring light from the clang of the opening gong, Bellerin' Joe Humphries, the veteran announcer, grabbed the slips of Referee Patsy Haley and the two judges, took a quick look and headed for Chocolate's corner. He took another look, stopped, turned and lifted Berg's hand. His own indecision was an almost perfect reflection of the varied opinions of the experts gathered down front.

Berg Lashes Out Incessantly.

It was a battle of styles, a furious affair that surged from one side of the ring to the other, rarely letting up long enough either for the gladiators or the frenzied patrons to catch a long breath. Berg fought as he always has, running into action, teeth bared, arms lashing out incessantly at the glistering body of the slender Negro, who never before has been defeated in 167 engagements.

Chocolate, if he made any mistake, threw aside his marvelous boxing at times to meet the English terror at his own game. The sparkling Negro, giving away almost 10 pounds of weight to a full-fledged lightweight, did a remarkable job in the endless exchanges at close quarters, but apparently his stamina could not equal that of Berg and he tired badly in the last two rounds.

The sensational Cuban, his sleek, polished hair rumpled beyond repair in the shock of Berg's first charge, was infinitely superior to the Englishman when he chose to box, tip Jackie off balance, and whang him on the chin with straight rights that shot Berg's head back. He bored left hooks deep into the Britisher's body, hit by far the cleaner, harder and more effective blows, but in the end the eternal aggressiveness, the gameness and perpetual punching of the young Jewish cyclone caught the eyes of the officials.

Referee and Judge
Name Berg.

Announcer Humphries' indecision was reflected in the votes of the referee and judges. Patsy Haley gave the award to Berg along with Joe Agnello, one of the judges, while the other, the veteran Charles Mathison, voted for Chocolate. The Associated Press score sheet gave Chocolate six rounds and Berg four, and a poll of the ringside critics found 13 favoring Berg, 9 for Chocolate, with 4 believing the decision should have been a draw.

After the foulascos the quick and questionable endings that have marred the local leather parties of the past winter and early summer, the battle was a refreshing antidote for the apathy that has gripped the faithful.

From the opening gong the tanned and perfectly conditioned Berg, retaining all his strength at 133¼ pounds, raced into action. His plan of attack was simple. He tried never to let Chocolate's head and body get further away than half an arm

RECENT PLAY STIMULATES NATS' PENNANT HOPES

Mound Staff Of Macks Wilting

Champions' Playing Now Inferior to Early Games.

Fischer to Oppose Cleveland Today in Series Opener.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—On the late and lamented Western invasion, the pennant bee, which had been buzzing around the Nats' bonnets, seemed to have wandered away, but it is back again now and buzzing about with increased vigor. The reason is the comparative showing of the Nats against the world champion Mackmen in the abbreviated series here.

As far as victories here are concerned, the Nats managed to do no better than break even in the two games played here, but they showed unmistakable signs of doing a comeback, while the Athletics did not play the inspired type of baseball which had marked their early season game.

According to the Nationals' dope, Connie Mack tried to sew up the pennant by a strong July offensive and has been using his pitchers hard and often, the result being that the only member of the Quaker mound staff who is still rated as dependable is Lefty Grove, and he is tired, having taken part in no less than six of the A's last eleven games, two of which he started and finished.

Nats See Chance To Cut Lead.

With the Philadelphia mound staff near collapse, as the Nats believe, they are pepped up over their chances of making considerable hay in the coming home stand against the Western invaders. As far as the Elephants' present lead is concerned the Nats have a chance to cut this down to practically nothing by beating the Mackmen themselves, for the two teams still have five more engagements scheduled. The remainder of the balance could be made up by victories in the three additional games which the Nats play, for the Macks have played this many more than have the Johnsons.

Of course, things may not work out this way, for, with Fred Marberry out for two or three weeks, the Nationals, too, are handicapped, but their mound staff is in fair condition otherwise and has not been overworked.

With "Sad Sam" Jones, "General" Alvin Crowder and Irving Hadley in good shape and fairly dependable, all that is needed to give the Nats impetus in the race is for Lloyd Brown to show a flash of his early season form, for Ad Liska to perform as he did before being injured last season or even to show as he has at times during the present race, or for Carl Fischer, the rookie recently purchased from Newark, to prove himself a winner.

Bob Burke Looms As Regular.

Should any one of these youngsters come through, the Washingtonians should be still very much in the race, while it also might be mentioned that Manager Johnson believes that Bob Burke is slowly but surely developing into a big leaguer and will be heard from ere long.

Fischer has been used but once since joining the Nationals, starting against the Indians in Cleveland on July 19 last. He showed plenty of ability, fanning five. He walked the same number, however, and these passes, coupled with five alien hits, two of the most costly ones being of the scratch variety, beat him. He looked fairly impressive in the six frames he toiled but was withdrawn in favor of a pinch-hitter and charged with the loss.

Acting Manager Joe Judge plans to start the young lefthander against the tribe again tomorrow, when the Indians open a five-game series in the Griffith Stadium as the beginning of a long home stand.

Only four games were scheduled in this set but the Peckmen were due to return again for one game on August 15, and this contest has been advanced, and made part of a double-header to be staged on Saturday.

Misses Thelma Griffith and Lucille McGehee have been doing the Nat mascoting at the games here. Both great admirers of Art Shires, did a little shopping this morning, purchasing a monkey bedecked in green, which reminded them of the "Great One" in his nobby light green outfit, and a stuffed canine, which they named "What-a-Dog," in honor of "What-a-Man."

Boy Scouts are having their innings here these days. Several thousand accompanied by two bands, were on hand yesterday, with another large gathering invited as guests of the Mackmen today.

WANTS SUNDAY GAME.

Langley Athletic Club is looking for a Sunday game. Call Manager Mann at Adams 3964 after 5:30 o'clock.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The fiftieth running of the Alabama Stakes for fillies, 3-year-olds and upward, has attracted the best of the East, and includes W. J. Salmon's SNOWFLAKE, which won the American Coaching Club Oaks at Belmont Park and went West to score over an outstanding field in the Illinois Oaks at Chicago. The Alabama has a value of $12,500 and is one of the most attractive races on the calendar.

SNOWFLAKE is required to concede weight to all the others. It is a part of the history of the Alabama that few of the lightly weighted candidates have ever won the stake. The distance of a mile and a quarter makes a severe test on the fillies with high impost, and the 5 pounds extra weight on SNOWFLAKE may take its toll, but on form and accomplishment she is the natural choice. The Greentree Stables is formidable with GOOSE EGG, winner over ESCUTCHEON Tuesday, taking up 6 pounds going a mile in 1:38. Third should go to the Belair entry, ADEQUATE and FLYING GAL. The last named has succeeded in winning only one cheap race this year, but may be better than she has shown. She is by Sir Gallahad III and has always had a following. ADEQUATE closed fast a few days ago, second to Star Patic, beating Finite. She probably is the hope of this stable. It is hard to gauge ADEQUATE. She may win and she may be last. It should be a race of great interest, and if SNOWFLAKE should win, overcoming her weight burden, she would indeed be the queen of the fillies East and West.

THE FIRST RACE is a claiming, for 2-year-olds. BRANDON DARE, a maiden, has been in the money in eight starts, and on his last race deserves consideration, having run second to BUSHMAN, beaten a nose. That showing makes the juvenile a standout in this field. STAR BUTTON, which beat BRANDON DARE a nose at Empire City, looks like the contender. IRISH INDIAN may show.

THE SECOND RACE is a division of the first, and takes the place on the card of the steeplechase, which failed to fill. BUSHMAN is selected to win. His fast effort, which was on Monday, was when he beat BRANDON DARE and a large field. KENSINGTON, which has worked well for this race, is rated the contender. THE BREAK should beat JIMMY JINGLE for show money.

THIRD RACE—BEASEL, which was outrun by CONCLAVE in the test stakes, finishing third, will have JUDGE SCHILLING to beat in the third event. That was a fast race, 6 furlongs in 1:11 3-5. The BEASEL previously had beaten FLYING HEELS, and is a front runner. JUDGE SCHILLING has top weight in this handicap, and it being his first out, second will be the placing for him. KOPECK is ready for his best, and should be in the money. This is a speed field, at 6 furlongs, and DUNSANY or QUICK STEP have an outside chance.

FIFTH RACE—SANFORD is selected for the fifth race, a mile and a furlong. This horse beat JOHN CAVANUAGH two lengths his last out at Empire City and is an improved horse this season. WU takes off weight and may be the contender. DOCTOR RANKIN is best of the others.

THE SIXTH RACE is for 2-year-old fillies. Throw out STEFANA'S last race, in which she was coupled with SOVIETTA, won by PANASETTE, in which she had no chance. This is a different class field. ST. AGNES and CHICSU are very fast, and are the contenders.

PROTRACTOR, mean at the barrier, finally got a step at it, ran into long early lead, swerved out in stretch, but held race safe. DRAWING BOARD broke well, was checked back in the early running, but finished with a rush and was a fast-going second. MY SIR was up in early run, made a determined bid in stretch, but hung badly at end. BELIEVE SALLY, badly outpaced in early parts, came with a rush at end, finishing in the middle of the track. MOONSTRUCK saved ground and ran a good race. WESTWARD had plenty of early speed, but tired. ZEAL ran a miserable race.

AUTUMN BELLS handled his heavy impost well. He was allowed to rate under restraint for a turn of the field, moved up fast, but was unable to get clear of BROWN STOUT, finally shook him off and won galloping. BROWN STOUT displayed good speed, fenced well and held on gamely. RED ROCKET II had speed for a turn and a half of the field, then tired. PROPITEER lost his rider at the twelfth jump and WHIP CRACKER lost his rider at the last jump.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. Albany Handicap. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:01. Off at 4:05. Winner, Greentree Stable's ch. c. ROCKBELLE	116		5	6	7½	8½	8½	9	Lyons	30	10	5

SURF BOARD is a good colt. He conceded weight to the field, broke fast, raced PANETIAN into defeat, drew out in the stretch, but Garner never saw BLENHEIM closing on the inside and SURF BOARD just lasted to win. BLENHEIM, far out of it in the early part, slipped through on the inside and almost got up. PANETIAN displayed good speed, raced along with the pace in the first half, but stopped fast in final furlong. NEVERFADE broke very slow, came around field and finished with a rush. BATHORSE was well up and ran a good race. RIP VAN WINKLE, on the outside, stopped badly. He is overrated. RIDEAWAY had speed for three furlongs. ROCKBELLE and EASTICO were both outrun.

FOURTH RACE—Wilson mile. Purse, $1,200; conditions. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:29½. Off at 4:30. Winner, E. R. Bradley's br. c. BUCKEYE POET was much the best. He broke well, was allowed to drop back going to the first turn, moved up fast on inside, was blocked and had to take back and come around field, finishing gamely, he won going away. SUN MISSION handled his weight well, showed speed and was next best. CEBARION, badly outrun for the first six furlongs, moved up fast in stretch and was an easy third. PANUCO had speed for half a mile, then stopped.

FIFTH RACE—Wilson mile. Purse, $1,200 added. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:05. Winner, William Ziegler, Jr.'s ch. c. (3), by Runaway—Stasa. Trained by J. Spelrs. Value to winner, $995; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48, 1:12 4-5, 1:38 3-5.

GONE AWAY broke slow, worked his way up on inside around turn, came to outside of GUN ROYAL in stretch and drew out to win nicely in hand. GUN ROYAL broke fast, rushed into lead and was rated along, but tired in last furlong. DANGEROUS, as usual, was outrun to the far turn, began to make up ground, came through on inside and was a fast-going third. INCEPTION had speed for six furlongs, then tired. CHATFORD refused to line up in the stalls and broke in the air, but quickly ran up to second place. He tired at end. CAPTAIN HOOK and AGUA CALIENTE were both outrun.

SIXTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won eased up; place, driving. Went to post at 5:33. Off at 5:36½. Winner, G. A. Cochran's ch. c. (2), by Epinard—Fairy Wand. Trained by H. McDaniel. Value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:46 3-5, 0:59 3-5.

EPITHET is a fine looking colt. He broke a bit slow, but rushed up and, taking lead on stretch turn, drew away to win eased up. THE GEN was away fast and ran a good race. COMMUTER showed great speed for three furlongs, then stopped. QUORUM was well up from the start and had no excuse. BOYS HOWDY broke fast, but dropped right out of contention. NO MORE is improving. HAIL FELLOW is worth remembering.

SEVENTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:02½. Off at 6:06½. Winner, Thomas M. Cassidy's b. or br. f. BUBSY C. broke in a tangle, worked her way up and, finishing fast, won going away. AMERISK, away poorly and forced wide all the way, closed with a rush. WHITE LIGHTNING closed a big gap to gain the show. WAR is sure to improve over this showing. YELLOW FLAG displayed keen speed for half a mile, then tired as if short. SATENA had plenty of early speed. HIGH FLANE showed a flash of speed. FINGER TIPS ran a fair race.

SPENGLER NINE WINS FIRST LEGION PLAY-OFF, 12-10

Rally Defeats Jasper Post Juniors

Spengler Scores 5 in 8th After Foes Get 7 Runs in 6th.

Pohl's Relief Hurling and Triple Feature; Resume Today.

SPENGLER POST gained one leg on the District of Columbia American Legion junior baseball title yesterday when it defeated the Sergt. Jasper Nine, 12-10, in the first contest of a three-game series for the right to represent Washington in the regional finals to be played at Hagerstown, Md., next week.

The game was a wild and wooly affair witnessed by some 500 fans and played by two groups of nervous youngsters who were trying their hardest to take the first game of the series.

The hero of the game was Austin Pohl, considered a second-string hurler. He entered the game when Allison Meiklejohn weakened during a Sergt. asper barrage that netted seven runs in the sixth inning. Pohl proceeded to set the Jaspers down without a hit and further added to his record by slamming out a triple which drove in the two runs that proved the margin of victory.

Spengler took a 3-2 lead in the first inning, both teams showing signs of nervousness. At the end of the fifth inning Spengler had run up its advantage to 6-3. With Meiklejohn pitching smoothly at this stage despite ragged support it appeared that Spengler might coast to victory. But the Jasper were not through. They took full advantage of every break afforded and inserted some clean hits that produced seven runs and gained a 10-6 lead.

It was following this rally that Pohl stepped into the box for Spengler. The eighth brought five Spengler runs and the victory although they shoved over another in the ninth.

The series will be resumed today on the West Ellipse with a game starting at 3 o'clock. Sergt. Jasper, facing the necessity of winning to stay in the race, will probably depend on Everett Russell for pitching, despite the result of yesterday's game. It is likely that Coach Tom Suter will stick to the same line-up, with the exception of Nock at shortstop, that started yesterday's game.

Jim Hare, Spengler coach, indicated last night that Pohl, hero of yesterday's game, will be given the assignment today. He will hold Meiklejohn for relief work and the third game if necessary.

action so that Haley felt called upon to spread them out.

Chocolate stirred the patrons with a reckless challenge in the first minute of the ninth round, rushing to grips at the opening bell and swinging gloves in a rash encounter until his legs began to melt and he had to take back to fan himself and draw breath. But all through the fight he was whipping over left hooks that rocked Berg's head and there was much indignation at the end.

Berg now qualifies for a match with Singer in the fall, with the championship at stake, which should be stirring, as the boys have been roommates and comrades for a long time.

Burglar, With Bulldog As Partner, Escapes

A colored burglar, who goes on the job with a bulldog, was being sought by police yesterday.

The two entered the home of Max Catzba, 1101 Seventh street southeast, early yesterday morning. A delayed breakfast caused the dog to complain and his howls awoke the Catzba family. Catzba found the man and the dog beneath his bed. Guarding himself with the generously toothed bulldog, the burglar escaped with his pet and $1.54.

Man Held on Charge Of Transporting Rum

William Chester Martin, Negro, of Baltimore, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of transporting liquor into the District and was held for grand jury action under $1,500 bond.

Martin was arrested by Sergt. George Little and his raiding squad, who had trailed the man's automobile on Defense highway. Sixty gallons of liquor are alleged to have been found in the vehicle. Martin, according to the police, told them the liquor was not his—that he was hired to take it from Baltimore to Alexandria. He said he was paid $25 for the job.

Suitcases Are Stolen From Two Parked Cars

Theft of suitcases from two automobiles parked in front of an Eighteenth street residence near I street northwest, each containing men's wearing apparel valued at $40, was reported to Third Precinct police yesterday morning by the two owners, Addison Boren, jr., and Marce Walt, both of Baltimore.

Berg's punches carried little steam, for he never took time to set himself, but he never stopped punching, never stopped charging. His eternal aggressiveness caught the fancy of the faithful and they groaned with him when the ebony "keed," the master ringman, stepped back and drilled his head with clean, thudding rights.

Chocolate Ahead in Early Rounds.

Chocolate was strong in the clinches, and in the early round tied Berg effectively and beat him consistently to the punch. On the Associated Press score card Chocolate had a clear margin in the first three rounds, while Berg, taking advantage of the tiring Negro, swept the fourth and fifth into his own column. Chocolate rallied strongly to take the sixth, seventh and eighth, but the relentless pounding wore him down and Berg easily won the ninth and tenth.

Chocolate scaled in at 124 pounds, two pounds under the featherweight limit, and appeared strong at the weight. He conceded 9¼ pounds, which probably had increased considerably at ring time.

From a financial standpoint the second big open air show of the season was hardly an outstanding success despite the caliber of the milling. The gate receipts were estimated at $160,000.

PLAYGROUND NET CHAMP EXTENDED

Root Forces Latona to 3 Sets, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

HARD fought matches featured the play in the Municipal Playground Department's senior tennis tourney for boys yesterday. Of the four matches played only one was settled in straight sets.

Anthony Latona, last year's champion, was given a real battle by Morris Root, of Chevy Chase, before he won out. Latona represents Georgetown Playground. In the first set Latona won, 6—3, but with more difficulty than the score indicates. Root took the second, 6—2, and the final and deciding set was one of the most spectacular of the season. Latona finally winning out, 7—5.

Wilbur Sexton, of Iowa avenue, and Phillip Fox, of Columbia road, struggled through three hard sets with Sexton winning. In the first set Sexton won, 9—7, and then he dropped the second, 6—0. Fox made a game attempt to hold the advantage, but Sexton proved to be a little more accurate with his placements and won the deciding set, 6—4.

GIRLS' DOUBLES.

Zabeth Miller and Betty Brooke (Montrose) defeated Edna McKinley and Emily Beach (Georgetown), 6—3, 6—3; Eleanor Southard and Nellie Robinson (Phillips) defeated Eleanor Carroll and Elsie Kimmel (Happy Hollow), 6—0, 6—0; Margaret Bartwell and Alice Barton (Twin Oaks) defeated Louise Phipps and Virginia Berry (Iowa Avenue), 6—3, 6—1.

BOYS' SINGLES (SENIOR).

James Thompson (Monroe) defeated Wilson Tyrrell (Tenley), 6—2, 6—2; Gene Swift (Thomson) defeated William Burke (Cooke), 6—4, 6—4; Wilbur Sexton (Iowa Avenue) defeated Phillip Fox (Columbia Road), 9—7, 0—6, 6—4; Anthony Latona (Georgetown) defeated Morris Root (Chevy Chase), 6—3, 2—6, 7—5.

Eastern Playgrounds' Boy Swimmers Picked

Boys who will represent the eastern half of the city in the Municipal Playground's city championship meet on August 14 were selected yesterday in the Rosedale pool. The western squad will be named today in the Georgetown tank at 2:30 o'clock.

Buck Socrey, in the 115-pound class, and Teddy Lawrence, in the unlimited, were the individual stars, with two first places each. None of the relays were selected yesterday, but these will be named between now and the finals.

70-POUND CLASS.

25-yard free style—Won by Jack Kramer; second, Brian Carroll; third, Denny O'Connor.

100-POUND CLASS.

D. C. GOLFER NOW 1 OF 8 SURVIVORS

Burrows Wins First 2 National Public Links Tests.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 7 (A. P.).—A series of upsets in the first two rounds of the national public links golf tournament today eliminated all but one of those who had been expected to reach the quarter-finals tomorrow.

The sole favorite to survive was Bob Wingate, of Jacksonville. Of the 24 eliminated in today's play, as many fell victim to a blistering sun and the trapped and bunkered course as were beaten by superior brands of golf.

Survivors are Bob Wingate, B. H. Burrows, Washington; Ade Fordham, St. Paul; Walter Barton, Akron; Larry O'Palka, Detroit; Joseph Greene, Philadelphia Barney Lucas, Los Angeles, and Dominic Strafaci, Brooklyn.

Larry O'Palka, who easily won both his matches today, four and three, started by eliminating the tournament medalist, Al Quincy, Chicago, in the morning, and met the same margin over Charles Bertus, Philadelphia, in the afternoon.

Burrows Today Meets Jacksonville Star.

Special to The Washington Post.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 7.—B. H. (Ted) Burrows carried Washington's colors to the quarter-finals of the National Public Links Tournament here today by scoring over Albert Cucinell, New York, 2 and 1, and Michael Champi, Brooklyn, 3 and 2.

Tomorrow Burrows faces an extremely hard test in Bob Wingate, local player, who tied for second in the qualifying round. Wingate, a good-natured golfer, expert with irons and putter, also has the advantage of knowing the Jacksonville course like a book, and undoubtedly will prove a difficult test for Burrows.

While not scoring especially low, the Washingtonian today proved that he is an excellent match player. His temperament is of the best and he has a fine bundle of shots to produce whenever in trouble.

This afternoon Burrows was up against the stiffest opponent in his first two rounds and came through convincingly. Forced to a 6 on the second hole, Burrows was 1 down almost at the start, but pushed over a par 3 on four to even the match. His 4 of the short sixth also was good enough to win and he rounded the turn 1 up. Never again to be headed, a par 3 on ten and a birdie 4 on eleven sent Burrows off to a margin of 3 soon after the homeward jaunt started. The pair swapped wins on the next four holes, a 3 on sixteen giving Burrows his 3 and 2 advantage. The cards:

Burrows—Out	4	6	5	3	5	4	4	5	4—40
Champi—Out	4	4	5	5	5	5	4	5	4—41
Burrows—In	3	4	4	6	4	5	3

Chicago and St. Louis Boys in Western Finals

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—An 18-year-old redhead from St. Louis, Charles "Chuck" Collins, and Bill Chambers, another 18-year-older from Chicago, will tangle tomorrow in the 36-hole final of the Western junior golf title tournament over the Flossmoor course.

Collins, the medalist, fought a great uphill battle to win his semifinal match today from Johnny Banks, of Chicago, one up on the nineteenth green. Collins' third, a beautiful pitch which dropped his ball two feet from the cup on the extra hole, won him the match and the right to try for the championship. Banks' fourth was just on the edge of the green and he conceded the St. Louis youth a birdie four and victory.

Banks was one up at the turn, and won the next two holes to go three up. Collins started his comeback on the next hole, the fourteenth, and proceeded to win the fifteenth and seventeenth to square the match. They halved the next one to make the extra hole necessary.

HOME RUN BY FOXX WINS FOR MACKMEN

double, put men on third and second. While this condition obtained again in the fourth as a result of Judge's single and Harris' two-bagger. But West filed out.

Meanwhile, the Mackmen had advanced only one man past first, Miller having opened the fifth with a two-bagger. He greatly relieved the Nats' minds, however, by trying to steal and being nipped by Spencer's good throw.

Both teams were up and doing in the sixth, with the Mackmen doing more. After Cronin singled and stole, Harris singled him home and West lined a one-bagger to left before the third out was turned in.

Triple by Haas Starts Rally.

Two were out when the Macks started their rally, Haas tripling to left center. Cochrane walked and Simmons knotted the count by singling to Cronin at deep short, the latter's attempt for a force play at second being late by a matter of inches. Then Foxx poled out his homer, a terrific drive to the roof of the stands in left center. A great one-handed running catch by West ended the inning.

In the seventh, the Nats came within an ace of tying the score. With two out, Bluege and Manush singled and Cronin lofted one only a few yards short of the left-field stands, Simmons backing up, and jumping just high enough to catch the ball in his finger tips.

Scratch hits by Judge and West were wasted in the Nats' eighth, which contained the only other threat of the game.

Yacht Cup Races To Be Broadcast

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Daily descriptions of the race for America's Cup off Newport, R. I., are to be broadcast beginning Saturday, September 13, the National Broadcasting Co. announced tonight.

The races, which will be between Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V and an American yacht, will be put on the air from the deck of a United States destroyer on the course.

The broadcasts will start at approximately 9:30 a. m. daily and be continued at intervals during the day. The races are to be concluded in five days.

NAVAL NINES TO BATTLE TODAY

Navy Yard Wins, 11-2, Over Printers as Kuhnert Stars.

NAVY YARD set the stage yesterday for today's important battle with the Naval Hospital Team by routing the Union Printers, 11 to 2. Ancient Lefty Kuhnert had his fin well oiled yesterday and the Printers could make only four dents in his delivery.

Kuhnert set the Printers down scoreless for five frames. In the meanwhile, Navy Yard was running up fifteen hits. Six runs trickled across the plate in the third inning, which proved enough.

Candle and Mattingly were the batting heroes for Navy Yard.

Each got three hits with Mattingly contributing a homer. Desper's double was the best of the Printer bingles.

Today's Navy Yard-Naval Hospital game will be played on the South Ellipse at 4:45 o'clock and should draw one of the largest crowds of the season.

Lehigh Football Team Loses Many Regulars

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 7.—Of the 24 varsity football men at Lehigh University who received letters last season, but eight will be available when the opening practice session is held on September 8. This number includes only two who started in the final game on the schedule against Lafayette, last season, although practically all the others saw action before the final whistle blew for that game. Nine of these veterans were lost through the regular route of graduation but the other seven will be missing from the squad for a number of reasons.

One of the group, Oliver Pinckney, a regular quarter back, resigned from college before the end of the first semester last year. Three others sustained injuries which will prevent them from participating for this season at least and probably for the remainder of their college career. They are Jimmy Fritts half back, Phil Elkin, end and Phil Myers, tackle. Elkin escaped without any serious injuries in last fall's campaign but his right eye was cut in a lacrosse scrimmage in the spring, when a teammate's stick smashed his glasses, even though he was wearing a guard at the time. Tommy Ayre, veteran center, will return to college, but has been a member of the varsity for three years, making him ineligible for further participation in this sport. Harold Beachler, a guard, has felt the sting of the faculty and is barred from further activity in sports because of probation. Frank Stut, another regular center, makes the seventh member of this group, as the result of parental objection.

Golf by Flood Lights Results in 68 Card

Kansas City, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The first nocturnal golf champion is Harold "Jug" McSpaden, pro, at Victory Hills, Kansas City, Kans., who early today finished a double round of the flood-lighted first nine holes at the Eastwood Hills course in 68, two under par.

McSpaden carded 35—33 to lead a field of more than 60, including Bob McCrary, of Des Moines, trans-Mississippi champion, who shot a 71, and the best professional and amateur links talent in Kansas City.

MANUSH FAR AHEAD.

Heinie Manush has hit an even 100 points higher than Goose Goslin since the famous trade in June.

ROCKVILLE'S FIGHT CARD TONIGHT

Pyne and Tardugno in Feature Fights of 10 Bouts Listed.

A PROGRAM of boxing bouts is expected to draw local fight fans to Rockville tonight as the Maryland National Guard and American Legion stage ten matches in the Fair Grounds of the little town just 14 miles outside of the District.

In contrast to the farcial foulings that have marred late professional matches, the amateurs on tonight's program promise an evening of clean, hard-hitting exhibitions.

Probably the most interesting of the bouts to District fans will be the two involving Danny Pyne, erstwhile Gonzaga athlete, and Mike Tardugno, one of Georgetown University's batters.

The former, recently crowned light-heavyweight of the Quantico Marines, is to oppose Fred ock in his first showing after making his pugilistic debut at Quantico, while the Hilltop's little scrapper is aiming to beat a foe, whom he was denied the privilege of meeting in the District A. A. U. championships by college authorities.

Tardugno will be out to lick Nevins Barber, who walked off with the South Atlantic championship of the featherweight division. Tardugno is confident that he can take the measure of Barber and is anxious to prove it to home folks. He was compelled to forfeit his schedule bout with Barber by order of Georgetown officials.

Nick Altrock, Al Schacht and Art Shires are expected to render a burlesque of the Sharkey-Schmeling affair as a preliminary. Capt. Heinie Miller is referee.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

BUMPS AND BRUISES.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

These are perhaps the commonest injuries which young children receive. A slight bruise ordinarily requires no treatment and is forgotten in a few minutes, although the discoloration of the skin may remain for some time.

If the injury is more severe, cloths wrung out of very cold or hot water, or cracked ice wrapped in a cloth, may be applied to the bruise. Either alcohol, arnica, or witch-hazel, each diluted with water, may be used upon the bruise.

If the skin is broken, it should be treated as wound.

IT LOOKS NOW AS IF YOU WERE SWINDLED OUT OF AT LEAST $10,000, COLONEL!! BUT I HOPE TO RECOVER THAT!!
MY MAN SAYS HE IS SURE THAT SOME OF THE FIGURES HAVE BEEN JUGGLED AND AT LEAST TWO NAMES FORGED TO CERTAIN SLIPS! I EXPECT TO TAKE THE MATTER UP WITH MR. GOODE IN THE MORNING!!
AFTER A LONG TALK WITH THE COLONEL AND HIS WARD VIRGINIA LEE, MASON AGAIN TOOK HIS LEAVE
AS YOU SEE, MISS LEE, I AM FIGHTING FOR YOU AND COL. WILLOWBY!
I THINK WE BOTH APPRECIATE THAT 'FACT MR. MASON!!
BACK ONCE MORE IN THE CITY, MASON WENT AT ONCE TO SEE MR. GOODE, THE SENIOR PARTNER OF THE FIRM
I BELIEVE THERE HAS BEEN SOME IRREGULARITY IN COL. WILLOWBY'S ACCOUNT, TO SAY NOTHING OF OUTRAGEOUS STUPIDITY IN CERTAIN INVESTMENTS!!
ISN'T THAT A FALSE ENTRY? HAVE NOT THESE FIGURES BEEN TAMPERED WITH?! IS THAT YOUR SIGNATURE?!
BY GEORGE, THIS DOES LOOK SUSPICIOUS, MASON! I NEVER SIGNED THAT SLIP!!
ALBERT SHARP WAS CALLED IN AND AFTER AN EXHAUSTIVE CROSS-EXAMINATION IT APPEARED CERTAIN THAT HE HAD BEEN GUILTY OF GROSS FRAUD AND MISREPRESENTATION SHARP, I SHALL RETURN THIS MONEY FROM OUR JOINT ACCOUNT AND YOU MAY CONSIDER OUR PARTNERSHIP AT AN END!!
FOLLOW EACH EPISODE CLOSELY NOW, FANS!

STOCKS' UNDERTONE PROVES TO BE HEAVY

Rallies Meet With Little Response; Rails and Utilities Active.

WHEAT AND CORN RISE

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Stocks and grains continued to move generally in opposite directions today, although corn and wheat, meeting extensive realizing in the late dealings on the Chicago market, closed lower with shares, which were heavy most of the day.

Business on the stock exchange was highly professional. Most of the activity in the 1,450,000-share turnover was provided by traders on the floor who took the short side because it appeared to offer opportunity for quicker profits. The bulls remained passive, giving quiet support to such issues as U. S. Steel, General Motors and General Electric.

Wall street's major interest at present is in the drought and its consequences to that important consumer of industry's products, the farmer. The effect of the crop damage on his pocketbook is being widely discussed, and the immediate opinion in speculative circles seems to be that he will suffer. However, it is pointed out that the problem resolves itself into a choice between a short crop and long prices or a long crop and short prices, with much to be said on both sides of the question.

The bearish sentiment that has expressed itself in declining stock prices this week is generally traced to the failure of business to develop favorable symptoms. July had been widely advertised as the bottom month of the depression, but this view is now being revised. Important banking circles are reported to feel that an upturn could hardly be expected in the quiet midsummer vacation period, but that definite improvement will be noted in September.

Wheat Up 4 Cents.

The Chicago wheat pit was the center of the day's financial news. Wheat advanced 4 cents in the early trading and corn gained 3. Profit taking became much more insistant later, however, and wheat eased off, closing fractionally lower following losses that extended to more than a cent. Corn finished about a cent and a half lower.

Cotton was strong, rising $2 a bale on the New York market in response to covering. The gain was about cut in half, however, futures closed 75 cents to $1.10 a bale higher.

Money became more comfortable. Call loans, renewing at 2½ per cent, eased to 2 in the afternoon, reflecting the passage of the August 1 demands. Leading bankers are confident that the lower figure will prevail at least until the first of next month.

The weekly Federal Reserve statement gave little indication of the banks' efforts to counteract the gold movement by supplying credit through purchases of Government securities. That item was virtually unchanged in the reports of the system and of the New York Bank, although discounts were slightly higher. It was believed that the effect of the reserve policy as to governments would become visible next week. Brokers' loans dropped $14,000,000, a nominal change and generally in line with expectations.

Southern Railway Drops.

The undertone of the stock market was heavy all day. A few efforts to rally prices met little response and the selling became rather lively in the utilities and rails, although the declines in the former group were curtailed. Liquidation of the Western Rails was based on prospective losses to the grain carriers through crop losses. Southern Railway and Rock Island were particularly weak, both breaking to new lows. The former, at 80½, touched its lowest price since 1925, while Rock Island's minimum of 94½ was the lowest since 1927. Both stocks, with Atchison, lost 4 points net.

A few other rail shares were prepared, New Haven, New York Central, Union Pacific, Chicago & Alton and Chicago, North Western preferred dropping 2 points or more. Pennsylvania sagged nearly a point.

Net declines elsewhere in the list were small, with few exceptions, which included Peoples Gas, off 15 points, Allied Chemical, off 8 and Eastman Kodak, off 4. American Waterworks, American Power & Light and J. I. Case closed about 3 points lower. There were losses of a point or so in Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas, North American, American Can, Warner Brothers and Air Reduction. Radio was heavy on reports that the semiannual earnings statement, expected about the middle of the month, would show that the preferred dividends had been only partially earned.

Foreign exchanges mostly eased, although the French franc held steady.

CARRIER BOND INDEX TOUCHES 1930 PEAK

Convertible Rails Decline, But Group in General Move Forward.

DOMESTIC LIST UNEASY

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The demand for railroad investment bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today still appeared unsatiated.

Carrier obligations climbed another notch in the price averages and for the second time this week the price level was adjusted at a new 1930 peak. The investment department as a whole showed a firm undertone, with stock privilege and speculative issues suffering from the heaviness of equity securities.

One of the favorable factors for the accelerated pace of investment issues this week has been the comparative dearth of new offerings to attract institutions with large amounts of idle funds to invest. Another factor which has been assurance that money rates affecting the bond market will continue easy throughout August. Call money after rising to 2½ per cent early in the week, returned to 2 per cent today and bankers expect that it will rest there most of the month.

Sales Total $7,312,000.

Considering the quietness normal for this time of year, traders found the inquiry which developed for bonds encouraging, the day's sales totaling $7,312,000. Attention was concentrated upon domestic corporation issues, with some utilities and industrials sharing in the vitality demonstrated by carrier issues.

The movement, however, lacked uniformity, for recessions among the domestic list gave an irregular tone to the market.

Among the strong railroad bonds were Baltimore & Ohio ref. 5s, Pennsylvania 4½s, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s and Union Pacific 4½s which reached new highs for the year, Southern Pacific 4½s, New York Central 5s. Convertible rails were active and most of them lost ground. Chesapeake Corporation 5s were in demand and sold only ¼ of a point under the year's peak price.

Amusement Bonds Sag.

Amusement bonds were also influenced by the weakness of the share market, Loew's warrant 6s sagging 2 points, and Warner Brothers 6s reaching a new low for the year, on losses of more than a point.

American & Foreign Power 5s touched a new high but eased at the close. American Telephone collateral 5s made another new high. Louisville Gas & Electric 5s were strong, advancing 1 point to a new 1930 peak. Detroit Edison 6s were heavy.

Interest in foreign bonds was overshadowed by the inquiry for domestic issues. Prices ruled firm with Belgium 6½s and British 5½s duplicating their peak prices of the year, as other popular European governments held steady. Strength in Bolivian 7s, up nearly a point, and activity in Colombian Agriculture Bank 6s, which soared 2 points, featured South American bonds.

Turnover in U. S. Governments was negligible and prices were firm.

BULLETIN STRESSES OPTIMISM IN TRADE

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. Says Best News Is Improved Tone in Securities.

CHAIN STORE SALES OFF

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Current statistical data pertaining to the business situation are such that no real light, which would give tangible evidence of an immediate improvement, is thrown upon the picture, the monthly bulletin now being distributed by the Washington office of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., explains.

In any discussion of the business situation at this time, however, the review states, it is only natural to expect the list of favorable developments to be small as contrasted with one comprising the unfavorable. In the light of the present stage of the trade cycle, it reminds, it is perhaps interesting to note the very much improved sentiment which is developing as a result of an improved stock market.

Admitting there will undoubtedly be many who will disagree, it emphasizes, it is probably true, nevertheless, that the best piece of business news that the last half of the previous month has produced is the much improved stock and bond markets.

Chain Store Sales Report.

Gross sales of 20 leading chain store systems for the month of July showed a decline of 6.64 per cent compared with the same period of 1929, whereas for the seven months ended with July, sales for the same systems decreased .009 per cent compared with figures for the same period of last year, according to the monthly compilation of George H. Burr & Co.

Sales of these twenty stores systems aggregated $108,287,253 for July against $115,996,385 reported for July, 1929, a decrease of $7,709,132, or 6.64 per cent. Losses in sales were reported by Sears, Roebuck & Co., F. W. Woolworth, Montgomery Ward, S. S. Kresge, National Tea Co., McCrory Stores, National Bellas-Hess, F. & W. Grand-Silver and Kline Bros.

For the first seven months of 1930, these twenty stores systems report gross sales of $805,624,291 compared with $805,695,852 reported for the corresponding period of 1929, the decrease being $70,561, or .009 per cent

G. F. Grau, Jr., Wins Golf Finals.

Following playing of finals in the second annual golf tournament for members of Washington Chapter, American Security & Trust Co., was announced yesterday as winner over Thomas J. Davidson, of Stein Bros. & Boyce.

Mr. Grau will receive the trophy offered by W. W. Paid, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., and Mr. Davidson the runner-up prize, a silver vase, donated by Pearson & Crane, jewelers. T. Edwin Norris, of Mount Vernon Savings Bank, won over W. B. Robinson, Bank of Brightwood, in the contest for a third prize.

Out of the combined scores of the qualifying rounds and the first round of match play, the following team of eight was selected for a match with the Baltimore Chapter at some future date: W. B. Robinson, Patrick T. Cook, Riggs National Bank; Nathan Poole, Federal-American National Bank; George P. Grau, jr., Donald Jones, Union Trust Co.; Thomas J. Davidson, T. Edwin Norris, and Aubrey O. Dooley, Federal-American National Bank.

Man's Acid-Seared Corpse Identified

Minnesota Police Believe Illinoisan Was Slain by Gangsters.

Lake City, Minn., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The acid-seared body of a man found at Lake Pepin yesterday was identified late today as that of Hugh Rausch, alias Harry Hauser, 30, Rockford, Ill. Police believed he was slain by gangsters.

The man had registered at the bathing beach Tuesday as "Harry Hauser."

Examination of the body today failed to reveal evidence of drowning. Marks found on the body were first believed to be buckshot wounds, but later were thought to be acid burns which authorities said probably were inflicted before the victim was thrown into the water. A more complete examination will be made at an inquest tomorrow.

Dual Network to Carry Lindbergh's Air Debut

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A great network of broadcast stations will present Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his first prepared radio talk tomorrow night.

His subject will be "International Aviation." The combined networks of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. will be used.

Coast Rediscount Rate Cut.

San Francisco, Calif., Aug 7 (A.P.).—The rediscount rate of the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank will be reduced tomorrow to 3½ per cent from the 4 per cent rate in effect since last March 21. The reduction was announced today by Isaac B. Newton, chairman of the board.

Warner Preferred Dividend Declared

No Action Taken on Common Stock Disbursement, Due Now.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.—Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., today took no action on the common dividend due at this time. The regular quarterly disbursement of 55 cents a share on the preferred was declared payable September 1 to stock of record August 18.

Wall street had understood for some time that rapid expansion and rather disappointing earnings during the summer months had depleted the company's cash, and that the common quarterly payment of $1 would be reduced or passed. Officials of the company declined to comment on the company's affairs. It had also been rumored in Wall street that the election of John J. Raskob as chairman of the board of directors might be among today's announcements, but nothing could be learned as to whether such a development was in prospect.

The present common stock was created by a two-for-one splitup in July, 1929, and was placed on a $3 annual dividend last September, when an extra of 12½ cents was paid in addition to a regular disbursement of 75 cents. The rate was increased to $4 annually last December.

Rubber Company Loses $2,797,403

United States Concern Has Setback for First Half of 1930.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—United States Rubber Co. today reported net loss of $2,797,403 for the first six months. In the corresponding period last year there was net income of $568,641, equal to 87 cents a share on the preferred. Net sales for the half year amounted to $75,206,983, against $86,073,346 a year ago.

Interest on the funded debt was $2,904,299 and provision for plant depreciation totaled $3,730,793, an increase of $563,356 over the sum provided for the same account the first half of 1929. The company's plantations had a loss approximating $350,000. Retirements in the funded debt during the period aggregated $2,983,000.

The report said that a large number of small companies and three factories had been sold and that arrangements had been made for closing five more plants "in accordance with the plans to concentrate the manufacturing operations of the company."

Current assets as of June 30 were $122,792,373 against current liabilities of $36,638,094.

Curb Review

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Bears hammered at the utilities, oils and specialties in further listless trading in today's curb market. Losses of a point or two were numerous among the more active issues, but there were a few isolated firm spots. Transfers totaled 387,900 shares.

Electric Bond & Share was subjected to considerable selling, and sagged below 80, but it closed at 80¼, off little more than a point. It returned to its old role of most active issue. American Gas & Electric, recent firm spot, dropped about 2½ points, then reduced its loss to ⅞. United Light A, Niagara Hudson and Middle West Utilities sagged fractionally. Bears who have been selling the utilities on the basis of rate reductions now point to the possible influences of the drought on hydroelectric plants, but utility executives express little if any concern.

Power Securities second preferred was a firm spot, jumping about 6 points in response to the exchange offer of Electric Power & Light preferred.

The oil issues were not helped by the statement of President Teagle, of Standard of New Jersey, that production and refining must be curtailed further before the industry can be regarded as definitely stabilized.

Cosden was a soft spot, dropping more than 3 points. It was influenced primarily by announcement of a new stock offering. It is understood the proceeds will be used for expansion of marketing facilities and construction of a tidewater refinery. Vacuum dropped 2 points. Humble and Cities Service eased fractionally. Gulf was inactive.

In the aviation issues Aviation Corporation of the Americas dropped 3 points in light trading, but Detroit Aircraft was active and firm in response to rumors regarding its new "mystery" ship which is soon to be announced.

Ford, Ltd., was an active feature of the industrials, but continued to meet profit-taking, and closed off a fraction. Deere was still under pressure, sagging a point to another new low. Bastian Blessing and Brown Fence A were among comparatively inactive issues to touch new bottoms.

Ulen & Co. was dull and lost a fraction, although it was announced after the close that application had been made to transfer it to the big board, which is often preceded by a bullish demonstration. Firm spots were Midvale Co. and Celluloid Co., which shot up about 2 and nearly 4 points in a few sales.

Investment Co. issues were somewhat unsettled by a further sag into new low ground by Goldman Sachs, which touched 16¼. Movements in this group, however, were mostly fractional.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CHERRYDALE CLERIC TO PRAY FOR RAIN

Rev. Elmer Lucas to Seek Cooperation of Pastors on Proposition.

TAX BOARD MEETS DAILY

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Rev. Elmer Lucas, pastor of the Cherrydale Baptist Church and president of the Arlington County Ministerial Union, last night issued an appeal to all Christian people of the county and country at large to offer prayer for immediate relief.

"I shall, as president of the union in Arlington County, call upon all local pastors to hold special services in their respective churches where prayers may be offered for immediate relief," he said.

Returning to his home in Cherrydale last night from Middleburg, Va., he stated that acres of farm land with crops are ruined from lack of rain. In many places along the road farmers were in their fields cutting down what corn was left and storing it away for winter use.

Recognizing the magnitude of their work, the recently appointed Arlington County Board of Tax Equalization will hold meetings in the courthouse each morning at 10 o'clock, according to an announcement made yesterday by Chairman Emery N. Hosmer.

Meeting yesterday with County Commissioner of Revenue Harry K. Green, the commission formulated plans for a comprehensive survey of the county for the purpose of equalizing the tax assessment of the county.

From the records in the county clerk's office the State Corporation Commission has granted two charters. One is to the Grinder Tract, Inc., with principal offices at Clarendon, Arlington County.

According to the charter the purpose of the company will be to carry on a general real estate business.

The maximum capital to be $300,000.

The officers are Avon M. Nevius, president; Bessie Christian, vice president, and Glen M. Gifford, secretary-treasurer. The above-named officers to constitute the board of directors.

The second charter has been granted to the Northern Virginia Construction Co., Inc., with its principal office located at Clarendon, Arlington County.

The charter provides for the company to carry on a business as builders and contractors.

The maximum capital stock, according to the charter, shall be 1,000 shares of stock with no par value.

The officers are A. F. Campbell, president; H. L. Harris, vice president, and John H. Olcott, secretary-treasurer. The above-named officers to constitute the board of directors.

Despite the intense heat of yesterday, the Arlington County Monarch Club held a largely attended meeting in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse, with President A. B. Honts presiding.

A request was received from Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare of Arlington County, to aid in the keeping of a 7-year-old child in a sanatorium. The club unanimously approved appropriation of funds for a period covering one month. It was pointed out that other organizations in the county are assisting in aiding the unfortunate child.

Announcement was made that plans for a joint meeting with the Washington club are now being made. It is expected the meeting will be held early in September. A feature of the meeting will be a lecture by Dr. Sexton on mountain conditions in the country.

Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, of Arlington, left last night for Charlottesville, Va., where she will attend the conference of the Institute of Public Affairs. Mrs. Cannon was appointed delegate from Arlington County by Gov. John Garland Pollard. Mrs. Alice S. Semones and Mrs. Julian D. Simpson, also delegates, left on Wednesday.

Owing to the opening of the annual convention and jubilee of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association on Monday night, August 11, the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Clarendon Fire Department scheduled for Tuesday night, August 12, has been postponed until Tuesday night, August 19, according to an announcement made yesterday by the president, Mrs. Louis C. Carl.

The Arlington County Civic Federation at its meeting held last night in the Lyon Park Community House acted upon recommendations made by Delegate Thomas Mechem, of Lyon Park, in calling attention to citizens of the county that much care should be exercised in the burning of trash, owing to shortage of water in hundreds of wells in sections of the county where extensions of the county water system have not been made.

Robert N. Anderson, chairman of the special committee which is making a study into the forms of county government as provided in the acts of the Legislature giving Arlington County the right to change its present form, reported that the committee has made much progress and that its final report will be ready to submit at the September meeting.

While the committee has yet to arrive at a definite decision it is learned that a majority of the committee favors the commission form of county government with a county manager.

Virginia Captures Alleged Auto Thieves

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 7.—A complete set of tools for changing engine numbers and three cars, all of the same model, recently stolen in Maryland, were recovered near here last night by P. L. Thornton, of the motor vehicle department. Two men, Eddie Dodson, of Madison, and George Lee, alias George Smith, alias Frank Lee, were arrested at the time the cars were found.

One car was dismantled, preparatory to switching the body and wheels to another of the stolen cars, Thornton stated, and on the others the numbers had been tampered with. The men were lodged in the Culpeper jail, where they will remain until claimed by Maryland authorities who have been notified.

Shoe Company to Cut Wages.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 7 (Special).—The pay of 3,000 employes of the Craddock-Terry Shoe Co. here will be cut September 1. Higher officials and directors will be cut 20 per cent, other officials and department heads 15 per cent, and workers 10 per cent.

Front Royal Plans New Water Supply

Work Started on Piping Between Shenandoah River and Town.

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., Aug. 6.—At a special meeting of the town council held here it was decided that the town would get water from the Shenandoah River to augment the present water supply which is derived from mountain streams.

A contract was entered into with a Richmond, Va., firm to lay two miles of pipe from the Shenandoah River near the Norfolk & Western depot to the filtration plant east of town. An electric motor of sufficient capacity to supply 800,000 gallons daily will be installed. Work has already started and is expected to be completed in 10 days.

Despite reports to the contrary, the town of Front Royal has not been without water at any time. The new town manager, L. B. Dutrow, has arrived and assumed his duties.

HORSE SHOW PLANS IN BERRYVILLE TOLD

Clarke County Event Promises to Be Brilliant Fete Later in Month.

WATER SUPPLY ASSURED

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 7.—With the hunters classes filling up rapidly and most of the stalls already engaged, plans for the twenty-ninth annual show of the Clarke County Horse and Colt Show Association which will be held the twenty-first and twenty-second of this month are rapidly taking shape.

Private boxes, of which there are 34, have nearly all been claimed and there is a long list of those waiting to take up any that are dropped. This show, which is one of the largest in the State, is held in the beautiful oak grove on the grounds of the association just outside of town and as there are several large never-failing wells on this property there will be no shortage of water.

There will be 29 classes so divided and arranged as to give two full days with five big races each day, while the consolation will be added the last day of the show. More than $3,000 has been offered in premiums this year and all races carry the usual generous purses. There will be many competitors this year for the medal offered by the Virginia Horse Breeders Association for yearling colts bred in Virginia and Jefferson County, W. Va., suitable to become hunters.

The feature event this year is the Corinthian class in which the winner will be awarded the association plate offered for the first time, which must be won twice by the same owner to secure permanent possession.

Officers of this association are R. Powell Page, president; John T. Lindsey, vice president; A. B. Hummer, secretary-treasurer, and J. H. Bell, manager. Directors are J. T. Lindsey, F. V. Tilford, H. C. Warden, E. A. Lindsey, G. H. Burwell, K. N. Gilpin, J. H. Bell, Dr. L. M. Allen, Ewart Johnston, G. H. Levi and W. Lodge Bowles.

Baptists, in Session, Reelect Moderator

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Aug. 7.—O. L. Emerick, of Purcellville, was reelected moderator at the seventy-fifth annual session of the Potomac Baptist Association, which was held in the Long Branch Baptist Church, Fauquier County, yesterday. C. Wirt Trainham, of Marshall, was reelected clerk; G. L. Hutchison, of Little River, assistant clerk, and G. Harris Fields, of Long Branch, treasurer.

The program today consisted of reports of the various departments of work; an address by Mrs. Jennifer Broaddus, of Del Ray; an address by the Rev. Charles T. Herndon, of Warrenton, and an address by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis.

Couple Seeks Adoption Of Two Minor Children

Prentice E. Edrington, jr., senior attorney in the office of the judge advocate general of the United States Navy, and his wife, Mrs. Dorothea G. Edrington, both of 2900 Connecticut avenue northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to permit them to adopt Prentice Gillespie, 7 years old, and Shannon Gillespie, 6 years old.

Both children were born in New Orleans and previously had been adopted by Mrs. Paula Gillespie, according to the petition, which is filed by Mr. Edrington in proper person. The petition sets out that the children have resided for a long time in the Edrington home and that both the husband and the wife have become attached to them. The court is asked to change the names of the children to Prentice Ellis Edrington 3d and Shannon Lee Edrington.

Sisters Sue for $60,000 Auto-Collision Damages

Two sisters, Florence G. Smith and Margaret Smith, both of 83 U street northwest, appeared yesterday as plaintiffs in suits filed against the Black and White Taxi Co. and the William C. Robinson & Son Co., of 1404 New York avenue northwest, for a total of $60,000 damages.

Miss Florence Smith asks $35,000 damages while her sister asks $25,000. Each alleges she was permanently injured as a result of a collision between a taxicab in which they were passengers and an automobile truck belonging to the other defendant. The accident, which occurred last October 21, is said to have occurred at Second street and Maryland avenue northeast. Both sisters are represented by Attorneys Peelle, Ogilby & Lesh and Jerome P. Barnard.

Child Reported Typhus Victim.

Another case of typhus in the District was reported to the Health Department yesterday. Allan Curry, 11 years old, residing at 3316 Brothers place southeast, was reported suffering from the disease. The child is under treatment in Providence Hospital, it was reported.

ALEXANDRIA WANTS BIDS FOR GAS PLANT

Council Keeps Right to Get Voters' Approval Before Selling System.

RAIN TEST IS POSTPONED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

At a special meeting of the city council yesterday a resolution was adopted calling for bids to be opened at 3 o'clock September 11, for the sale of the city gas developing and storage plant and distribution system and a franchise for its operation. The resolution provides that the city will reserve the right to reject any or all bids, and also the right, should it determine to do so, to submit the matter of the sale to the people of Alexandria for a vote either at a special election or the general election in November.

The resolution also provides that should the gas plant be sold the purchase price shall be placed in the hands of trustees to be named by the council, seven-eighths of the price to be used to retire outstanding bonds of the city and the remaining one-eighth to be used for either or both of two purposes—first, as a reserve fund to meet the general expenses of the city when needed, this money to be paid back into the reserve from the municipal income; and, second, to be expended for permanent improvements, such as otherwise would require the issuance of bonds.

Councilman Ticer attempted to have the resolution amended so as to make the provision for submitting the matter to the voters mandatory, but was overruled, and the resolution as adopted merely provides that the council may, if it sees fit, refer the matter to a vote. Councilman Ticer then served notice that he would not vote for the sale of the property without submitting the matter to a vote.

The gas property is one of the most valuable assets of the city, and is of much greater value now than before the annexation proceedings, which gave the city a greatly extended territory.

Tentative offers for the plant have been made from time to time for several years past, and the last State Legislature, by request of the city council, passed a bill giving the council the right to submit the question of sale to a popular vote, which it did not heretofore have authority to do. The general impression prevailed that the act in question took from the council the right to sell without a referendum vote, but this was in error, the council having the right to determine which method shall be adopted, it is held.

A resolution also was introduced, and held over under the rules, providing for a temporary loan of $100,000, to meet the current general expenses of the city, in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Pending the arrival of 200 pounds of "rain-making powder" from Santa Fe, N. M., the movement launched by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, to puncture the clouds with the substance in the hope of causing a much-needed rain has been postponed until Monday. It was stated by Mr. Hollenga yesterday that the powder was shipped by express from Santa Fe Wednesday night.

On Monday a man in an airplane will spray the clouds as he passes over Alexandria and the citizens will have an opportunity to see whether the community will get rain. The novel suggestion has aroused great interest.

Commander Howard L. Arnold, of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, has received a letter from State Adjutant W. Glenn Elliott stating that he has sent to Russell Cook, director of the National Americanism Commission at the national headquarters of the American Legion, a report of the community service and post activities of Alexandria Post, with a strong recommendation that national headquarters give special recognition to the Alexandria Post, saying there are few posts with a better record for community service.

The Alexandria Water Co., in spite of the long-continued drought, has a six months' supply of water on hand in its storage reservoirs, according to Urgan S. Lambert, president of the company. Mr. Lambert stated yesterday that so far the company has not found it necessary to restrict in any way the use of water.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, on behalf of the chamber, issued an appeal to water users to conserve the supply and refrain from the willful wasting of water during the drought.

In police court yesterday, Policeman Charles Miller displayed an injured wrist, which was bitten, he said, by Millie Bergan, Negress, whom he had placed under arrest for disorderly conduct and fighting. When he attempted to take her upstairs in police headquarters, to the women's quarters, she resisted, and in the ensuing scuffle the baluster railing was broken, and the woman fastened her teeth in the officer's wrist, according to him. The use of a blackjack decided the issue in Miller's favor and the woman was locked up. She was acquitted of the charge by Justice Snow.

Faith Banks, Negress, arraigned in police court on a charge of loitering, was acquitted. Justice Snow informing Policeman Curtis, who made the arrest, that when a person moves on after being warned of loitering by an officer, no arrest should be made.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Moore, 53 years old, of Burke Station, Va., died at the Alexandria Hospital Wednesday night. She is survived by her husband, Samuel A. Moore, and several children. The body was taken to Wheatley's mortuary chapel, where funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning by the Rev. Dr. E. U. Register, presiding elder of the Alexandria District of the M. E. Church South. Burial will be at Burkeville.

Mrs. Mary E. Baggett, widow of Edward B. Baggett, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Moriarty, 713 King street. The body was taken to Cunningham's funeral home, where funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Man Parades in Shorts.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Prince Pani, a midget who is passing the summer in Parkersburg, claims the distinction of being the first man to wear shorts in streets of this city and the only man to get away with it. He attracted little attention, however, since most passersby took him for a small boy appropriately attired for hot weather.

DERWOOD TAXPAYER FILES PRINTING SUIT

RETURNABLE AUGUST 28

Suit was filed in equity court in Rockville, Md., yesterday by Walter W. Mobley, a taxpayer of Derwood, Md., to recover all money paid to the Maryland Publishing Co. on order of the Montgomery County Commissioners since August, 1927.

Mobley alleges violation of trust and illegal disbursement of public funds, and requests an accounting and seeks to hold the commissioners liable as individuals.

The suit was the sequel to a letter written to the commissioners Saturday by Mobley threatening a taxpayer's suit unless a satisfactory answer was received by August 6 to his demand that the commissioners reimburse the county for money reported to approximate $25,000 paid to the publishing company for public printing and advertising.

In his bill Mr. Mobley included a prayer that the commissioners be enjoined from including in the 1930 tax levy any sum due or alleged to be due from Montgomery County to the Maryland Publishing Co.

The present situation is a development from the charge that any money paid by the county to the publishing company was an illegal obligation for the reason that four of the county commissioners were stockholders in the company, whereas the State statutes prohibit county commissioners from letting contracts to any company or organization in which they are interested financially.

Mr. Mobley filed a bill in equity on July 7 seeking to enjoin the commissioners from any further dealings with the company. Yesterday's action was in the form of an amendment to this original injunction proceeding. Judge Robert B. Peter signed the order to amend and set August 28 as the final day when the defendants may appear in court and answer the action. Process must be served on them by August 14.

The section of the Maryland code upon which Mr. Mobley's action is based makes it an indictable offense for any county commissioners to let contracts to companies from which they hope to derive profits, and renders them liable to removal from office.

On July 16 the four commissioners returned their stocks to the company, and three of them resigned from its directorate. Judge Peter thereupon refused to grant the injunction.

The formal answer filed by the defendants stated also that the Maryland Publishing Co. had canceled all outstanding debts owed to it by the county.

The four commissioners named as defendants by Mr. Mobley are Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, Lacy Shaw, Claggett C. Hilten and Robert L. Hickerson as former stockholders in the Maryland Publising Co., while the first three also were directors. The suit also names the fifth commissioner, Downey M. Williams, as a defendant and recovery also is sought from him.

The suit charges that the interest of the four commissioners in the company renders all contracts between it and the county illegal and consequently void. It is charged further that Vivian Simpson and Harold C. Smith, of counsel for the complainant, made demands on State Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, attorney for the commissioners, to recover the money, but that both officials refused to act.

The suit also alleges fraud and violation of trust in refusal of the commissioners to permit county advertising in another newspaper on the ground that it opposed them politically.

The plea is made that unless the court takes jurisdiction in the case the plaintiff and many other taxpayers similarly situated will suffer irreparable loss in that money collected from taxes will have been paid out upon an illegal and void contract to the injury of the taxpayers.

Court Bailiff Indorses Rolled-Down Stockings

Special to The Washington Post.

Princeton, W. Va., Aug. 7.—Two bare-legged women who dropped into the Mercer County courthouse to hear a murder trial were ordered out of the room by a deputy sheriff when he noticed that they wore no stockings.

But, when the same women returned presently with hose on but rolled down to their ankles, they were permitted to remain.

Smithsonian Gets 1825 Stage Coach

Century-Old Relic Placed Beside Lindbergh's Famous Plane.

A century apart in age, separated now by only a few feet, a rare old Concord stage coach of 1825 vintage creaked to a final resting place yesterday in the Smithsonian Institution beside Lindbergh's famous plane.

With its red plush upholstery badly worn, its paint peeling from its wheels and still battling the ravages of time, the relic rolled proudly through the streets to end a voyage from San Francisco, where it had been placed on an Army transport at the insistence of the museum and handled as though it had been a jewel. Long has the institution sought an early vehicle of this type.

A year ago museum officials saw the picturesque coach, the possession of Fred Stone, the actor, who later gave it to Will Rogers. After entreaties, the coach was a month ago made a present to the museum, and it lost no time in seeking its removal here. Now the institution is striving to obtain from the two famous stage stars a more complete history of the relic than is borne on its side in brass plates, Ge. Gerald, Blacksmith, oOncord, 1825."

FIRST LADY ARRIVES TO DEDICATE BRIDGE

Sleeps in Tent at New Girl Scout Camp in Blue Ridge Mountains.

RIVER SPAN IS HER GIFT

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, arriving on the scene early last night, slept in a specially prepared tent at the Girl Scout May Flather Camp, 15 miles from Harrisonburg, Va., where today she will dedicate a foot bridge over Little River, which runs through the camp.

Funds from Mrs. Hoover provided this bridge at the scout camp and several hundred girls, officials of the Washington scout organization and national leaders of the Girl Scout movement will be present today when the First Lady dedicates her gift.

Mrs. Hoover spent Wednesday at the President's Rapidan camp and late yesterday afternoon drove over to the scout camp. She was accompanied by Mrs. Stark McMullin, of Palo Alto, Calif., who has been her guest at the White House for several weeks.

Late today, following the ceremonies at the camp at 2:30 o'clock, Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. McMullin will be joined by the President and his week-end party at the Rapidan camp.

This is the first summer that the Girl Scouts have encamped in the Blue Ridge Mountains and scout officials are enthusiastic over the success which has marked the move. The camp has never been officially dedicated and ceremonies to do so are planned today, in addition to the dedication of the bridge by Mrs. Hoover.

Miss Dorothy Green, scout director in Washington, is in charge of the program.

Huntington Publisher Killed in Car Smashup

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—William F. Hite, prominent resident of Huntington, W. Va., where he is a banker, newspaper owner, and leading figure in the coal-mining industry, was killed here today when his sedan and a lumber truck collided. Mr. Hite was at one time a candidate for United States senator from West Virginia.

Mrs. Hite was badly injured, but it is believed that she will recover. The Hites have a summer home at New Castle, N. H.

Joseph Evans Sperry, Noted Architect, Dies

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Joseph Evans Sperry, architect, who designed some of the outstanding buildings in the city, died last night at the age of 76.

Mr. Sperry was born at Georgetown, S. C., and came to Baltimore in 1868. He designed many of the buildings of Johns Hopkins Hospital and University and the Union Memorial Hospital. His widow, who was Miss Lee Wilson, of Virginia, whom he married in 1888, survives.

HUGE STILL SEIZED IN PRINCE GEORGES

1,000-Gallon Outfit Falls Into Hands of Police; Man Arrested.

RUM AND MASH TAKEN

One of the largest stills ever captured in Prince Georges County fell into the hands of police late yesterday afternoon when a 1,000-gallon layout was seized in a raid on a farm owned by Buck Hamilton on Crane highway near Mariboro.

County Policemen V. M. Nichols and Harry Robinson and Deputy Sheriff A. W. Hepburn conducted the raid, in which one man was arrested. The prisoner, police said, was a foreigner and apparently unable even to tell his own name. He is being held in the county jail at Mariboro.

Thirty mash kegs, 25 gallons of whisky in cases, eight 5-gallon cans of liquor and various other equipment for manufacture of illicit beverages also were taken in the raid. Police reported that the liquor captured tested 120 proof, as compared to the average run of corn liquor, which tests only about 100 proof.

About 300 boys and girls are to start the annual State encampment of Maryland 4-H Clubs at the University of Maryland today. The camp will continue until August 11.

James T. Colston, colored, of Linden place northeast, Washington, was fined $150 and sentenced to twelve months in the House of Correction by Judge S. Chew Sheriff in police court at Capitol Heights, Md., yesterday on charges growing out of an automobile accident in Capitol Heights on August 3.

A car driven by Colston collided with one operated by John K. Hill, of Capitol Heights, turning it over and damaging it badly. Colston pleaded guilty to driving while drunk and reckless driving, and not guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He was found guilty of all three charges, however, and fined $100 on the first and $25 on each of the two latter.

The board of commissioners of Prince Georges County will hold a public hearing on September 16 on the proposal to amend the county zoning ordinance by eliminating the present provision requiring applicants for zoning reclassification to have the consent of 35 per cent of residents of their vicinity.

Approval of the proposed change was expressed by the commissioners following a conference with officials of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission Tuesday, and unless cause is shown at the hearing next month, the amended zoning law will become effective on that date.

A public hearing will be held in Marlboro by the Prince Georges County commissioners on September 9, when applications for two changes in zoning classification will be decided.

T. N. Mohler, sr., has applied for reclassification of his property at the northeast corner of Tuxedo and Moehler roads, about 1,000 feet from River road, from residential to commercial. The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission has disapproved the request on the ground that the property between Moehler and River roads is chiefly acreage given over to truck, and is not sufficiently built up to warrant commercial zoning.

The commission, however, has recommended that the county commissioners grant a petition of J. H. Augustine for rezoning from residential to commercial of his property on Defense highway adjacent to the junction of Landover road.

Support of the commissioners of Prince Georges County was given to Sergt. H. G. Machen, of the county police force, who has refused to obey an order from Sheriff Charles S. Early suspending him from duty.

Sergt. Machen has contended that the sheriff has no authority to suspend him as he was appointed by the commissioners. In a letter to Sheriff Early yesterday, the commissioners stated that their attorney, M. Hampton Magruder, had advised that the police law of the county does not give the sheriff authority to suspend any county officer.

Sheriff Early had suspended Machen about two weeks ago for alleged insurbordination. His action was based upon a section of the police law which states that police officers "shall at all times be under the supervision and direction of the sheriff."

Sheriff Early claimed that Sergt. Machen had left the county without notifying him. Machen, a Hyattsville automobile dealer, also is active in county politics, being a member of the Democratic State central committee.

Six more Democratic and five Republican candidates have filed for various offices to be filled in the coming primary and general elections in Prince Georges County, it was reported yesteerday by Samuel A. Wyvill, secretary to the Board of Election supervisors.

Three of the Democrats, Arthur W. Hepburn, of Brentwood; John J. Fink, of Berwyn; and P. Frank Tippett, of Cheltonhom, are campaigning for the office of sheri, now illed by Charles S. Early. Hepburn now is deputy sheriff, while Fink, who helud the office just prior to Sheriff Early, also was secretary to the Board of Election Supervisors for 8 years.

William P. Magruder, of Hyattsville, and a former mayor of that town, has filed for county commissioner, which ofice he also held in ormer years. The fifth Democrat to file is Millard Thorne, of Piscataway, who is seeking reelection as judge of thee Orphans' Court. He was a justice of the peace for 28 years, a member of the State legislature in 1910, transfer clerk from 1910 to 1916, and worked in the assessor's and treasurer's office from 1917 to 1922. He is a surveyor.

Among the Republicans, J. Frank Parran, of Brandywine, filed for reelection as Stat's attorney. For 20 years he was State's Attorney of Calvert County, after which he was elected twice to the State Senate from that county.

A. E. Burgess, of Hyaftsville; Leroy Gash, of Bladensburg, and Milton Botts, of Glenn Dale, filed for the Republican State central committee. R. O. Hall, jr., of Upper Marlboro, and Bird H. Dolby, corporation counsel, of Mount Rainier, filed for the House of Delegates on the Republican ticket. Dolby is former president of the Mount Rainier Citizens' Association and was one of the organizers of the Prince George County Municipal Association.

The closing hour for bowling alleys in Mount Rainier, Md., was extended one hour from midnight to 1 a. m. yesterday when the mayor and council at their meeting adopted a revised bowling alley ordinance. Alleys still must close at midnight on Saturdays, however.

Construction of a sidewalk from mThirty-third street, parallel with Rhode Island avenue, east to Thirty-fourth street to the end of the triangle and connection with the present sidewalk on Perry street was authorized at the meeting.

With two exceptions, the assessments determined some time ago were ratified and confirmed. The assessment of property of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. was reduced to $10,000, and that of the Potomac Electric Power Co. to $13,342.

The Laurel, Md., fire department will hold its annual carnival next week, starting Monday. Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, has consented to speak on the carnival grounds Thursday night.

Cubbage Feasted By Hill Neighbors

Aged Man's Return Home After Acquittal Brings Many Ovations.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Aug. 7.—The series of ovations that awaited Jacob Cubbage, 80, when he returned from Luray, where he had been acquitted in the Page County court yesterday of the murder of his grandson, Fred Cubbage, was continued today throughout "Cubbage Hollow," his old home. The aged man arrived at his old home in Cubbage Hollow at a late hour Tuesday evening.

Cubbage was conveyed from Luray in an automobile as far as the car could negotiate the heavy grade leading to Cubbage Hollow. Friends had gathered at the old man's home.

Today an old-time dinner was given for Cubbage at his old home, neighbor women coming in to prepare the meal. Yesterday Cubbage was piloted and almost carried to other homes in Cubbage Hollow. At each place pies, cakes, cookies and lemonade awaited the slayer.

BYRD MONTICELLO GUEST TOMORROW

Admiral's North and South Pole Explorations to Be Honored at Reception.

WELCOME BY GOVERNOR

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 7.—Arrangements have been completed for the reception to Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, Saturday afternoon, when the honorary title of "Thomas Jefferson Guest at Monticello" will be bestowed upon the Virginian "in honor of his outstanding service of discovery and exploration at both the North and South Poles."

The reception is planned in connection with the Institute of Public Affairs, now in session at the University of Virginia, and is sponsored by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, of which Stuart G. Gibboney, of New York, is president.

Schedule for Trip.

Admiral Byrd will leave Washington for Charlottesville at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Southern Railway train No. 135, and will arrive here shortly before noon. The trip from the Capital will be made in a special car provided by the railway authorities.

The reception at the home of Jefferson will be held at 3 o'clock and will be open to the public. Mr. Gibboney will introduce Gov. John Pollard, who will extend the welcome to Admiral Byrd on behalf of Virginia and the reception committee of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation. The greeting on behalf of the University of Virginia will be extended by its president, Dr. Edwin A. Alderman.

Other Welcomes Planned.

Further welcomes will be extended to Admiral Byrd by Dr. Charles G. Maphis, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, and Dr. George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education of New York and chairman of the National Monticello Bond Committee, on behalf of the school children of America.

Joseph Miller, jr., chariman of the National Educational Committee of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation, will explain the scroll of honor and announce that the national contest among school children will be extended to December 15, and that the presentaton to Admiral Byrd will be arranged at a suitable time thereafter.

At 8 o'clock in the evening Admiral Byrd will be introduced at a public meeting of the Institute of Public Affairs, to be held at the McIntire Amphitheater at the University.

U. S. Aid Undertakes Tobacco Insects' Study

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 7.—A laboratory for the study of tobacco insects has been established here by W. D. Reed, associate entomologist of the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Studies of the life history of tobacco insects and ways of controlling them are being undertaken with a view to assisting tobacco men in fumigation problems. The work will cover the bright leaf territory.

Ocean City Is Puzzled Over Whale Disposal

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—What to do with the carcass of a 52-foot whale washed ashore near the North Beach Coast Guard Station was a problem facing city and county officials today. The last time a whale came ashore near here, several years ago, disposal of the carcass was a big job. Dynamite first was used, but this method scattered the mammal over the roofs of houses and had to be abandoned.

Finally the creature was cut into pieces which could be tied to seagoing motorboats and these were taken to sea and sunk.

Lynchburg Sets Radio Fee.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 7 (Special).—H. F. Johnson, city electrician, has advised radio dealers here that in the future all radio installations will be inspected by the electrical department, for which a charge of $1 is made. Permits will not be required for installations when a set is connected to an inside aerial or is plugged into an already existing receptacle.
